LONDON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Bomb-den, cannon-toting British fighters, reaking across the English Channel our after hour today, maintained the ace of what has become probably the . A. F.'s supreme offensive of the ar.

The full scope of the sweep was at-ained during last night when hun-reds of bombers thundered against e Continent, from Oslo, Norway, to rindisi, Italy, and for hours held erlin under a tempest of fire and plosions.

But Germany exacted a high price. erman reports said that 14 of Brit-s fighters were downed in fierce mbat today near Calais, on the ench coast, in addition to British-knowledged losses of 37 bombers, in-ding huge four-motored Stirlings d Halifaxes, and about 200 airmen, last night's attack through shell-lled skies and ice-forming fogs.

ALL-WAY CONVOY SOON PREDICTED

celand Is Designated As Full-Fledged Naval Operating Base

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—De-ignation of Iceland as a fullfledged aval operating base stirred conjecture onight that extension of American aval patrols and convoy escorts all he way to Britain was imminent.

Secretary Knox assigned Rear Ad-miral James L. Kauffman, 54-year-old eteran of World war convoy battles gainst submarines, to command of the celand base.

The announcement followed by a day the senate's vote to permit American flag vessels to go into belligerent, meaning especially British, ports. While the house has yet to act, authorities forecast that if cargo vessels are permitted to make the whole trip to England they will travel routes protected by American warships.

Should the Atlantic fleet add this job to its present assignment of guarding the sea lanes between American and Iceland, the island outpost would become the scene of even more intense military and naval operations than it has experienced since American forces moved in four months ago.

Such intensive development of the place had not previously been indi-,

F. D. R. PROCLAIMS THANKSGIVING DAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today proclaimed Thursday, November 20, as Thanksgiving day and asked the American people to observe it with prayers for "a speedy end to strife and the establishment on earth of Freedom, brotherhood, and justice for enduring time."

It was his third and final setting of Thanksgiving a week earlier than customary. Next year the holiday will revert to its normal last Thursday in the month for the whole nation.

The president instituted the early observance in 1939 at the request of retail merchants who thought their Christmas business might pick up if there were a longer interval between Thanksgiving and December 25.

Several months ago the chief executive said that the merchants had discovered the change made no difference and that after 1941 the country could arrange its calendars and sports events for the single "last Thursday."

As in the last two years, not all states will observe the "Roosevelt Thanksgiving." Sixteen will cling to the traditional Turkey Day.

U. S. PLANNING ORIENT ACTION

Will Move Jointly With Britain To Strengthen Position There

By Richard L. Turner

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—It was learned on excellent authority today that plans are well advanced for an early and concerted action by Great Britain and the United States to strengthen their position in the orient.

Further, the program apparently is to be put into effect at about the time of the arrival of Saburo Kurusu, a special Japanese emissary who is bringing with him a list of proposals by the Tokyo government, to which have been attached some of the characteristics of an ultimatum. Kurusu is expected to arrive here next week-end.

The whole situation, and the plan which has been formulated were discussed exhaustively at yesterday's cabinet meeting, it was said. No one, however, would divulge the nature of what the two nations intend to do.

The gravity of the Japanese-American situation has been repeatedly emphasized in recent days by American officials.

Since moving into Indo-China, Japan has been under notice from this government and from Britain that they will not acquiesce in any further expansion of the Japanese domain. At the same time, Tokyo is committed before the Japanese people and the world to consolidate the orient into a Japanese-dominated economic sphere.

Efforts to bring the two nations into agreement, pursued here by Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura have been unsuccessful. Kurusu, a high-ranking diplomat, was dispatched to Washington several days ago to "assist" him.

Simultaneously the Japan Times and Advertiser, which is controlled by the Japanese foreign office, printed a list of seven demands upon the United States and added that this country must accept them or "face the alternatives." Most of these demands obviously are completely unacceptable here.

Some early action by the Washington government has been implicit in recent developments related to the orient. Two in particular were striking. In the first of these, the state department advised all American civilians in Guam to return to the United States.

The second, which came yesterday, aroused a round of conjecture whether

REPORT LEADERS SUPPORTING PLAN TO CURB STRIKES

Bridges Proposes To Require Secret Ballot Conducted By Board

PENALTY WOULD BE LOSS OF LABOR-LAW PROTECTION

Seeks To Apply Only In Cases Where Defense Work Involved

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—High defense officials were reported tonight to have given tacit backing to a proposal that defense strikes be forbidden unless approved in a secret ballot election by a majority of workers in a plant.

Senator Bridges of New Hampshire—a Republican who has supported the administration's foreign policies—disclosed that he had drafted for introduction in the senate Monday a bill including this idea.

Under its terms, unions would be required to register with the national labor relations board, file lists of their officers and furnish an accounting of their finances. Under penalty of suspension of their collective bargaining rights, the unions could not call strikes in defense industries until a majority of their members had voted in favor of such action in a secret ballot conducted by the board.

Bridges told reporters his proposal was calculated to curb strike interruptions in the production of essential war materials without infringing on the rights of the unions.

"It is in fact," he said, "a labor protective measure, because it does not deny the right to strike, but only makes it certain that a majority of the members of a union, voting in a fair, secret election, want to quit work."

He said the only penalties for failure to comply with proposed legislation were those denying to the labor union its right of collective bargaining under the national labor relations act and its protection against injunctions under the Norris-La Guardia act.

Few legislators thought that a proposal submitted by a Republican—even one who has given unfailing suppor to the Roosevelt defense and foreign policy steps—was likely to be adopted by the administration. But significance was attached to the fact that Bridges was reported to have discussed the legislation with high ad-

11,020,000-BALE CROP PREDICTED

Unfavorable Weather For Harvesting Causes 41,000 Cut In Estimate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Unfavorable harvesting weather during October in the extreme southern part of the cotton belt caused a 41,000-bale or $4,000,000 reduction in this year's cotton crop, the agriculture department reported today. Production was forecast at 11,020,000 bales.

This estimate, based upon conditions prevailing November 1, compared with an October 1 forecast of 11,061,000 bales. Production totaled 12,566,000 bales last year and 13,246,000 bales for the ten-year (1930-39) average of 13,246,000 bales.

A crop of the size indicated is upward of a million bales less than the quantity farm officials expect will be consumed and exported during the current marketing season. However,

Terrific Wave Of Upsets Topples Gridiron Greats

By Herb Barker

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The football season's first great wave of upsets swept Fordham, Army and Navy off the undefeated list today, saw Texas' powerful Longhorns inexplicably held to a 7-7 draw by Baylor, and left Minnesota, Duke, Texas A. and M. and Duquesne as the sole remaining major teams neither beaten nor tied.

Fordham's Rams, victorious in their first five tests and apparent sure shots for a bowl assignment, were victims of as great a form reversal as the game has seen. Matched with Pitt's de-emphasized Panthers who had lost five in a row, Fordham never could get organized against the aroused Panther and dropped a decisive 13-0 decision. Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones, fleet back, and Ralph Fife, crack guard, were heroes of the Pitt conquest, achieved before a slender crowd of 20,000.

There was no great surprise in the defeat of both service elevens although most football critics felt Army's finely drilled eleven finally would crack Harvard's defense. It didn't work out that way, for Army scored early in the ball game but Harvard, its offense clicking for the first time this season, pushed over three touchdowns and won easily, 20-6.

Navy, tied by Harvard earlier in the season but otherwise all-victorious, gave Notre Dame a great test before 65,000 in Baltimore but succumbed to Angelo Bertelli's accurate passing, 20-13 in a brilliant game.

Texas' disappointing stalemate with Baylor came close to the Pitt upset for sheer surprise. Baylor had been beaten three times, bowing 48-0 to Texas A. and M. for instance, while Texas had scored not less than 34 points in any of its six previous starts. Today the Longhorns were disorganized from the start although it was not until the fourth quarter that Baylor finally pushed over the equalizing touchdown.

Of the four major teams still unbeaten and tied, Duquesne was idle today in preparation for its meeting tomorrow with St. Mary's of California. Duke, almost certain to wind up unbeaten, toyed with Davidson,

Hitler Says Navy To Fire On U. S. Ships Only When Attacked

States Officer Who Fails To Shoot Will Be Court-Martialed

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler declared tonight in reply to President Roosevelt's Navy day challenge that he had ordered the German navy to fire on American ships only after being attacked, but that any officer who then failed to fire would be court-martialed.

In apparent answer to President Roosevelt's assertion that "all that will matter is who fired the last shot," Hitler said that no matter how long the war lasts "the last battalion on the field will be German."

The first direct reply to the American president from the fuehrer was made in a Munich beer hall anniversary speech.

He declared that Germany would choke off Russia and defied Britain to attempt an invasion of the west. His armies, he said, could defend Germany and all of Europe despite American "threats and plans for gigantic armament."

He referred to "constantly renewed threats from America" and repeated a warning made a year ago that any enemy ships carrying war material would be torpedoed.

Hitler said the Russians had sustained casualties totalling at least 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 men and that already 3,600,000 Red army prisoners have been captured.

He placed Russian losses in equipment at 15,000 planes, more than 22,000 tanks and more than 27,000 guns.

"The entire industry of the world," he said, could only slowly replace these gigantic losses and "the industry of our democracies in any case cannot replace it in the next year."

Hitler returned dramatically from the eastern front to address brown-shirted ranks of the Nazi old guard assembled in the historic Munich Buergerbrau beer cellar to celebrate

LARGEST FLYING BOAT LAUNCHED

Craft Capable Of Flying To Europe And Back Without Stop

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The world's largest flying boat, 140,000 pounds of winged might capable of flying to Europe and back without a stop, was launched today with full naval ceremony, an honor heretofore reserved for the men o'war of Uncle Sam's navy.

With champagne glistening on her blunt snout, the flying battleship rolled slowly down the ramp at the Glenn L. Martin aircraft factory, splashed into the waters of Middle river and settled easily on her massive hull.

Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air, whose wife christened the great flying boat bearing the appropriate name of "Mars," said that it "and similar ships will add greatly to our navy's growing strength."

That assertion indicated the navy had plans for building a fleet of the huge craft if the "Mars" proves successful, but Glenn Martin, builder of the ship, went even further by saying: "We have designs for a 250,000-pound plane which carry a load of over 40

VICHY SAYS SERIOUS REVOLT PLANS BARED

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Revolt plans of serious proportions were said by police today to have been uncovered at Nice yesterday in the arrests of 30 persons charged with membership in a de Gaullist railwaymen's organization.

The organization, known both as "Free France" and "Friends of de Gaulle" was said to have branches throughout unoccupied France, particularly at Marseille. Besides the 30 arrested yesterday, five had been arrested previously at Nice.

The French cabinet decided to transfer trials of de Gaullists from the Gannat court-martial to the much more powerful state courts recently set up to deal with enemies of the government.

An announcement that the Germans had released Mayor Blancho of St. Nazaire, arrested as a result of the slaying of the German commandant at Nantes, was taken by observers here as an indication that the manhunt for conspirators in recent assassinations of German officials continued.

One group of alleged terrorists was arrested yesterday in Paris for the killing of Lieutenant-Colonel Paul Friedrich Hotz, the Nantes commandant

HOUSE VOTE TO END NEUTRALITY SOUGHT QUICKLY

Leaders Will Press For Final Action Not Later Than Thursday

MANY REPUBLICANS THINK BALLOT MIGHT BE CLOSE

Some Administration Leaders Look For Margin Of 50 To 60

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Administration leaders decided today to press for a direct final house vote on the senate's amendments to the neutrality bill not later than next Thursday.

Speaker Rayburn said after a conference with Majority Leader McCormack of Massachusetts that this procedure would get the legislation to President Roosevelt "much quicker" than would turning the house and senate bills over to a joint committee for compromise.

When senate and house pass related but differing legislation, there are two members for adjusting the differences:

1. One chamber must accept the other's version, or

2. A committee of senators and house members works out a compromise which must be submitted to both chambers for final approval.

In the present case, the house rolled up a 259 to 138 vote on October 17 for repeal of the neutrality act's prohibition against arming of merchant ships. This measure then went to the senate which last night passed by a vote of 50 to 37 an amended bill which also would permit United States merchant ships to enter combat zones and belligerent ports.

Announcing the decision to ask the house to accept the senate bill instead of seeking to compromise, Rayburn said:

"We think we have the votes to pass it."

But many Republicans said the vote might be extremely close.

Representatives Jonkman, Republican, Michigan, and Mundt, Republican,

PLAN ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVANCE

Celebration, Including Parade Will Start At 10 A. M. Tuesday

Armistice day, Tuesday, will be celebrated as usual by veterans of the Twin Cities. All city and parish officials have been invited to participate. The L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion, is sponsoring the parade for the occasion. The celebration is to start at 10:15 a.m. The Rodney J. Hobbs post will have a flagpole ceremony and dedication at the Louisiana Baptist Children's home campus, and later at the post home, Oak and Sixth streets, will be addressed by Will Harvey Todd, Jr., former state commander.

The parade arranged by the American Legion will be formed at the Ouachita Parish High school and will proceed down South Grand street, down DeSiard to Sixth street, down Sixth to Harrison, up Harrison to Jackson, down Jackson to the Central Grammar school, where it will disband. Veterans will then attend the memorial services held in the Temple B'Nai Israel. All veterans and their auxiliaries are urged to participate.

At the synagogue the program will be as follows: Organ prelude; hymn, "America," congregation standing; preamble to the constitution of the American Legion, led by Commander Bill Rothermell; Psalm 34, Rev. R. T. Watson; prayer, Rabbi F. K. Hirsch;

Interpreting The War News:
Germans Fear 'Inferno' If Defeated

By Kirke L. Simpson

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

A drum-fire of words from many capitals heralded another week-end of Hitler's "crusade" against Soviet Russia, diverting attention momentarily from developments on the vast fighting front.

Defiant speeches by Stalin, giving Hitler a year at most before his conquest bubble bursts from internal pressure, a new, ringing Roosevelt challenge proclaiming an "unlimited" American commitment to keep the world free; obvious Finnish wavering over continued hostilities as a Nazi ally all figured in the verbal barrage. The most significant items on this world-wide broadcast menu, however, came from Berlin and London.

Thus the German people learned directly from Hitler's propaganda mouthpiece, Herr Goebbels, that Nazi hope of swift and conclusive victory over either Russia or Britain is a vanished dream. They were warned of "hard and relentless" war ahead in which defeat would mean an "inferno" of disaster.

Prime Minister Churchill told the British: "We have passed through the darkest and more perilous side of this struggle and are once more masters of our own destiny."

Berlin reported authoritatively, also, that the attack on the vast Moscow bastion had waned in force. Weather conditions, forbidding major operations, rather than a powerfully reinforced Russian defense line were said to be responsible.

There seems no doubt, however, that the bitter-end stand of Moscow's defenders has been bolstered by some hundreds of thousands of seasoned Red regular troops from Siberia. A Japanese estimate places the aggregate of this transfer from east to west at 500,000 men.

Even the Nazi sweep through the Crimea from the Perekop breakthrough appears now held to slow-motion progress. Berlin admits siege tactics have replaced the leaping blitzkrieg advance against the Sevastopol sector. The vitally important Kerch peninsula, flanking bridgehead to the Caucasus, still is in Russian hands. No important progress against either the Rostov gateway or east and north of it in the lower Donets-Don basin has been claimed by Berlin for days.

Out of all this emerges the clear impression that even to the German official mind, the war in Russia has reached the threshold of a dreaded Russian winter without any symptom of wavering in Russian morale. Short of a swift and sweeping Nazi conquest of the Caucasus on a scale to guarantee German use of Russian oil wells, Stalin's boast that Hitler still is far short of a decisive triumph in Russia is well founded.

News Of World Told In Brief

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler tells party pioneers Nazi armies can defend Germany and all of Europe despite American threats and armament; challenges Britain to try an invasion in the west; says German ships have right to defend themselves when attacked and dismisses American attempts to create fear in Germany by plans for gigantic armament.

Russians claim Nazi drive stalled as Red armies hurl masses of tanks into major counter-offensive; Germans say armies cleaning up Kerch peninsula in Crimea after smashing through heavily fortified zone, report Russians suffer heavy losses before Moscow after Nazi flame-thrower and grenade attacks.

Lord Beaverbrook tells factory workers greater privations in store for British but day of vengeance is near.

WILL OBSERVE DEFENSE WEEK

Monroe And West Monroe To Join In Celebration Of Event

Monroe and West Monroe will join with other communities of the nation in the observance of Civilian Defense week, which opens on Armistice Day and continues until November 16.

The local observance will consist largely of defense articles in the local daily newspapers and a series of radio talks over Station KMLB during the week. Frank Looney is chairman of the speakers' bureau for the observance. The American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other civic and patriotic organizations will participate.

Mayor Harvey H. Benoit yesterday issued a proclamation urging the citizens of the community to observe the week. The proclamation follows:

"Whereas, the President of the United States of America has designated the period commencing on Armistice Day, Tuesday, November 11, 1941, and continuing through Sunday, November 16, as a time for all persons throughout the nation to give thought to their duties and responsibilities in the defense of this country and to become better informed of the many vital phases of the civilian defense program and of the opportunities which it offers for the participation of every individual American in the defense of our priceless heritage; and,

"Whereas, the Governor of the State of Louisiana has issued his proclamation accordingly, to have effect throughout the entire State:

"Now, Therefore, I, Harvey H. Benoit, Mayor of the City of Monroe, do hereby proclaim that the period beginning on Armistice Day, Tuesday, November 11, 1941, and continuing through Sunday, November 16, be recognized throughout the city of Monroe as Civilian Defense Week, and I do hereby recommend that the citizens of Monroe and the surrounding territory attend the civic ceremonies which will

RETURNS TO ARMY AFTER 22 YEARS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—After 22 years in civilian life, Raymond L. Young, 47, of Vineland, N. J., a first lieutenant during the World war, is back in the army as a private to join two of his sons in military service.

One son, Raymond, Jr., 19, is a navy airplane mechanic at Norfolk, Va., and the other, John, 18, is a corporal in the 157th field artillery at Fort Dix, N. J.

The father, former banker and clothing merchant at Lewisburg, Pa., enlisted in the air corps in August. He now is serving as a clerk in the 28th school squadron at Jefferson barracks, the air corps replacement center here.

HITLER TROOPS BATTLING HARD ON DEFENSIVE

Fuehrer Declares His Armies Can Defend Reich And All Europe

UNEXPECTED SPEECH MADE BY NAZI CHIEF AT MUNICH

Moscow Radio States 'Enemy Has Been Pressed Back Four Days'

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's blitzkrieg armies were pictured in the new role of fighting doggedly on the defensive last night as the German leader himself declared his armies could defend Germany and all of Europe despite American threats and armaments.

He challenged Britain to attempt an invasion in the west, saying his plans were ready to meet them. Whether they try an offensive on Norway, the German coast, Holland, Belgium or France, Hitler said, "we can only say: 'Step up, you will leave again faster than you came.'"

The Russians hurled masses of tanks into a major counter-offensive before Moscow while at home the German people still felt the sting of the greatest R. A. F. assault of the war.

There was no indication, however, that the British had attempted to bomb Munich and the beer cellar where the Nazi party met one of its few reverses in 1923 and where Hitler spoke to commemorate the attempted beer hall putsch.

The German leader strode unexpectedly into the hall after coming secretly from the eastern front. It was here, two years ago, that a bomb exploded 11 minutes after Hitler and his aides left a similar celebration.

This time, he proclaimed the "right of every German ship to defend itself when attacked" and scornfully dismissed American attempts "to create dreams of fear in Germany through threats and plans for gigantic armament."

But his speech came as the Russians claimed the 37-day-old Nazi drive on

WOMEN'S CLUBS SELECT ORLEANS

Final Session Held Here; Adult Education Extension Urged

The 42nd annual convention of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs held the final session at Hotel Frances roof Saturday, and New Orleans was selected as next convention city. Mrs. Clyde W. Johnson of New Orleans was named corresponding secretary. Other official posts will remain unchanged for another year when the general election will take place.

The convention by resolution approved the extension of adult education and national defense and urged an additional appropriation by congress to extend this work. Also agriculture in national defense was advocated as an essential and organization along this line was urged to secure extended agriculture without forgetting the consumer and the legitimate rights and claims of industry and labor. A third resolution voiced the need of better law enforcement along all lines.

JONES PROCLAIMS MARINE CORPS DAY

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 8.—(AP)—By executive proclamation Governor Sam Jones has called upon Louisiana to celebrate Monday as United States marine corps day in the state, the 166th anniversary of the nation's oldest armed service.

Jones in his proclamation pointed out that marines have been on duty in Louisiana for 137 years—since Thomas Jefferson as president ordered them here in 1804 to defend the territory acquired for the nation by his Louisiana purchase.

Declaring the marines had fought under Jackson in the Battle of New Orleans and volunteered from time to time in times of disaster, Governor Jones asked that all men in the state between the ages of 17 and 30, being physically fit and without dependents or other military obligations, enlist in the marine corps.

PRESIDENT ASKS STRIKE TO END

Engages In Sharp Exchange With Teamsters' Union Chief Tobin

(By Associated Press)

For the second time within 10 days, President Roosevelt engaged in a sharp exchange with a labor leader yesterday over the question of compliance with a White House request that a strike be ended.

This time his correspondent was Daniel J. Tobin, president of the A. F. L. Teamsters union. The sequence was this:

On Friday, the president asked that Tobin order about 60 A. F. L. truck drivers on strike in Detroit against the Railway Express agency to return to work within 48 hours. At the same time Mr. Roosevelt appointed an emergency three-man board to attempt settlement of the dispute.

Tobin said that he would have to submit the request to the executive board of the union by telegraphic poll and that this could not be done before Monday. To which Mr. Roosevelt replied on Saturday: "I have fully considered your answer and reiterate my request."

At Indianapolis, Tobin was asked by reporters about the president's second request. The A. F. L. official said again that he would submit it to the board and added:

"I will do that Monday and that's the last word."

Ten days ago Mr. Roosevelt made three appeals to John L. Lewis to end the strike fo 3,000 C. I. O.-United Mine Workers in "captive" coal mines. Lewis rejected the first two and made no public reply to the third.

However, Lewis agreed to send the miners back to the collieries until November 15 while, meantime, the mediation board decided whether to recommend for or against a union shop in the mines. The question still is pending.

Out on the west coast, meanwhile, there arose a threat of a general strike by A. F. L. building craftsmen in the San Diego area. That situation developed out of an ultimatum by the navy department that striking workers on $10,500,000 worth of naval construction go back to work by Monday or lose their jobs.

K. G. Bitter, A. F. L. Building Trades council secretary, arranged for a union meeting to consider the navy warning that it would take over work on the three projects unless the men returned. He told reporters before the meeting that no official action had been taken by the union on the question of a general strike but added "that's the way the men seem to feel."

The first walkout occurred last Monday on a destroyer graving dock project, the navy describing that strike as a jurisdictional dispute. Later work stoppages occurred at a naval training station and marine camp where union members asked a 12 1-2 per cent increase over a present scale of 75 cents an hour for laborers and $1.37 1-2 for electricians. More than 1,400 men are on strike.

At Detroit, R. J. Thomas, president of the C. I. O.-United Automobile Workers, said that more than 95 per cent of the workers in the huge Chrysler tank arsenal had voted in favor of a strike. Corporation and union officials have been conferring on a contract, but the union's demands and company proposals have not been made public.

More than 1,000 truck drivers walked out at Louisville, tying up many defense and food shipments in that area. Emmet Tillett, president of an A. F. L. truck drivers union, said the walkout was "unauthorized." The strikers demand that 25 companies pay a flat 75 cents an hour wage for drivers and helps. The scale now ranges from 53 to 60 cents.

LOCAL RADIO CLUB BUYS $500 OF DEFENSE BONDS

As a patriotic gesture, the Ouachita Valley Amateur Radio club consisting of 25 "hams" purchased $500 of defense bonds in connection with emergency defense work, Cortlandt McCoy, president, announced yesterday.

Some stations, including the local club, are hooked up with the Army Amateur Radio service which drills every week. The local club is part of the American Amateur Radio Relay league, and, according to McCoy, is the first club to buy bonds. The money was collected from the members, as there are no dues.

THINK MARINES MAY LEAVE IN 2 WEEKS

SHANGHAI, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Shanghai quarters usually well informed said today they would not be surprised if the United States marines would be withdrawn from China within two weeks.

President Roosevelt announced yesterday that the United States government was considering withdrawal of the marines.

This apparently authoritative opinion was in contrast to the general belief here, that the president's announcement was a political gesture intended to warn Japan that the United States might be preparing for a war in the Pacific.

AUTONOMY ASKED FOR JOURNALISM

Louisiana Press Association Wants Separate L. S. U. Unit

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The Louisiana Press association was on record today as favoring autonomy for the Louisiana State university school of journalism—establishment of the school as a separate independent unit of the university rather than a division of the college of arts and sciences.

The press association voted to have resolutions drafted expressing this desire to the university's board of supervisors and to President Campbell B. Hodges. The meeting of the association was in conjunction with the annual university editors' short course which continued its sessions today.

Speaking on behalf of autonomy for the journalism school were H. A. Mangham of Rayville, association president, Howard Fore of Bunkie, and Orville Priestley of Crowley. They said the school should be made independent out of "respect for our profession" and in a "desire to see it recognized on a par with engineering, medicine, law and other professions for which training is conducted in autonomous schools."

Members named to draft the resolutions are George Goodman of Ponchatoula, Fore, Priestley, Miss Estelle Tannehill of Winnfield, and Bruce R. McCoy, field manager of the association and L. S. U. journalism faculty member.

"I feel that the school is ours," said Priestley. "It belongs to us, the press, and the taxpayers. I personally think that it is time for newspapers in this state to stand upon both feet.

"We should make this resolution not as a request but as a demand, showing that we are proud of our profession and that we want to put our school of journalism on the same level as that of other professional schools."

Mangham declared that L. S. U. had the only class A journalism school "between Texas and Georgia and from the gulf on the south to the University of Missouri on the north."

The published survey of the American Council of Education on the entire university included a recommendation for continuance of the journalism school's organizational status as part of the arts and sciences college.

SPEARSVILLE GROUP ELECTS OFFICERS

LILLIE, Nov. 8.—(Special)—The newly-formed Spearsville Community organization elected W. H. Hamberlin president at the first meeting of the group recently.

Other officers elected were A. A. Hollis, vice-president; Mrs. A. A. Hollis, secretary, and Mrs. Joe Barron, reporter. A council composed of leaders from each organization of the community was appointed at an earlier meeting, and selected as its objectives the organization of a farm bureau, the helping to foster a school hot lunch program, and the beautifying of the community grounds.

Speakers at the recent meeting were Mr. White, secretary-treasurer of the Union parish farm bureau, "The Advantages of Farm Bureau"; Miss Whatley, Home Demonstration agent, who explained the necessity of a food for defense program, and Mr. Hollis, school principal, who presented the plans for a hot lunch program.

Miss Mary Mims of the agricultural extension department at Louisiana State university, spoke on "The Advantages of a Community Organization" at the organization meeting.

The group meets on the first Thursday night of each month, and the Junior Homemakers are in charge of the December program.

OLD MINES PUT BACK INTO USE

Higher Prices Or Government Subsidies Make Them Pay Again

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Cobwebs are being swept away, shafts relined and rotting timbers replaced these days at perhaps half a hundred long abandoned mines in the rich mineral belt between the Rockies and the Sierra Nevada.

These old operations are going back into production in answer to the defense call for every ounce of metal the country can supply.

Higher prices, in some instances, have made the reopenings seem feasible. In other cases the promise of government subsidies has encouraged a fresh try at working lean deposits.

There are problems aplenty confronting the marginal producers. Shortages of labor and supplies and the rising costs of both stand high on the list.

And although this is not a time when ability to meet competition is important, the long idle mines generally will be dwarfed by new developments undertaken under government sponsorship and by the vast private enterprises which have been built in the years since a previous war made its demands on the nation's underground resources.

Interstate-Callahan, one of northern Idaho's principal zinc-lead producers in the World war period, is among the first to resume operation after a long shutdown. It has been taken over by a lessee and is expected to yield 3,000 tons of ore a month.

Quicksilver deposits in eastern Nevada and in California north and south of San Francisco bay are being freshly explored, and some old mines have been put back into production. Nevada also is yielding tungsten ores in previously unequalled quantities. In all parts of the west gold and silver workings temporarily ignored have been revived under the impetus of better prices.

The need for aluminum has brought renewed attempts to develop southern Utah's vast alunite fields. Alunite is low grade ore, and previous efforts to convert it into alumina, source of aluminum, collapsed from the cost of processing.

But now the government is spending heavily to finance the expensive treatment plants and even further to explore the Marysvale alunite beds.

Magnesium, molybdenum, vanadium and manganese, of the strategic minerals group, are receiving special attention.

ATLANTA, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A well-dressed man approached Mrs. L. M. Wellborn at an "old hoss" sale in police headquarters, pointed to a bicycle and said:

"I just bought that but now I've decided I don't want it. You can have it for $10."

She paid the $10 and walked out with the bicycle.

The police were irked when the real purchaser discovered the bicycle was missing. They traced the vehicle all right, but now they want the brazen flim-flammer.

CHAMBER AGAI PRICE-FIXING B

Members Of Board Of Dire tors Request More Complete Referendum

In a special ballot of the Unit States Chamber of Commerce, men bers of the board of directors of t local chamber voted down the pre ent price-fixing referendum intr duced in the senate last August, W. Warren, chamber president, a nounced yesterday.

Members of the board declared at meeting that the bill is not speci enough to warrant intelligent admi istration. Secondly, the board d clared, the bill does not place a restrictions on agricultural commod ties which comprise about 25 per ce of the commodities sold in the Unit States. Further, the bill is poorly i provised, the board said.

Mr. Warren explained that t board did not vote against the pri cipal of price-fixing but rather r quested a more complete referendu to include price-fixing of all co modities.

Approximately 6,000 similar ballo were sent to chambers of commer throughout the country, and when t results are tabulated, the position the United States chamber regardi price-fixing legislation will be su mitted to Leon Henderson, price a ministrator at Washington.

The board also authorized the est lishing of a homes registration off with the cooperation of the cities Monroe and West Monroe. It is nece sary that the two cities be designate as a special defense housing area, M Warren said, in order to permit prior ties on the securing of metal and ele trical equipment for private constru tion here.

The registration office will list a vacant apartments, houses, and spa in private homes available for rent the Monroe area. Lee Hodges, chai man of the housing committee, sa at the meeting that he expected know in 30 days whether Monroe an West Monroe will be designated as defense area.

Conferring with board members the chamber's radio panel discuss to create greater interests in ci and commercial problems, the ch ber president announced he w appoint a committee to direct weekly discussion and to select subjects for the radio talk.

Dave Kaplan, chairman of northeast Louisiana defense pool, r ported the completion of an organiz tion for the setting up of machi metal shops and foundries in north east Louisiana which will be affiliate with the Office of Production Ma agement. Mr. Kaplan believed the shops and foundries would bid f sub-contracts in the near future. Th sub-contracts, Mr. Kaplan said, wou allow for the obtaining of materia to operate the shops and also to pr vide for employment.

The boerd considered an applica tion from the traffic bureau of th Monroe police for additional financi assistance. The application was give to a special committee appointed.

The annual membership meeting o the chamber will be held Thursda night, January 15 at the Virgini hotel, Mr. Warren said, adding tha the principal speaker will be W. T Bethea, New Orleans, economist an lecturer on civic problems.

S. ARMIES TO TRY BLITZKRIEG

Mechanized Units Will Battle Slow-Moving Infantry Division

CHESTER, S. C., Nov. 8.—(AP)—German blitzkrieg methods, so successful in France, the lowlands and the Balkans, will be tried out in the Carolinas army maneuvers next week as mechanized units battle the slow-moving square infantry division.

The alignment of all armored units attached to the Fourth army corps on the "Blue" side in the second phase of the corps-conducted exercises was hailed today by military observers as an interesting experiment.

The entire First armored corps, made up of the First and Second Armored divisions, the Fourth motorized division, and several engineer units, will be attached to the Blues.

The bulwark of the defending "Red" forces will be the 43rd division, 31st division, Third cavalry, 107th cavalry, Sixth cavalry, 74th field artillery brigade, and a general headquarters anti-tank group.

Major-General Oscar W. Friswold, commander of the Fourth army corps, outlined the general situation for the new exercises at a critique in Winnsboro today. The maneuver, opening Monday, will center around Chester.

The Blues will be commanded by Major-General Charles L. Scott, commander of the First Armored corps, and the Red forces will be headed by Major-General John C. Persons, commanding officer of the 31st division.

The mechanized units versus infantry divisions exercise will be the second phase of the Fourth army corps maneuvers. Earlier this week the Blues, in possession of Columbia, South Carolina's capital, after theoretically invading the state via Charleston and Savannah, Ga., were virtually hemmed in by the Reds as the first part of the maneuvers closed.

Next week's three-day maneuver also will mark the first time in United States army history that a fully mechanized cavalry regiment has been in the field. The Sixth cavalry has been fully mechanized for the occasion.

20 SOLDIERS ESCAPE BEFORE BUS BURNS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Twenty soldiers from the New Orleans army air base, five of them slightly injured, climbed out through the door and windows of an overturned bus today a few minutes before it burst into flames.

The driver, E. J. Birmingham, 25, said he was bringing the soldiers from the lakefront into the city when he hit a deep cave-in on Frenchmen street and lost control of the vehicle. The bus struck a tree and turned over. Private John Andrews, 22, received leg and arm fractures and four others suffered bruises.

'THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE MUST REALIZE THE ERROR OF THEIR WAYS'

SAYS NAZIS HAVE 100,000 CANNON

MANCHESTER, Eng., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Lord Beaverbrook, British supply minister, called on British worker today to beat October's record output of war materials to stand off 100,000 German cannon, which he said eventually "will be deployed against us."

His speech in answer to criticism "going around that the government is not doing everything expected of it" came as parliamentary circles expressed the belief that Prime Minister Churchill soon would reply in the house of commons to agitation for more vigorous aid for Russia and Premier Joseph Stalin's implied appeal this week for a second front.

He admitted that Britain had not yet "got up steam" after two years of war but pledged himself henceforth to see that there should be no more lagging on the production front.

"If there is any failure in November it will be my own failure, and please God, with your support I will not fail. I will see that they go forward in November and monthly thereafter," he said.

The British, Beaverbrook declared, eventually will be up against 100,000 or more German guns, which he said the Nazis now have.

"There has never been known such an immense assembly of guns in the world—not in the hands of all the nations of the world," he declared, adding:

"Remember that there is only one capital in the world where the Germans can get final peace and that capital is London. As long as we go on there is no peace for the enemy."

FRENCH LOOK FOR EUROPEAN PARLEY

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Well-informed French sources said tonight they considered that a call might be issued soon by Germany and Italy for a general European conference to organize continental collaboration.

While these sources said that nothing "precise" was known in Vichy, such a call was considered likely in the view of the present trends in Europe.

(German spokesmen in Berlin said today that reports from London of a continental conference to be held soon at Vienna to announce founding of the new order were nonsense. They said Hitler had no need of multi-sided conferences.)

FIVE CHAPELS AT POLK DEDICATED

CAMP POLK, La., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Five chapels were dedicated here today for the use of all troops at this station and for worship by all denominations. The chapels cost $21,220 each and are part of the war department program to erect 604 chapels, costing $12,316,880 at posts, camps and stations throughout the nation.

The main ceremonies were held at the chapel in the station hospital area after each of the other four had been visited by Major-General Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., commanding general of the 3rd armored division; Lieutenant-Colonel Otto Wagner, cavalry, camp commander; Major John A. Aman, camp chaplain, and Lieutenant-Colonel Oscar W. Reynolds, division chaplain.

"Just as a motor needs its preventive maintenance, so does the spirit of the individual man," declared General Gillem in his dedication address, in which he linked the necessity for maintenance of the vehicles in his armored division to the necessity for the maintenance of the spiritual being of the soldier. General Gillem was introduced by Colonel Wagner.

DEAN OF CATHEDRAL ARRESTED BY NAZIS

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The Rev. Bernhard Lichtenberg, dean of St. Hedwig's Roman Catholic cathedral here and sometimes representative of the bishop in Berlin, has been arrested by German secret police and is being held in Ploetzensee prison in the northwestern section of the city, reliable sources said today.

These sources said he had been in custody for two weeks, accused among other things of offering prayers for Jews against whom intensive Nazi measures recently have been renewed.

His sermons, it was said, also undoubtedly figured in his arrest as they did last summer in his questioning by the gestapo.

At that time he was called to the secret police headquarters for questioning about sermons in which he supported criticism that the Catholic bishop of Muenster, the Most Rev. Count Clemens August von Galen, directed against the Nazis and the gestapo in particular.

The bishop of Muenster began his attacks on Naziism as early as 1934 when he decried what he termed persecution of the Catholics in Germany.

As recently as last September 10 the outspoken bishop denounced what he said was the killing in Germany of persons deemed "unworthy to live" because they were "unproductive."

The Case Of Russia

Not Nazi Germany, but Soviet Russia is the surprise of surprises in this European war. People are waking up to the fact that they were misinformed and misled about Russia. Hatred of Communism and repugnance to its methods had most to do with it.

Each vocal prewar visitor to Russia saw the great experiment through his own ideological glasses. The pros reported everything rosy in the garden. The anti-Bolsheviks reported quite the contrary. As the pros were often self-confessed Reds or Pinks or fellow-travelers, their testimony was largly discounted. The antis had the field, so far as popular belief was concerned.

Thus a picture was presented not only of a land where people were regimented, persecuted and purged, but also of a state whose army, when the test came, would be a headless mob, whose weapons would prove to be inferior, and whose war industries would be so sloppy that a collapse worse than that of France would be the natural and expected consequence when the country was assailed by the Germans.

Since a state of war has existed between Germany and Russia, a number of clear-headed, hard-boiled, straight-thinking anti-Communist business men of America and Britain have gone to Moscow on various governmental missions. They had no Red ax to grind. Far from it. They made a careful, factual, realistic study of Russia's army, the Russian will to go on with the war, and the Russian factories that make her war material.

Upon their return to this country and Britain many of them have talked on the record. They all agree that Russia will fight on to the end. They all express their surprise at the efficiency they saw in the factories.

For instance, W. L. Batt, director of the division of materials in the Office of Production Management, said that, as many others, he had assumed the Russians were good farmers, but poor technicians. Therefore, he thought it would be a waste to send Russia machine tools and other materials. But when he went there, he found Russian mechanics assembling British and American airplanes with skill and speed. He saw good airplane landing fields quickly made despite great difficulties in the terrain. He visited plants concerned with airplane production and found little difference between them and the best in America. The workers were not the clumsy, careless, lefthanded oafs he had been told they were. Instead, they were intelligent, efficient and hard-working.

The moral is thus once more driven home—it is unsafe and unwise to generalize rashly about any race or nation, for he who takes prejudice as a guide and mentor is as a blind man being led by the blind.

KNOWLEDGE, POWER, AND VICTORY

Down in that far corner of the world that lies between India and the Mediterranean, between the Caspian and Arabian seas, the winning of World war II may be at stake. Most Americans know next to nothing of these lands, which were the cradles of civilized man. Now they may be his bier.

But in Britain they know about these far places. Stuffed away on the shelves of the stuffier London clubs are the forgotten books written by travelers of this restless race: "Six Months With the Djhigur of Brandee" or "Tenting in Tabriz With the Sheik Hadji Dinar." We laughed at those ponderous travel books when they penetrated to America. But now it is shown that perhaps they were not so vain; their writers were exploring the odd corners of the world in which World war II may now go to a decision. The better ones, like Doughty and Lawrence and Bell, amassed knowledge now being translated by the British army into terms of power, perhaps into ultimate victory.

AERIAL LAND MINES

It is the belief of experts in the British army that one of the "secret weapons" Hitler has boasted he possesses was sprung on Coventry during the devastating air attacks upon it. They believe that land mines instead of bombs caused the heavy destruction in this assault. These land mines, weighing from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds and landed by parachutes, are charged with Hexinite which is rated twice as powerful as TNT. The blast from such a mine goes out, not up, and smashes everything within a quarter of a mile radius. This land mine cannot compare with the addition to fighting implements the tank, which was not secret, proved in the last war.

To those who are a trifle vague as to the location of the Caucasus, where it is predicted the greatest battle of the war may be fought, it should be explained that this is where the Caucasians came from.

Not only is Tojo of Japan reported to be partial to big cigars, but he appears to be determined that the world shall watch his smoke.

Nothing has been heard lately of Haile Selassie, the only man to win anything so far in this war.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 8.—I've never witnessed a more amazing change in personality than the transition of Olivia de Havilland from a very prim and demure "young thing" to an ultra sophisticated Hollywood play-gal—all within a period of two years. The Olivia of today is as different from the Olivia of 1938 as Janet Gaynor from Betty Grable.

Unquestionably she's gained "color." She's harvested a bumper crop of publicity with her night-clubbing, her last-word costumes and her innumerable romances. She's become more popular socially. But I seriously doubt that her career has benefitted, or will benefit, despite all the glowing fan magazine articles about her new philosophy of personal freedom.

There's nothing new—in Hollywood at least—about such a philosophy. This town has had thousands of girls, just as vivid as Olivia. They've danced just as gayly in the night clubs, been buried under the same tide of romance rumors and given the same interviews to the same fan magazines. But not one of them lasted a day longer on the screen because of such publicity.

As a matter of fact, Olivia, back yonder in her demure days, was a more noticeable personage than she is today. She was "different" then, whereas today—if it were not for the surprise occasioned by her change of personality—she might be lost in the crowd. Formerly, because she was different, it was natural for producers to think of her when such roles as "Melanie" were to be handed out. And it's roles like that, not glamour girl stories in the fan mags, that keep a star on top.

What's news: Ads for MGM's "Rio Rita" will read: "Abbott and Costello, enacting the roles originated by Wheeler and Woolsey" (a tribute to the late Bob Woolsey). . . If Jim Farley buys the NY Yankees baseball club, George Raft will be in on the deal. . . . Tyrone and Annabella Power's long-planned Tahitian vacation is off; Uncle Sam won't issue passports. . . . Was it reported that the world-famous Moscow Art theater, whence came Akim Tamiroff, Alla Nazimova, Olga Baclanova and other Russian stars, was bombed the other day? . . . Ramon Novarro and Miliza Korjus are mulling a co-starring bid from the Contreras-Torros studios in Mexico City. . . . Lupe Velez will leave Hollywood, on completion of her current camera stint, for a three months' "rest" in—of all places—New York! . . . If Actress Ruth Ford, ex-college prof of philosophy now under contract to Columbia, accepts Producer Dudley Murphy's offer of the title role in his NY stage production of "Hamlet," she'll be the first woman to do the part since Sarah Bernhardt. . . . Wotzis about Artie Shaw and his band being contracted for a private party Christmas night in the home of an LA millionaire who will pay $4,500 but stipulates that his identity must remain a secret?

Confidential communiques to: Vic Mature: Glad to see you've worked off those superfluous pounds gained during the forced inactivity following your operation. The ol' 208-pound body looks terrific now! . . . Fifi D'Orsay: It's time someone called attention to the unselfish work you've been doing for entertainment of the boys in Canadian and American army camps—and the bow in your direction should be especially low since you've done it gratis and without seeking publicity. . . . Bonita Granville: If I ever doubted your devotion to Jackie Cooper, the doubt disappeared on learning that you are building a bandstand in your new playroom to give him and his bandsters a headquarters for their jam sessions. Greater love hath no woman!

Here's an amusing sidelight on the news. The other day Harry Cohn, big boss of Columbia, dropped into a Philadelphia theater and saw Lyle Talbot in the stage play, "Private Rooms." Greatly impressed by his performance, Cohn went back stage after the final curtain and offered the actor a term contract. "Of course I've seen you on the screen, Mr. Talbot," he said, "but I had no idea you could do comedy so well. Did you ever play comedy on the screen?" "Twice," answered Talbot, a bit grimly. "I was in 'No More Orchids' and 'One Night of Love'—both Columbia pictures."

Memories: When studio threats to leave California because of high taxes flooded Hollywood with good-will ambassadors from every chamber of commerce in Florida. . . . When work automatically came to a standstill on every studio stage as word spread that Hollywood's most beloved man, Will Rogers, had been killed in an Alaskan air crash. . . . When Jean Harlow, shooting dice at a Mexican gambling resort, made 33 straight passes and broke the bank. . . . When feminine wits at a swank party conspired against a foreign leading man noted for his hand-kissing habits. They put sneeze-powder on their hands and the continental blue-blood left in a flurry of sneezes. . . . When the explosion of a gas main near the LA theater where Charlie Chaplin's "City Lights" was being premiered started scare-head stories that Communists had thrown a bomb.

OUR CHILDREN

If you have never seen a school at work you have a treat in store when you visit this week as you surely must do if you have a child there. You must go to give the boy or the girl the pride of being fathered and mothered. Children like to show other children how good their parents look, what a grand father they have, and what a pretty mother.

Once, about a week before Open School week we heard some boys talking about their mothers, boasting of their good looks, their taste in dress, their charm. One tried to outdo the other, but the loudest and most persistent of them all was a boy who kept saying, "But you ought to see my mother. She's more beautiful than anything in the world. Honest. She's marvelous." And he dwelt on the beauty of her eyes, of her coloring, her hair. Lovely, lovely, lovely.

We were a bit curious to see this remarkable woman and we were on hand when she was led into the classroom by her proud son. Only a blind love could have seen the beauty this boy saw in his mother. She was kind, good, motherly, all that a mother need be and more, but "beautiful, more beautiful than a fairy," not at all.

However, in that boy's eyes she was divinely beautiful and the other boys, with mothers equally attractive, some of them handsome, accepted his word. She must be beautiful because he said it so earnestly and defended his case so triumphantly.

In your own eyes you may be just an ordinary workaday person, but in the eyes of your child you are a sort of wonder-worker, a magician whose charm cannot fail. He looks on you as a superior being and dares anybody to produce a greater one. Stand by him and give him the support of your interest and presence on this occasion.

Sit in the classroom while the children work. They are showing off and they want you in the audience. The teacher has prepared them for the show. She and they are putting their best foot forward for your appreciative applause.

Be a good audience. Have a responsive word and smile for the good work you see, and when you leave the room tell the teacher how well the children did and how pleased you are, and if you can manage to say a word of praise for a child not your own, let him have it. You have no idea how proud your child will be of that good word, and you. And the child you praised will carry the word home and cherish it forever.

Make no complaint about the child to anybody. If he thinks you are going to tell the teacher how bad you feel about his shortcomings he will want to hide under the desk. Assure him you are proud of him before you go to school that day, so he will not be worrying about what you are saying to the teacher.

Have nothing but good words for the school, the teachers and pupils on visiting day. Keep the questions that bother you, the failures that are worrying you, for a private conference with the teacher which you can have out of sight and sound of all the children. It is important that this visit leave a good taste in everybody's mouth. Good-will makes for good speed in any job.

For helpful advice in teaching your small son or daughter to get along with other children, send for Angelo Patri's booklet, "Your Child and Other People," enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, care this newspaper, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 16
Text: John 15: 1-10
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
(Editor of Advance)

The Bible is a book amazingly rich in illustrations and figures of speech. There are literary devices to make meanings plain as well as to enrich the expression of thought. We are given a statement of resemblance which may make vivid in a few words something that much explanation might only make more obscure.

These verses from the 15th chapter of John present one of the clearest and most effective figures in all Scripture applied to a relationship of inward significance and much mystery—the relation of the disciple to the Master, of the Christian to the Christ.

Instead of saying "the disciple is one with me, we are from the same root, we have the same substance, we partake of the same beauty and we have a common part in the fruitfulness of good living," Jesus puts it all in a figure that once appeals to the eye, the heart and the mind. "I am the vine, ye are the branches."

His listeners, all vineyard folk, grasp that better than if it had been expressed in a long sermon. They also understood that the vine is of no use unless it bears fruit. So Jesus links the lesson of the vine and of union with himself with the matter of bringing forth the fruit of Christian character and good works.

God has a meaning and purpose for our lives. It is that these lives should be productive, and He is glorified when His children fulfill this purpose. The test of our union with Christ is this fruitfulness of our own lives. "Herein is my Father glorified that ye bear much fruit, so shall ye be my disciples."

What are the fruits of the Christian life? What does it mean in this sense to be good disciples of the Master? Paul has told all this in the lesson we studied not long ago on "the fruits of the spirit"—love, joy, peace, long-suffering, meekness.

Jesus did not need to list these fruits of the spirit as Paul found it necessary to do for those who had not known Jesus. Those who heard his words saw the richest and fullest life in Him. No words could have made the example plainer.

So He said, "Abide in me." There could have been no doubt in their minds about that. Jesus was the true vine. What was important was that they should keep near Him and his life-filling power. And that is most important for us.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
(Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — John L. Lewis, gruff, burly, 225-pound head of the United Mine Workers, revealed to his staff the other day that he can still dance a jig. After his conference with the president, Myron Taylor and Mediation Board Chairman William H. Davis, Lewis returned to his office in what used to be Washington's swank University Club building, two blocks from the White House. As Lewis entered the office, he grinned broadly and executed about a dozen quick steps that would have gotten by in any rug-cutting session. He felt then that he had won the captive coal mine strike.

One point generally overlooked in all the excitement about this captive mine strike is the so-called "protective wage clause" in the Appalachian agreement. It gave Lewis cards and spades to start with in his casino game negotiations on behalf of the miners. In brief, this protective clause provides that if the union should make a contract more favorable to either then the Appalachian agreement should be modified.

In other words, if Lewis should sign an open shop agreement with the captive mine operators, then negotiations would have to be reopened for a new Appalachian agreement. Naturally, none of the operators would be particularly anxious to go into that again. Lewis, holding the upper hand on this account, even went so far as to notify all the coal fields that it might be necessary to take action to this end.

Whatever your opinion on Lewis—and there are only two schools of thought on this subject—it must be recognized that he is the shrewdest bargainer in labor relations today. He brought up his miners not to work without a contract, and they don't. In the captive mine case, he maneuvered the national defense mediation board into a position of forcing it to make recommendations consistent with its previous union shop policy or admitting its own futility.

Here is one bureau chief's explanation in justification of the government's publicity setup: All government agencies get their appropriations from Congress. It's necessary for these agencies to impress Congress with what great work they're doing. So they are forced to create a lot of publicity for the benefit of the congressional appropriations committees which grant them funds for continued operations.

This Fight Flourishes

The battle of Business vs. the New Deal and vice versa is apparently to go on undiminished, as the following two cross-currents may indicate:

1. From a speech to west coast advisers by Carroll L. Wilson, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce: "From 1930 to 1940 . . . business has too largely permitted government to create customers for the products and services of business . . . and complained to high heaven because of the methods government used to create customers. Yet I ask you to think hard and long and tell me of any plans evolved from the business brains of the country during that 10 years which showed any promise of creating enough customers to consume the goods we could have produced."

2. From the current Fortune magazine quarterly poll of management: A majority of the business executives surveyed believe that, whenever possible, the administration is using the national emergency as a pretext for pushing still further the more radical social and economic aims of the New Deal; that many of the business men brought to Washington by the president are unsatisfactory because the government cannot recognize the ablest men, and is unwilling to call them into service because of the New Deal's hostility toward successful business and its fear of giving power to business men; that there is virtually no hope for a broad system of free enterprise after the war.

Priorities Boss Donald M. Nelson gives this illustration as one reason for curtailing the use of copper: A builder wrote to protest the restriction on copper in small house construction, saying that it takes only 144 pounds of copper to build a small house, and that without this restriction, 600,000 small houses might be built this year. Multiplying, Nelson figured this came to 43,000 tons. In the month of October, the available supply of copper was 138,000 tons, while the demand for military supplies was 144,000 tons.

Room For Improvement

It was at a staff meeting in the office of civilian defense, Mayor La Guardia's outfit, in which a lady named Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is employed part time. The project being discussed was registration of available spare rooms for defense emergency occupancy. Mrs. Roosevelt was presiding and she was insisting that the people assigned to make the registration must be competent citizens of sound judgment.

The story was told of another similar survey, where one registrant had turned in cards showing a number of excellent rooms were available at a back street address. Investigation showed that the survey was correct. All the physical comforts were provided for. The place was quite all right, except that it was a house of ill repute.

Greenland Has Material And Strategic Values

PRIOR to World War II, Greenland was merely a huge northern island, covered with snow and ice the year around, generally uninhabited, and under the jurisdiction of Denmark. It was a frozen asset, and its value has been enhanced by the war.

Germany has cast covetous eyes at the northern island of ice. First, it is rich in cryolite, a mineral used as a catalyst in the extraction of aluminum from bauxite. Second, it is extremely useful in the eyes of the German high command as a weather reporting station.

The 1938 stamp above reflects the ice-bound land and its sub-zero temperatures. American troops have been stationed in Greenland since July, 1941, to avert the menace of Nazi conquest.

The weather reporting value of the island is shown by the raid which the U. S. Coast Guard recently made on a secret German radio station which was sending data to Germany.

Many urge the United States to purchase Greenland outright from the Danes, but in view of German occupation of Denmark at this time, that would probably be difficult.

A pursuit plane has been built which resembles in its outline the flying reptiles of the age of dinosaurs.

PUBLIC FORUM

IN APPRECIATION

West Monroe, La.,
November 6, 1941.

Mr. Wilson Ewing, Publisher,
The News-Star—World Publishing Company, Monroe, La.

Dear Sir:

The members of the West Monroe Rodeo, Inc., wish to thank you for your support of our rodeo held recently in West Monroe in conjunction with the fat stock show.

This is by far the best show we have ever put on in our arena, and it was well attended, some 10,000 people turning out in the five days. We have endeavored to make our rodeo an asset to the Twin Cities and with the support of citizens like yourself, we feel we have accomplished this.

Thanks again, and we are looking forward to 1942 for an even more successful year.

Yours very truly,
WEST MONROE RODEO, INC.,
IKE HAMILTON, Secretary.

New York Day by Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLI
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: All day my mail, and pleased, as evenin comes on, to see a goodly pile of i taken care of. . . . The birthda greeting cards that arrived from th middle of last month until now ar pleasant reminders of the thoughtfulness of a great many readers. . . . R M. Cooksey of Corsicana, Tex., tell me all about his breeding of walnut and I find it a most interesting story . . . Many readers too, have take such an interest in the case of Slug the pup, that they have written t tell me of experiences in giving awa or otherwise disposing of dogs. Fo these advices, much thanks. But th family council is still divided o Slug's ultimate fate. . . . I'm sayin a lingering farewell to the ten-da miracle diet I read about in a littl book published by my friend, Wilfre Funk. I lost 14 pounds in seven days and I feel as though I'd been in concentration camp for six month

A buggy-load of ribbons and medals, together with a cartload of priz money, are carried out of the annua horse show at Madison Square Garde by a pretty little lady with whit hair.

I knew there must be a story in t woman, no longer youthful, who persists in undergoing the strain of show after show, week after week, not onl in New York, but in most of the show towns of the east and south.

So I hunted up Mrs. L. Victor W (pronounced to rhyme with style, an believe me, she has plenty of tha too).

I'd better start off the introductio by admitting that Mrs. Weil wouldn' tell me her age. But she doesn't min admitting that she is among the mor mature of horsewomen.

She's been showing horses for onl six years. In that time she has collected about 200 ribbons and awards She cleans up at every show. A New York and Louisville she take so many prizes with her drivin horses that it seems almost impossib for anybody else to get into her class

How does she keep it up? Wh does she bother? Obviously, sh doesn't need the money. Besides, show stable always costs far mo than it brings in.

Mr. Weil is a prominent man the realty field in Manhattan. has just about completed one of most expensive and exclusive apar ment buildings on Central Park Sout where high-priced dwellings rear the tops far above the park.

It happened thus.

A few years ago, Mrs. Weil wa bereaved by the death of severa members of her family. She grieved fell into disconsolate mourning, an then into ill health.

A doctor said that a new interes was imperative. It must be an absorbing interest, and, if possible, i must require considerable physica work out of doors.

So Mrs. Weil set up her show-horse stables near the Atlantic surf tow of Elberon, N. J.

Though she is interested in many charities, the horses take up so much time that there has been no hours left for mourning.

Yes, it has brought health.

"It was better for me to spen my money on horses than on doctors," says the little lady with the white hair. It's obvious that she feels fine is full of energy, and has not the slightest doubt about her ability t handle her horses.

"Of course, I look after my health," she says, "but not in the old way. have to keep my arms and shoulder strong and supple. Mr. Harry Reilly the health and gym man, and his various assistants, put me through extensive arm-and-shoulder work before and during show seasons. But I don' need doctoring any more. Wholesome life among the horses will take the gloom out of anybody."

Well, there you are. As soon as I saw that little lady carting off the well-earned prizes, all smiling and erect, I felt sure that she must know the secret of keeping young.

TIERNEY'S PARENTS' HOME THREATENED

WESTPORT, Conn., Nov. 8.—(AP)—A foreclosed mortgage jeopardized today the home of Screen Actress Gene Tierney's parents in the fashionable Greens' Farm district of this Fairfield county town.

A judgment of $5,004.25 was awarded first Mortgage-Holder Earl Sprague in the county court at Bridgeport yesterday against Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Tierney, who opposed their sultry, dark-eyed daughter's recent marriage to Count Oleg Cassini, Hollywood dress designer.

They later sought unsuccessfully to enforce a contract requiring the payment of 25 per cent of her earnings to the Belle Tier corporation, a family corporation formed to handle Gene's affairs.

Sprague claimed non-payment of a $4,500 note executed in 1933 by the corporation and secured by the mortgage.

Judge Frank P. McEvoy set no deadline for redemption of the property, held in Mrs. Tierney's name, and the couple returned to their home after the court session. Republican State Chairman J. Kenneth Bradley, Mrs. Tierney's counsel, told the court the Tierneys were attempting to refinance the debt.

T. A. COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

win City Group Hears Talks By Prominent Leaders

The regular meeting of the Twin Cities P.-T. A. council was held at the ourthouse, Thursday at 4 p. m., with Mrs. W. S. Vincent, president, presiding. The roll call showed that representatives from nine schools were present, 40 being in attendance.

Mrs. A. Montgomery, goals chairman, spoke on this subject and explained the goals as they are prepared by the state organization. These concerned objects and policies, membership, organization, publications, publicity, programs, finance and budget, founders day, study groups, health, loyalty and efficiency.

She suggested that all local goals chairmen take their goals sheets to each P.-T. A. meeting. Mrs. Fagan Cox, state P.- T. A. president, spoke on the progress of the educational survey.

She stated that 20 parishes of the state were selected by Dr. Carleton Washburne for surveys, which are made by committees of teachers, citizens and superintendents. As part of the surveys, thorough health examinations will be given the children.

At the close of Mrs. Cox's address, Mrs. George Varino, first vice-president of the council, moved that Mr. Washburne be asked to come to Monroe to speak on the survey. The motion was carried.

Mrs. W. E. McCoy, membership chairman of the Twin Cities P.-T. A. council, gave a membership report and stated that there had been an increase in membership over last year. At the close of her talk, Mrs. McCoy presented the trophy to Mrs. B. G. Cole, membership chairman of Central Grammar school, which showed the largest per cent of increase in membership over a year ago. The total gain was 114.2 per cent.

Mrs. Stanley Hodges, council goals chairman, displayed the council goals sheet and explained it to the members of the council. She stressed the importance of each goals chairman from local units in making a report to her before the monthly council meeting so that it may be properly recorded on the goals sheet.

Mrs. Vincent thanked Mrs. King Hunt and Mrs. Paul Keller for the radio talks on the P.-T. A. radio citizenship programs.

Mrs. Vincent then introduced Mrs. Guy Du Priest, publications chairman for the council. She explained what the national P.-T. A. magazine means, and asked all local magazine chairmen to start their drive for magazine subscribers. In order for the school to complete the goals set, there must be a subscription list that will equal four per cent of the membership.

A check from the community chest was acknowledged and a letter of thanks was ordered sent to the Episcopal auxiliary for its help with the recent P.-T. A. banquet.

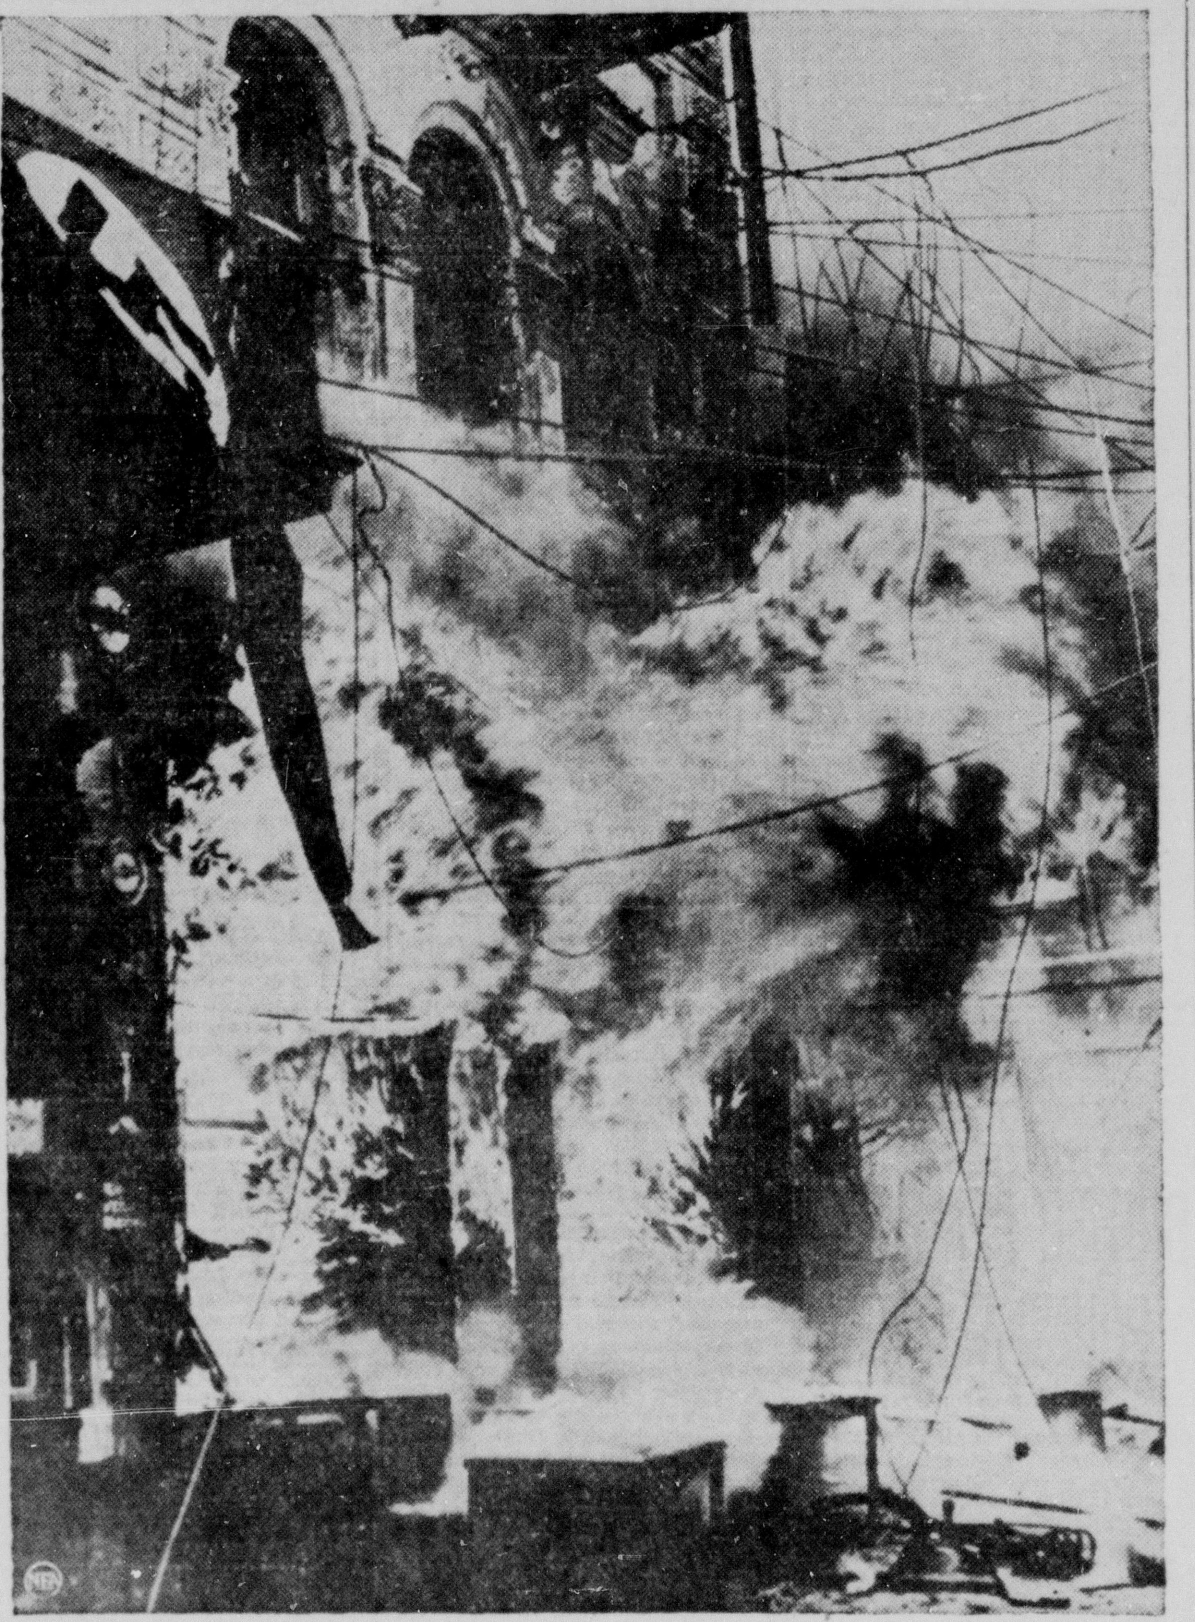
RUSSIAN TIME BOMBS BLAST CONQUERED KIEV



Vicious tongues of flame lash past torn Nazi banner and fallen electric lines as building in the heart of captured Kiev goes up in a spectacular fire. Russian time bombs, for which Germans futilely combed the city, fired and destroyed parts of the Ukraine capital several weeks after it fell to Hitler's armies.

13 ORGANIZATIONS WANT LAW DEFENSE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The Louisiana Civil Service league today announced that 13 independent organizations have within the past two weeks announced they will seek permission of the Baton Rouge judicial district court to join in defense of the new state and New Orleans civil service laws.

A hearing will be held next Wednesday before Judge Charles A. Holcombe at which many attorneys interested in the case will present one main brief and a number of special briefs defending special phases of the laws.

Organizations uniting to defend the law, it was announced, included:

The Fire Fighters association of New Orleans, the Louisiana Federation of Labor, the American Legion, the Disabled American Veterans of the World war, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Veterans' league, the Louisiana Civil Service league, the Woman Citizens' union, the League of Women Voters, the People's league, the Louisiana Association for Clean Government, the Louisiana Association of Young Men's Business clubs, the Poor Boys' club of Louisiana. The Louisiana Parent-Teacher association has gone on record in support of the laws.

The attorney general's office, represented by A. M. Suthon and J. J. Morrison, will present arguments.

Armies Study Cooperation Between Army Air And Ground Forces

By Rice Yahner

CAMDEN, S. C., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The armies of other nations are taking a leaf from Uncle Sam's book.

Cooperation between the air and ground forces—considered an outstanding factor in the success of German arms—has been developed by the United States army so that others now learn from America, Major-General Herbert, A. Dargue said here today.

He is the commander of the first air force which has the task of protecting the vital northeast.

This teamwork, he said, will be the deciding factor in any war of the future and the army has striven with that goal always in mind.

To further this aim of combination of effort, General Dargue, who has just ended a nationwide tour of airplane factories and bases, suggested a regular schedule of large scale exercises like those in the Carolinas with the armies in the field at least four months of the year.

"It would top off training in home stations," he said. "It would be the greatest thing for morale. Playing at war, with the competitive spirit it brings, is the best way to impress the value of constant training grind in little things."

The first air support command, the combat force working with Lieutenant-General Hugh A. Drum's First army in the two months' maneuvers in the Carolinas is part of General Dargue's command. His headquarters are in New York.

Tersely summarizing his inspection of airplane plants, General Dargue said in an interview:

"The enormous amount of production that is going to pop on this world soon, makes your heart feel good.

"We already have reached a production rate of 50 per cent of the president's goal—50,000 planes a year.

"By maneuvers such as these we are teaching our soldiers—on the ground and in the air—how to get the most out of these tools of defense.

"By the end of this month each of the nation's four armies will have had intensive training with portions of our new air force.

"By living and working together, going through the little things like sleeping on the ground, eating out of cans, traveling in blackouts, making one's own shelter, the men are getting the big things."

During the Louisiana maneuvers in September General Dargue commanded the Third air task force.

INSTITUTION FUND INCREASE IS URGED

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Gus Blancand, director of state institutions, addressing a meeting of First and Second district legislators here yesterday, recommended an increase of $1,431,960.28 in funds for 13 institutions under the jurisdiction of his department.

The money, Blancand said, would be used to offset expected deficits and for urgently needed salary increases and repairs and equipment.

The institutions and the amounts recommended for each included:

Charity hospital at New Orleans, $608,047.04; Shreveport Charity hospital, $135,875 Florida Parishes Charity hospital, $15,644; Lafayette Charity hospital, $8,400; Monroe Charity hospital, $44,629.76; East Louisiana State hospital, $313,900; Central Louisiana State hospital, $187,315.24; state colony and training school, $41,474.54.

Only about 200 miles of the 2,973-mile flight between Los Angeles and Miami is over United States territory.

cated, but the establishment of a naval operating base there, within itself an administrative step, showed that numerous naval activities both ashore and afloat had been or were being set up.

While officials were silent on details, these activities were taken to include ship and plane repair facilities for both British and American craft, fuel depots, ammunition supplies, hospital facilities and the like.

Even if American bases are set up on the British isles themselves—a not unlikely development—it was considered probable that Iceland would remain the most important fleet base in the eastern Atlantic.

In addition to its strategi cposition on the sea lanes to Britain it is also a watch-dog position on the route over which much of the new billion dollar's worth of lease-lend equipment will move to Russia via the port of Archangel.

Already Iceland has figured in more action than any other American naval center since the World war. The toll of dead in patrol and convoy work in waters adjacent to the island mounted to 125 today when the navy added a new name to raise the 101 the total of men lost in the torpedoing of the destroyer Reuben James.

The admiral placed in charge of the new base earned recognition during the World war for his service in the Atlantic. A citation given him with a navy cross praised his work as commanding officer of the destroyer Jenkins "engaged in the exacting and hazardous duty of patrolling the waters infested with enemy submarines and mines and escorting and protecting convoys of troops and slupplies."

repaired. This resolution was originated by the Aletheian club of Lafayette.

Another resolution urged that there be action taken by the next legislative session to provide protection against the spread of tuberculosis and the establishment of hospitals and clinics to meet this great and growing need.

The final session was called to order in the hotel terrace at 9 a.m. Saturday, with Mrs. F. A. Leaming, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale and Mrs. Samuel Levy presiding. The assembly sang "The Star Spangled Banner," after which invocation was by Rev. Ernest D. Holloway. Club litany and flag salute was by Mrs. J. B. Entriken, of the Shreveport Southern Literary club. Minutes were read and resolutions presented for action.

After reports of outstanding clubs had been given, a message from Mrs. Roland Howell was received. Mrs. Howell is director of personnel of the state department of institutions.

Nominations to fill the only vacancy, that of corresponding secretary, was the next order of business, and after this election was held, the courtesy committee reported, announcements were in order, and with the reading of the minutes, adjournment took place.

VOTE BY HOUSE SOUGHT QUICKLY

South Dakota, for instance, said that many of the members who helped roll up the 121 majority on the ship arming proposal had committed themselves at that time to vote for no other amendment.

"That is the precise thing the administration forces have forgotten about," Mundt said. "We have an outside chance of beating the senate amendments and at worst it looks to us like we might lose by only 10 or 15 votes. It may be another draft extension photo finish vote."

He referred to the house vote of 203 to 202 for an 18-month extension of service for youths drafted into military training for an original period of 12 months.

Some administration leaders privately estimated that they would have a margin of 50 to 60 on the question of accepting the senate's repealer.

Senators and representatives alike have, in the main, followed one of two lines of argument: that the legislation would lead the United States into an open war directly and quickly, or that it would remove the shackles from an all-out effort at national defense.

Rayburn and McCormack, agreeing that it would be impossible to obtain unanimous consent to consider the senate bill next week, decided to ask foreign affairs committeemen to go before the rules committee Monday with a request for special procedure—privileged in character—which would get the legislation before the house.

There were reports they would propose that debate be permitted to run all of Wednesday and perhaps several hours on Thursday, with a final vote Thursday afternoon.

Republicans said they would agree to such a program.

BRITISH PLANES POUND AT ENEMY

tinuous pressure" on Germany's war bases, industry and communications. The scale of the raids will be increased as the winter nights lengthen, it was said.

Speaking at Manchester, Lord Beaverbrook, minister of supply and former minister of aircraft production, declared, "I am convinced that the day of vengeance is near at hand—a day of wrath, a day of distress for the enemy, a day of waste and desolation, a day of darkness and gloom in Germany."

The Italian announcement that serious damage was done at Brindisi from hundreds of explosive and incendiary bombs which killed 40 and injured 80, and that Crotone and the Sicilian base of Catania were attacked, also was taken as an indication that the steady pounding of Italy from North African bases will be intensified.

Brindisi was the second Italian city to undergo a prolonged hammering from the R. A. F., Naples having undergone a similar raid October 21.

Following up the night "operations in the heaviest scale," against Germany, Hurricanes and Spitfires in layers made daylight sweeps against German-occupied territory. Their roar filled the skies over the channel coast for more than an hour.

The United States air corps will seek 800 to 1,000 reserve officers annually.

HITLER TROOPS BATTLING HARD

Moscow had been all but thrown into reverse.

Soviet General Rokossovsky, in a Moscow radio broadcast, said the Germans were now struggling to hold their lines against Red army attacks "on many sectors of the front."

German flame-throwers were reported widely in action, darting long tongues of fire over the snow-covered battlefields in attempts to stop the advance of giant Soviet tanks.

Russian front-line dispatches reported General Gregory K. Zhukov's Red armies were counter-attacking heavily in four main sectors—at Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of Moscow; Volokolamsk, 65 miles northwest of Moscow; Mozhaisk, 57 miles west; and somewhere on the left flank, presumably at Maloyaroslavets, 65 miles southwest of the capital.

On the left flank sector, the Moscow radio said "the enemy has been pressed back for four days running."

Only on the far southern front, in the Crimea, did the Russians appear to be in immediate jeopardy.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters—once again silent on operations around Moscow and Leningrad—said German panzer columns had smashed through a six-mile-deep Russian defense zone guarding the narrow Kerch peninsula, gateway to Russia's great Caucasian oil fields.

While the Russians insisted they were holding firmly both around Kerch and Sevastopol, key Black sea naval base, Nazi dispatches said axis troops storming across the Yaila mountains to the coast were maneuvering to attack the Crimea's last strongholds and that Stuka dive-bombers were smashing Soviet "escape fleet" transports off the Crimean coast.

The Nazis were still far behind schedule, however, for last Tuesday they declared that German assault troops would begin a direct attack on Sevastopol "within a very few hours."

To the northeast of the Crimea, the Russians reported that floods, sleet and icy gales had forced the Germans to hole up in the drive against Rostov-on-Don, which guards the land route to the Caucasus from the north.

On the central front, the British radio said General Fedor von Bock's armies were preparing to spring a new attack on Moscow "in the near future," shifting troops southward from Kalinin for a mass assault in another sector, but other reports declared that the Germans were digging in, content with a long winter's siege before Moscow. In this connection, German military experts have contended that Napoleon's big mistake, in his ill-fated drive to Moscow in 1812, was to retreat rather than try to endure the rigors of the Russian winter.

By conservative estimate, the British sent at least 350 bombers, many of them huge new four-motored craft, to rake Berlin, Cologne, Mannheim and other cities in the R. A. F.'s heaviest offensive. Hitler's high command listed seven killed and 32 injured in the attack on Berlin.

The London air ministry acknowledged the loss of 37 R. A. F. planes—the largest number yet admitted in night bombing on either side—and with them probably 200 fliers. Aviation experts said even a 10 per cent loss in planes shot down would be unusually high, although the British declared more than half of the losses were due to heavy thunderstorms and severe icing conditions over the Reich.

The German high command said Nazi fliers and anti-aircraft fighters accounted for 27 R. A. F. night raiders, while more than a dozen R. A. F. planes were declared to have been shot down in Saturday's follow-up daylight raids on German-occupied France.

Germany's axis partner, Italy, also experienced the lash of the far-flung British aerial offensive, with R. A. F. bombers operating from African bases pounding Brindisi, Adriatic port on the heel of Italy's boot, and points in Sicily.

Premier Mussolini's high command admitted that serious damage was inflicted at Brindisi, with 40 killed and 80 injured.

Authoritative London quarters said the scale of raids on Germany would be increased as the winter nights lengthen. Perhaps with this in mind, British Supply Minister Lord Beaverbrook declared:

"I am convinced that the day of vengeance is near at hand—a day of wrath, a day of distress for the enemy, a day of waste and desolation, a day of darkness and gloom for Germany."

WAVE OF UPSETS SWEEPS COUNTRY

56-0, but both Texas A. and M. and Minnesota were seriously extended. Minnesota found Nebraska a stubborn foe but finally won, 9-0. The Texas Aggies had to come from behind to spill Southern Methodist, 21-10, with Derace Moser's passing the decisive factor.

Alabama's Crimson Tide and Mississippi State moved into the van in the hot Southeastern conference race. Alabama, paced by Jimmy Nelson, handed unpredictable Tulane a 19-14 beating before 60,000, largest crowd that ever saw a regular-season football game in the south. Mississippi State, unbeaten but tied once, took a hard-earned 14-7 victory over Auburn. Frankie Sinkwich led Georgia to a 19-3 triumph over Florida while Georgia Tech spilled Kentucky, 20-13.

The Big Ten offered one of the game's greatest scoring duels at Columbus, O., where 58,000 saw Ohio State conquer Wisconsin in a wild encounter, 46-34. Northwestern was hard pressed to stop Billy Hillenbrand and Indiana but finally made the grade, 20-14, but Iowa was an easy victor over Illinois, 21-0. Purdue played a scoreless draw with Michigan State. Detroit nipped Marquette, 7-6.

Oklahoma, warming up for its pivotal Big Six test with Missouri next Saturday, ran up a 55-0 count on Iowa State, while Missouri was knocking over New York university at New York 26-0. Kansas State earned a 3-0 intersectional triumph over South, Carolina. In the Southwest conference, Rice halted Arkansas, 21-12.

Cornell, Penn and Dartmouth checked in with Ivy league victories in the east. Cornell had no trouble with Yale and won, 21-7, but Penn just did hang on long enough to nip Columbia, 19-16, and Dartmouth had to check Princeton's closing rally to win, 20-13.

Penn State checked in with a major upset in spilling Syracuse, 34-19. Temple and Villanova put on their usual all-out spectacle and the former won, 14-13. Holy Cross came back to form and whipped Brown, 13-0, as West Virginia, Boston college and Georgetown all scored intersectional victories. West Virginia trounced Kansas, 21-0; Boston college ran up a 26-6 count on Wake Forest, and Georgetown blanked Maryland, 26-0.

Furman, Virginia Tech and William and Mary all earned Southern conference decisions. Furman won from George Washington, 13-6; V. P. I. came from behind to trip North Carolina State, 14-13, and William and Mary ran up a 21-0 count on Virginia Military. Virginia stopped Washington and Lee, 27-7 as Bill Dudley scored two touchdowns and passed for another.

A tremendous crowd of 73,000 saw Stanford continue its march to the Rose Bowl assignment with a neat 13-0 victory over Southern California. Washington subdued California, 13-6; Oregon State easily trounced U. C. L. A., 19-0, and Washington State blanked Idaho, 26-0, in other conference games.

Denver and Brigham Young won Big Seven decisions, the former beating Utah State, 14-6, while Brigham Young toppled Wyoming, 23-7.

FLUCTUATIONS LIMITED

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The board of directors of the New Orleans cotton exchange today limited fluctuations to one cent a pound or 100 points in any one day in accordance with a request by the department of agriculture. The limitation is to prevent prices from varying more than one-cent a pound from the closing prices of the previous day. The board, during the World war period of 1918, put a two-cent fluctuation limit on cotton.

There were 2,656 airports, seaplane bases and landing fields in the United States and Canada on January 1, 1941.

HITLER ASSERTS NAVY TO SHOOT

the attempted putsch of November 9, 1923.

Referring to a possible British attempt to open a second front against Germany, Hitler declared:

"If the English choose to undertake an offensive, whether it is in Norway, on our German coast or in Holland, Belgium, or France, we can only say:

"Step up, you will leave again faster than you came!

"We have transformed these coasts into a status different from what they were a year ago.

"We have worked there with national socialistic thoroughness * * * and naturally we are continuing to work there.

"I have never known a standstill. In some places there are ten batteries, then five are added, and then there are 15, then, five more and still more. Our enemies themselves deliver us cannon."

(British Supply Minister Lord Beaverbrook declared in Manchester today that Britain eventually would be up against 100,000 guns.)

"We also have left sufficient forces everywhere in order to be prepared at any time," Hitler asserted.

The fight, he added, has become "a fight not only for Germany but for all Europe, a fight for existence or non-existence."

"No telling how long I may drive my next car—so I changed to Pontiac"

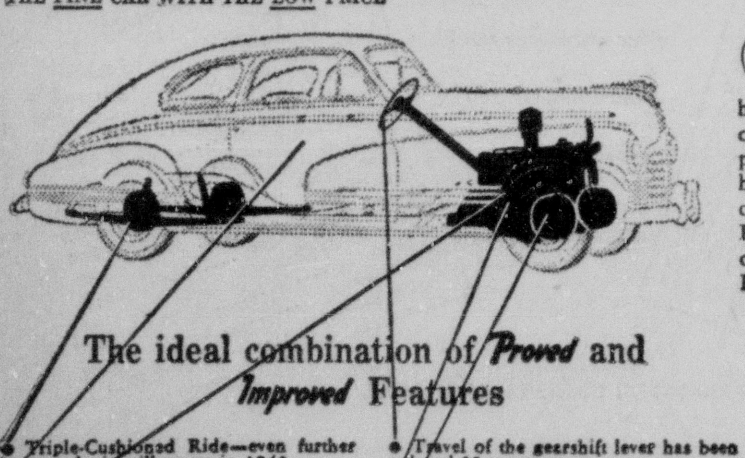
GENERAL MOTORS' MASTERPIECE

THE FINE CAR WITH THE LOW PRICE



MANY OF THE PEOPLE now driving new Pontiacs are former owners of both higher and lower-priced cars who have changed to Pontiac in a mass preparedness move. Unable to foresee how long they may drive their new cars, these motorists are turning to Pontiac for the proved long life and operating economy which have made Pontiac owners so overwhelmingly enthusiastic. They quickly learned that the new Pontiacs have the same important operating features as past, successful Pontiacs. They learned, too, that Pontiac prices remain only slightly higher than the lowest—only a few dollars more per month on available terms. Hence their far-sighted selection of Pontiac—a choice which you yourself will make once you discover how little it costs.

The ideal combination of Proved and Improved Features

- Triple-Cushioned Ride—even further improved—is still yours in 1942.
- New Bodies by Fisher provide the same strength and quality for which they have long been famous.
- Vital engine parts are unchanged for 1942 except for an improved oil cleaner.
- Travel of the gearshift lever has been reduced 30 per cent.
- Pontiac's gas and oil economy remains at the same high peak.
- For 1942 Pontiac front wheel brakes have been increased in size and all are now triple-sealed.

AVAILABLE AS A SIX OR AN EIGHT IN ANY MODEL

Your present car may cover part or perhaps all of the down payment on a 1942 Pontiac. The balance may be paid in monthly installments.

Proud To Be Doing Our Part

Pontiac is doing its part for National Defense by building a new type of rapid-fire cannon for the United States Navy. Two complete plants have been devoted to the exclusive manufacture of these cannon. Thousands of skilled craftsmen have been trained to operate the highly technical machines. Over two hundred sub-contracts have been awarded in order to get necessary materials in the shortest possible time. This means building fewer cars—but Pontiac places defense work ahead of everything else.

NOTICE

Monroe, Louisiana,
November 9, 1941.

To Our Depositors:

Throughout the many years in which we have served your banking needs, we have not called upon you to pay exchange on out-of-town checks deposited with us or cashed for you.

It is true that exchange was collected by the bank upon whom the check was drawn, but we were relieved of most of this expense, as the banks with whom we deposited these checks heretofore permitted the exchange charges to be offset or absorbed, by allowing us credit on our collected balances on deposit with them.

Conditions have now very materially changed in the banking world, as well as in all other lines of business. Today the banker finds he can no longer place in sound commercial loans anything like the amounts carried on deposit with him and he therefore carries large amounts in uninvested cash, bearing no income or earning to his bank.

Due to this fact, all of the banks with whom we deposit these out-of-town checks, have now begun charging us out-of-pocket exchange on all points not cleared at par through the Federal Reserve Bank and they no longer permit this cost to be absorbed or offset by credit balances, regardless of the amount we may carry on deposit with them. This puts the entire cost of exchange upon us—a very heavy expense.

As we too are unable to find sufficient field of sound investments to take up our idle cash and increase our earnings to offset these charges, we therefore find no other course to pursue than to pass this exchange cost back to our depositors.

We therefore take this means to notify you that, on and after January 2nd, 1942, we will make a charge against your account, or collect in cash, exchange which we will be required to pay on non-par out-of-town items deposited with us.

We do this reluctantly but through necessity and ask your kindly cooperation, which you have always given us in the past.

hat's Burke's Ambition When He Becomes President Of Queens

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—James A. urke wants to be like a father to is 1,300,000 constituents.

That's what he said today when sked about his plans after the first f the year when he assumes the residency of Queens, one of the city's ve boroughs.

He has no illusions that he is a big-hot politician, despite his remarkable -to-1 victory at the polls Tuesday ver the Republican incumbent, eorge U. Harvey, who had held office 13 years, and despite the fact hat since 1930 he has always held n elective office, either state assemblyman or city councilman.

"I operate as if Queens had no onnection with Manhattan," says urke, 52-year-old indefatigable Irish emocrat.

"I arrange weddings, patch up famy quarrels, take care of illegitimate abies, sit in the bleachers and watch he community baseball teams play. nd I play bingo at the local Legion lubhouse."

He ignores the usual politician's ethods, baby-kissing especially. ve never kissed a baby that wasn't l enough to kiss back," he said.

Burke rode into the $15,000-a-year orough presidency the hard way, ver a virtually citywide Republican-usion-American Labor party coalion victory.

But that is the way Burke has been oing things since he first went to he New York state assembly in 1930, nknown even to his Democratic eader, John Theofel. In fact it was ot until after he was elected that e was introduced to the then boss f Democratic politics in the borough f small home owners.

Since that day Burke has never een without office. And, Democrat hough he is, he has never had a ammany endorsement; in fact he has never been inside Tammany Hall. He sums up Tammany thus:

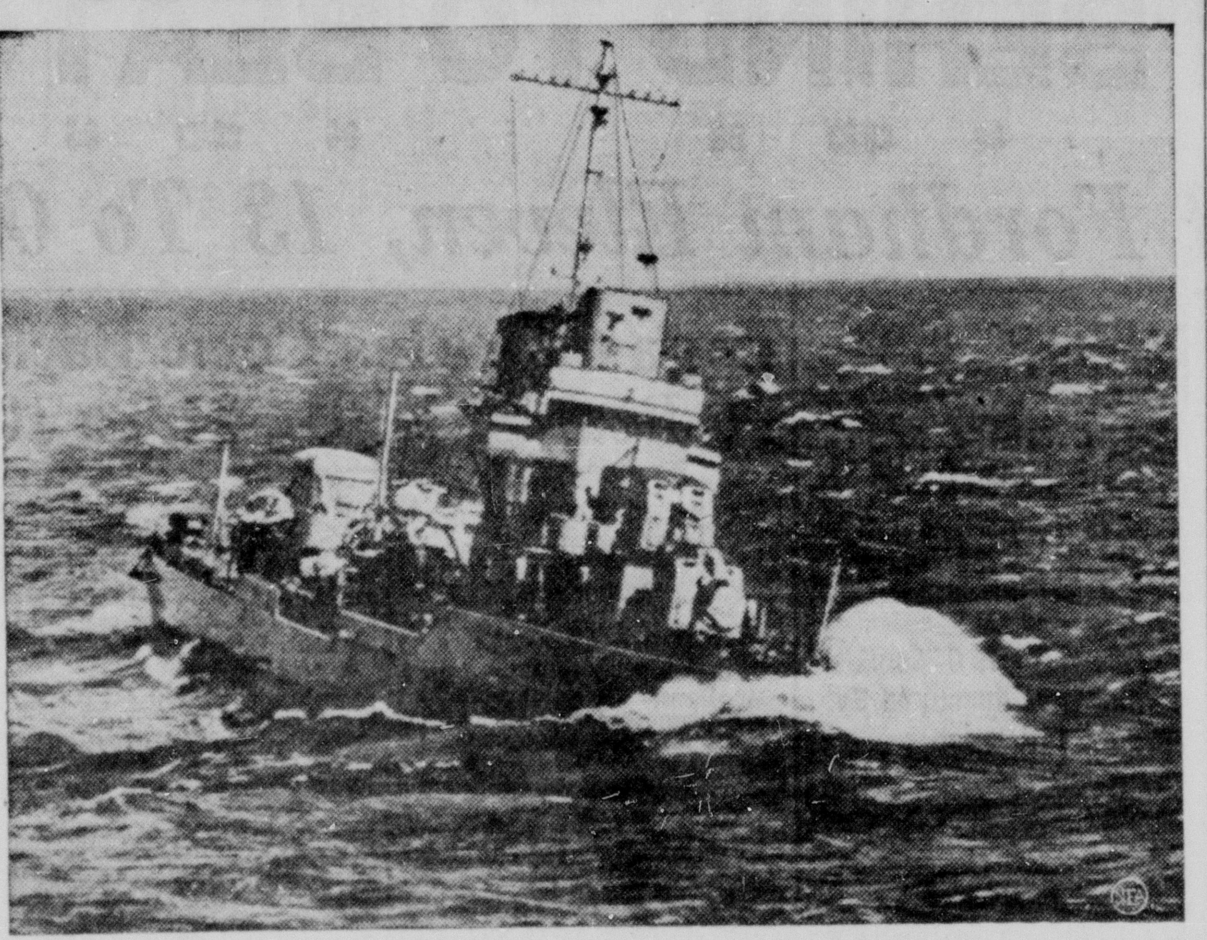
"Tammany is extensively dumb."

That assertion he made to James A. Farley when the former national chairman of the party congratulated Burke on his victory and Burke replied by asking Farley to take over Tammany.

Burke is outspoken that way.

He owns a small unpretentious frame dwelling on an ordinary street in Queens, when he dines out it's at the local dining wagons, he drinks in the ordinary pubs—never the plush-seated, wall-tinted and chromium-plated bistros and he drinks a man's drink, whiskey.

SMALLEST U. S. WARSHIPS GET TOUGHEST JOBS



Trouble shooters, tin can fleet—that's what they call the destroyers of the United States Navy. Smallest of the four major types of warship, they are the most numerous—172—of fighting vessels in our fleet. Thes vessels are armed with five-inch guns, anti-aircraft weapons, torpedoes and depth bombs, equipped for swift and deadly assault on any attacker. When there's a difficult job to be done, the Navy calls on the destroyers. That's why ships like the Reuben James are out in the Atlantic today, leading the Atlantic patrol, protecting convoys, searching for subs west of Iceland—the vanguard of our Navy's shock force.

FOR THE LOVE OF PETE!

BY BURTON BENJAMIN

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER VI

Concern clouded George Landers' face when he strode up to Anne Humphreys on campus the next morning.

"Anne," he inquired, "have you seen Pete?"

"Not since yesterday morning. We had a date last night—and guess what? He didn't show up."

"I'll say he didn't," Landers said dryly. "He wasn't in the apartment last night either."

"He—what?" Anne gave a start. "George, do you suppose anything's wrong?"

"Dunno," he shook his head gravely. "But if he doesn't turn out for practice today, Dinty'll have the militia after him. He's worried about Northwestern Saturday."

Anne dug her hands in the big pockets of her coat and frowned. "I'm worried, George," she said. "Call it woman's intuition or anything you like. I have a hunch sonny's got himself in another jam."

"Hope not," Landers grunted. "Dugan'll take just so much and then . . ." He shrugged his shoulders. "I'll drop over to the house tonight and let you know what's what. That'll give the old hens something to cackle about," he managed a half smile.

"Good," she nodded. "I'll be ready about 7:30."

Pete Laird's absence received official recognition that afternoon. Dugan was collecting the first team for dummy scrimmage. Suddenly he stopped and looked around.

"Hey, Phil," he called to the manager, "Where's Laird?"

"Haven't seen him, Coach."

"Has he an afternoon class?" asked Dugan.

"Nope, he's free after lunch."

Dugan walked over to Landers. "Where's Pete?" he asked. "He's been around long enough to know when practice starts."

"I don't know, Coach," said Landers, kicking an imaginary hunk of dirt out of his cleats. "Maybe he's got a class or something."

"Yes," Dugan looked at Landers quizzically, "yes, maybe he has." He blew his whistle. "O. K.—first team over here, seconds down there with Pat. Sheridan take the tailback on the varsity today."

Players stared at Dugan and began looking around for Laird. Several of them whispered among themselves. "All right," snapped Lester, "break it up. We've got a lot to do."

After practice Dugan, Lester and the other coaches dressed in their locker room.

"That Sheridan kid looked good today, Coach," said Lester. "He's fast and tricky out there."

"Couple of years from now he'll be a whizz," grunted Dugan. "Right now, he's young. Isn't as smart as Laird."

"Wonder where that bird is," muttered Lester, squeezing on a shoe. "You don't suppose that Stevens dame . . ."

"I don't suppose anything," Dugan said quietly. "I'll have a talk with him when he comes around."

Anne was at the door of the Delt house that night. "Any news?" she asked Landers eagerly.

"Nope," he said quietly, "not a word. The guy's done a fadeout. If he doesn't show tomorrow Dugan'll probably call the police."

Fraternity row was beginning the evening hegira to the Delt house. The room grew noisy and crowded as campus smoothies called for their dates. Some headed for an evening at the library, others for a night of juke box jitterbugging. A few set off for the movies.

"Let's get out of here, Anne," said Landers above the bedlam. "I want to talk to you."

She nodded, slipped on a loose covert coat, and they pushed their way through the crowd. People stared at them and one girl whispered too loudly: "That'll teach Pete Laird to give her the air!" They hurried out into the street.

It was one of those nights—beautifully crisp, a sky full of stars and a pumpkin moon. Buoyant, Anne took a deep breath of the cool air. "Let's go down to the island, George," she said almost gaily. "It's a perfect night!"

"Fine," he grinned, "just what I hoped you'd say."

He slipped his arm into hers and they walked briskly down the quiet streets. Neither spoke; each was buried in thought. Anne wondered about Pete. Had one short week changed everything? Landers thought of the girl who walked beside him. He had loved her for three years, never saying a word to anyone, always standing by for Laird. And Landers was too realistic to relish the role. He scorned the platonic, the "good-old-George," the nobility of stepping aside and being a good pal.

"Good-old-pal"—it infuriated him! Unconsciously he prodded himself. "Now's your chance, George. He doesn't care about her any more. You've waited long enough. Tell her, George. Tell her while you've got the chance."

He clasped her hand tightly, and she looked up and smiled. "We're almost there," she said. They were crossing the bridge over the railroad tracks. Beyond them, bathed in moonlight, lay the island—scene of college romances from time immemorial. A little stream played around it and the trees waltzed lightly in a freshening wind.

They sat down on the bench under the old oak. Neither spoke. Finally Anne broke the silence.

"Why so quiet, George?" she asked.

"Just thinking," he answered quietly. "Been doing a lot of thinking."

"About Pete?"

"No!" He stood up and fairly shouted it. "Not about Pete! Is that all you think I do—think of Pete, worry about Pete, take care of Pete?" He stopped and sat down. "I'm sorry, Anne. I was thinking about you."

"About me, George?" she said, surprised.

"Yes," he said softly, "about you. Always about you, Anne. It's never been any other way."

She stared at him incredulously. "You mean—"

"I mean I love you, Anne." There, he had said it. And he continued—the words coming easily for he had said them to himself hundreds of times.

"I've always loved you, darling," he said. "I knew there was nothing I could do about it. I'd never have told you, Anne, except that Pete's—well—changed. You know that as well as I do. I'm telling you now because I have a right to."

He took her in his arms and kissed her tenderly. She was almost limp and there were tears in her eyes.

"George," she sobbed, "oh, George, what a fool I've been! I'm so ashamed."

Landers kissed her again and felt her arms tighten around his neck. Suddenly she broke free and stood up.

"What's the matter, darling?" he said, standing behind her.

"George, I'm so confused! I never dreamed . . . please . . ." she faltered, "please take me home."

"Sure, Anne," he said. "Sure."

2 WACO PLANES ARE PURCHASED

College Adds To Its Aviation Facilities; Represent $75,000

Two new Waco planes were purchased this week by the flight school at Northeast Junior College, according to Dean C. C. Colvert. The ships are 220 h.p. and valued at $75,000.

Scott Tibbs and Hank Hargrove, instructors in the local flight school, will bring the two ships back from Troy, O. Bad weather delayed the return trip, but a message from Evansville, Ind., indicated that the flyers would reach Monroe sometime Saturday.

One plane will be used to help take care of 10 additional secondary flight students and the other will be used in the cross country-instructor course, Dean Colvert said. The two new ships bring the number of Wacos owned by the N. J. C. flight school up to five.

ALABAMA COMES FROM BEHIND TO BEAT WAV

NELSON IS STAR OF MINOR UPSET OVER TULANIANS

Crimson Tide Scores In Last Two Minutes To Down Greenies, 19-14

By Mortimer Kreeger

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson Tide came charging from behind with offensive power at the crucial time today to score twice in the final half and beat Tulane's slightly-favored Green Wave 19-14, thus staying right in the bowl picture.

An estimated 60,000 spectators, the largest crowd ever to watch a regular season football game in the South, saw Alabama, badly outplayed in the first half, drive to the winning score with less than two minutes to play.

Coupled with previously undefeated Fordham's loss to Pittsburgh today, the victory put the once-beaten Tide high in the running for a bid to a New Year's day appearance.

Tulane had a big edge in statistics, gaining 252 net yards to Alabama's 123 and making 16 first downs to the Tide's 7 but when desperately needed, as in the final minute of play, the Wave's passes were smeared by the hard-fighting Tide.

A beautifully executed reverse on a punt return gave Alabama the game's first score after four minutes of play. Jimmy Nelson took a punt by Bob Glass on the 'Bama 40 and raced toward the west sideline.

But he slipped the ball to Dave Brown who ran hard for the east side and down the sideline for a touchdown as Al Sabo took out the only Tulanian within tackling distance. George Hecht's placekick was no good.

Tulane then took command for the rest of the half. After one drive into 'Bama territory bogged down, the Wave rolled 51 yards in six plays. Lou Thomas passed 25 yards for the touchdown to Gordon English who was all alone in the end zone. Thomas' placekick put Tulane ahead 7-6.

In the second period, when a punt exchange had put the Greenies on Alabama's 39, Tulane drove to its second score with Johnny Sims and Jim Thibaut hitting the Alabama line for most of the yardage and the touchdown came on another pass by Thomas, which Bob Grush caught on the goal line. Thomas again placekicked goal.

Held to a net loss of four yards and not a single first down in the opening half, the Tide surged 75 yards for a touchdown the first time it got the ball in the third period. Russ Craft's 20-yard end run and Nelson's 34-yard pass to Holt Rast gained most of the ground and Nelson's pass to Rast covered the last three yards. Hecht's placekick was good.

Nelson's 66-yard quickkick, after a long period of defensive play by both sides, put Tulane in a hole on its 12 and started the Tide's last scoring drive.

Nelson returned Glass' kick three yards to the Tulane 40, then ran and passed to spark the victory march that culminated in Don Salls' two-yard plunge. Hecht again missed the placekick.

Jimmy Nelson was almost the whole show in the Tide's two touchdown marches, and returned a kickoff 60

ENGINEERS BEAT KENTUCKY, 20-13

Rambling Wreck Has Barely Enough Power To Nose Out Wildcats

By Kenneth Gregory

ATLANTA, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The rambling wreck of Georgia Tech, rolling along at reduced steam in chilly weather, generated barely enough power today to subdue an ever-threatening band of Kentucky Wildcats 20 to 13 before a shivering crowd of 12,000.

Although taking the lead and holding it from the start, Tech, playing in-and-out football staved off a last minute threat and gathered in a Southeastern conference victory that meant little except for the records.

The highlight of the game was Kentucky's first touchdown and even that score, coming on the last play of the second period, left the Bluegrass Wildcats trailing 7-13 at the intermission.

To a slim crowd of spectators, Kentucky's second period touchdown revived interest in a drab game. With the ball on Georgia Tech's 42 and three seconds remaining, Phil Cutchin faded back and heaved a pass to Noah Mullins at the Tech 2. He ambled over after a neat catch. Junior Jones added the extra point and renewed Kentucky's hopes.

But those meager hopes lasted only through a few minutes of the third period as Georgia Tech, with little Johnny Bosch showing flashes of his well-known pepper, engineered the Jackets to a touchdown drive for winning points.

Bobby Sheldon returned a punt 25 yards to set up the march from Kentucky's 35. Bosch passed to George Webb for 12 and to Wilbur Stein for 10. Bobby Dodd got three after a five-yard Kentucky penalty and then Bosch lugged it over for the score.

Kentucky came right back to drive 63 yards for a touchdown, and followed up with another punch to the Tech 22 that might have tied the count, but that threat fizzled when a completed pass to Mullins was caught and then dropped and Jack Helms recovered at the Tech 22.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Wake Forest's Deacons extended Boston college for the full 60 minutes today although the Eagles collected a 26-6 decision.

Two of the Eagle tallies came at the tail end of ferocious marches which bit huge chunks of yardage out of the rugged Wake Forest line. But the others came on lucky breaks.

MISSISSIPPI COLLEGE DOWNS MERCER, 27-19

CLINTON, Miss., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Before a homecoming day crowd of several thousand persons, Mississippi college tonight defeated the Mercer Bears 27 to 19.

Choctaw tallies were made by Fulton, Spence and McLeod while counting for Mercer were Phillips and Page.

During the half Dr. J. W. Provine, president of Mississippi college, was signally honored for his work as president of the S. I. A. A.

DETROIT 7; MARQUETTE 6

DETROIT, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The University of Detroit football team cashed in on its sole scoring opportunity today and by the margin of Quarterback Arthur Link's placekick for extra point defeated Marquette, 7-6, before 16,541 homecoming fans.

PANTHERS STOP RAM TEAM COLD IN GREAT UPSET

Rose Bowl Hopes Of Confident Easterners Punctured By Pittsburgh

By Duke Moran

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Pitt 13; Fordham 0.

And thereby hangs another enactment of football's favorite saga—the story of the team that always was beaten rising to glory behind a shocking upset of the team that couldn't be beaten.

In this case it was a band of badly mauled Pitt Panthers—they hadn't won once in five previous starts—who smashed down a potential football powerhouse, the all-victorious Fordham Rams.

Even dyed-in-the-wool Panther fans had lost faith in the off-beaten Pitt club and there was a bare 20,000 spectators in the cavernous recesses of smoke-stained Pitt stadium for the game.

But those comparatively few faithful who sat chilled through a cloudy, snow-flecked day witnessed an epic. For the Panthers not only defeated the Rams—they balked the touted powerhouse at every turn and clearly led in every department of play.

Until this blow was dealt them, the Rams seemed headed for some one of the nation's post-season bowl class-

DUKE'S BLUE DEVILS TROUNCE DAVIDSON

Wademen Keep Record Clean With 56-0 Victory

DAVIDSON, S. C., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Duke's big Blue Devils, defending a perfect record for the 1941 football season, overpowered Davidson 56-0 today in a Southern conference football game before 10,000 spectators.

Wallace Wade's team, said by many Duke followers to be his best in years, displayed not only crushing power, but the plethora of reserves also had been tutored in deceptive, hipper-dipper style of play that kept fans ofttimes guessing where the ball was until some scat back or another would break into Davidson's secondary.

Texas Aggies Come Back To Beat S. M. U., 21 To 10

Last Period Passes Give A. And M. Victory Over Methodists

By Harold V. Ratliff

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Derace Moser threw scoring passses down shadowy sidelines today to pull the Texas Aggies from the brink of defeat and give them a 21-10 victory over gallant Southern Methodist.

For 49 minutes the Mustangs battled the Aggies to a standstill, leading them 10-9 on Bo Campbell's field goal, but the Red line finally pulled itself together to remain among the nation's undefeated and untied teams, the only eleven now with that status in the Southwest conference.

A crowd of 20,000 remained in a continuous uproar as Southern Methodist's battered forces, crushed 34-0 last week by Texas, outplayed the Aggies for three quarters.

One man in the crowd died during the excitement. James A. Ramsey, 55, of Belton, succumbed in the first period during which two touchdowns were made.

It required only four minutes for A. and M. to score with Moser cutting back over left guard from the S. M. U. 11 after having passed to Jim Sterling and Bill Henderson for 17 and 12-yard gains respectively. Jake Webster kicked goal.

Six minutes later the Mustangs tied the score on Preston Johnston's great runs after the Aggies had staved off one S. M. U. drive to their nine. Moser punted out to the Aggies 48 and in two runs Johnston scored. The touchdown came on a 38-yard romp. Johnston added the point.

In the second period S. M. U. gained the ball on its 23 after an exchange of punts and whirled down to the A. and M. 27 where the attack bogged down. Campbell sent a field goal between the posts from the Aggie 35.

The Aggies got a safety shortly after the third period opened. They had smashed with the kick-off from their 42 to the S. M. U. 37 where Moser punted outside on the Mustang one-yard line. Johnston, passing from behind his goal line, stepped outside the end zone. That made the score 10-9 in favor of S. M. U.

Shortly after the final period opened the Aggies got the clincher. Bob Williams ran a punt from his 39 to the Southern Methodist 33. Moser passed to Marshall Spivey for 24, then flipped him another in the coffin corner. Webster missed the goal—his first failure to add the point in 25 tries.

The Aggies added another touchdown. Moser led a ground attack down to the S. M. U. 30 where he passed to Spivey in the corner of the field. Hardy Miller of S. M. U. batted the ball into the air and Spivey grabbed it to fall across the goal line for the score. Webster again missed.

TENNESSEE'S VOLS BEAT HOWARD, 28-6

Sophomores Do Most Of Work In Easy Victory

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Tennessee played only well enough to win today, entrusting to a quartet of sophomore backs the job of belaboring little Howard college, 28 to 6.

A chilled crowd of 3,000 saw the Vols rush to three touchdowns in the first half as the result of a 62-yard punt return by Tailback Walter Slater and 57 and 45-yard marches. Slater's run, a pretty exhibition of broken field galloping, failed a foot short of the goal line as he was nailed from behind. He scored, however, two plays later.

Fullback Bill Nowling and his sub, Sophomore Bill Gold, scored the other touchdowns, the latter climaxing a fourth period drive for 38 yards.

Off to their early lead, the Vols seemed content not to press the issue, but they were hard put at times by the passing accuracy of Jimmy Tarrant, 152-pounder, whose tossing was responsible for the Bulldogs' 74-yard second quarter march that culminated with Buck Williams' three-yard plunge for the points.

MAROONS DEFEAT AUBURN, 14 TO 7

Mississippi State Comes From Behind To Beat Tough Tiger Team

By Romney Wheeler

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 8.—(AP)—An unbeaten Mississippi State football team reasserted its challenge for the Southeastern conference championship today, whipping Auburn 14-7 before 11,000 chilled spectators.

The Maroons, digging deep in their bag of tricks, came from behind with two swift touchdowns in the third period—one of them a 75-yard gallop by speedy Blondy Black—for their first win over Auburn since 1930.

Auburn, the surprise team which lost last week to Georgia on a last-second touchdown, might have won a 7-0 decision but for over-caution of Quarterback Lloyd Cheatham. Leading by a touchdown in the third quarter, fourth down and foot to go on the Tiger 47, he called for a punt. It was the game's turning point.

The ball went out of bounds on State's 20. A penalty against Auburn for delay of the game put the ball on State's 25. On the next play Black exploded on a wide end sweep, danced clear of a half-dozen tacklers and scooted up the east side line to score without a man near him.

Auburn had time to try just one play after the ensuing kickoff—and that was the play which lost the game. Halfback Monk Gafford gambled on a pass from his 34. Up surged State's center, Emmett Ray, and down he came with the ball under one arm. Gafford speared him at the 12, but Black gave State a first down on the two and plunged over on the next play for the score.

Sonny Bruce place kicked both extra points.

Auburn scored in the second period when Fullback Jim Reynolds climaxed a 66-yard drive by banging through guard from the five. Louis Chateau, Auburn place kicking specialist, booted the extra point.

Black ran the Tigers ragged all afternoon, gaining 168 yards on 27 tries and pitching four consecutive completed passes for 18 yards in the first quarter.

The yardstick emphasized State's superiority, the Maroons piling up 17 first downs against 6 for Auburn and gaining 244 yards net by rushing for 66 yielded to Auburn.

Auburn got a last-minute chance to tie up the game when Herbert Burton, substitute end, recovered a fumble by Black on Mississippi State's 49. A long pass, Clarence Harkins to Fagan Canzoneri, gave Auburn first down on State's 20, but Harkins lost 17 yards on his next try for a pass, and a penalty for extra time-out threw the Tigers back to their 42. Watler Craig ended the threat by intercepting Auburn's final pass on his 20.

WASHINGTON'S HUSKIES TOP CALIFORNIA, 13 TO 6

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Washington's Huskies clung to slender Rose Bowl hopes today with a bruising 13 to 6 football victory over California's Bears before a gloomy day crowd of 40,000 fans.

The Huskies, definitely superior but pressed from the opening kickoff to final gun, scored a touchdown and added the extra tally in the opening quarter to take a lead that was threatened once but never topped.

MANHATTAN 13; BOSTON U. 7

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Manhattan turned back Boston university, 13 to 7, before 6,500 fans today tallying once by land and once by air after being held scoreless for two periods. Charley McNulty sprinted 60 yards for Manhattan's second touchdown after a 19-yard pass from Lorenzo Castiglione to Horace Gausepohl opened the scoring for the home club. Boston's touchdown came in the final period when Pete Lamana recovered a blocked punt in the end zone.

Sports Editor, AP Feature Service

New names appear each week on the list of All-America possibilities as one performer after another comes through with consistently brilliant performances in 1941 gridiron warfare. Many on the list are surprise newcomers—others are capping fine collegiate careers. Here are some strong bidders:

BERT STIFF, Pennsylvania, was a fourth-stringer last year but as regular fullback is the Quakers' 1941 star.

AL WISTERT, Michigan tackle, is a bright star up on that strong Wolverine front wall.

JIM LANSING, Fordham end, is only a junior but he's an outstanding flankman.

SINKWICH LEADS GEORGIA TO WIN

Bulldogs Soundly Trounce University Of Florida By 19-3 Count

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Fireball Frankie Sinkwich went to town for Georgia again today as the Bulldogs soundly trounced the Florida 'Gators, 19-3, before a sellout crowd of 21,000.

Frankie personally accounted for 15 of his team's points. He uncorked a 22-yard dash off tackle in the third quarter for a touchdown, kicked a 25-yard field goal in the same period and cracked the Florida line five times for 18 yards and another touchdown in the final quarter.

Georgia's placekick specialist, Leo Costa, added the extra points after Sinkwich's two touchdowns. Fullback Dick McPhee tackled Florida's Tommy Harrison behind the 'Gator goal line in the second quarter for a safety and Georgia's other two points.

Florida's three points climaxed a drive that carried 50 yards in the first quarter to the Georgia 10. After losing four in trying to crack the Georgia line, the 'Gators called in their own placekick specialist, Paul Eller. The ball was on the 14 and Eller kicked it from about the 26 at an angle.

Except for the first quarter, the Bulldogs dominated play. In the second period they got to the Florida 10 on one sally, to the five on another and to the four in a third drive.

Harrison almost got a touchdown for Florida early in the fourth. After he streaked 51 yards to the Georgia 36, the 'Gators pushed on down to the Georgia 22 but Andy Dudish broke up the drive by intercepting a Florida pass into the end zone.

The deferment is for the remainder of the present school quarter.

Coach Malone Calls For Plenty Of Hard Work On Part Of Indians

The Indians of Northeast Junior college will invade Hammond next Friday to renew their rivalry with the Lions of Southeastern Louisiana college Friday night.

Both the Indians and the Lions consider it a successful season if one can beat the other, and Friday night's game will be no exception.

"There will be nothing but hard work during the coming week," Coach Jim Malone of the Indians said last night.

The Tribe mentor added that every workout would be a secret session, and no one not connected with the athletic department of the college will be permitted on the sidelines during the workouts.

Malone said he was well satisfied with the performance of his freshmen club which trounced the Hinds Junior college eleven Friday night. Incidentally, it was practically the same team which beat the Indians last year. And Malone will lose only Swanger, McElroy, backs, and Laudadio, center, and Cosper, end from this year's squad.

There was only one casualty in last week's game. Charles Smith of Stuttgart, Ark., suffered a knee injury two minutes before the game ended after playing a great game at tackle in replacing Dunnington.

The passing of Junior Williams, the all-round play of Jack Bishop and the running of Jo Jo Swanger, reminiscent of Bobby Kellogg, were outstanding against Hinds Friday night.

Southeastern has had a fairly successful season so far, and a victory over Northeast Junior college would top off a good year. In their last game, the Lions lost to Louisiana Normal when the Demons scored a touchdown in the last minute of play after being outplayed all during the game. The Lions gained more than 200 yards by rushing and completed 19 passes, only to lose a heart-breaker to the Natchitoches eleven.

The Indians will leave here at noon Thursday and will work out on the Louisiana State university field Thursday night. They were invited to stage their drill there by Coach Bernie Moore of L. S. U., who will be present to watch the Tribe work out.

TEMPLE TEAM NOSES OUT VILLANOVA SQUAD, 14 TO 13

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A 42-yard pass from Substitute Al Ditomo to Cliff Seaver and Tackle Hank Zajkowski's accurate place kicking enabled Temple university to come from behind to nose out Villanova, 14-13 before a crowd of 30,000 today.

The result was a bitter blow to Villanova, which had got off to a 7-0 first quarter touchdown after Temple had tied the score at 7-7 in the second period.

Little Bud Higgins Again Sparks Powerful Big Ten To Triumph

By Jay Vessels

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Minnesota's Golden Gophers won their fifteenth straight football game today, defeating Nebraska, 9 to 0, in a stubbornly fought contest.

Stepping methodically along toward another perfect season, Coach Bernie Bierman's outfit held the upper hand from the start. They threatened several times but found the going mighty tough when the Cornhuskers' goal was threatened.

There was no score yet, at the start of the second quarter and it took that sensational little man—Bud Higgins—to shoot into the game and begin taking that pigskin places.

Midget Bud showed the big fellows how it should be done by skipping ten yards for a first down on the Nebraska one. Then, heavyweight Bob Sweiger powered it over.

But the Huskers smashed through and blocked the try for the extra point and were still very much in the ball game. That was the way things remained right on through the third period, with Minnesota warily trying to pick up a safe margin and Nebraska desperately trying to connect with a payoff pass.

Early in the fourth period, Bill Daley tried for a field goal from the Huskers' 22 but it was wide. Then came a punt exhibition and Bill began plunging for substantial yardage. He battered to the Nebraska seven where on fourth down, Bill Garnaas booted a field goal. And Minnesota's championship stride thus was finally protected with just a few minutes remaining.

Nebraska, handicapped without Fullback Vike Francis, gamely gathered in considerable yardage. But its long and short pass game was thoroughly covered by an alert secondary and Minnesota's brilliant Tackle Dick Wildung took care of the ground attack by repeatedly breaking through and tossing the ball carriers for losses.

Nebraska made its first and last serious bid for a touchdown just as the first half ended when Bradley completed a 20-yard forward to Metheny to put the ball on the Minnesota 23. But the gun sounded before another play could be attempted.

TARHEELS TROUNCE RICHMOND, 27 TO 0

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The University of North Carolina's rejuvenated Tarheels scored four touchdowns in the first half tonight and then coasted to a 27-to-0 victory over the University of Richmond football team before 2,500 fans.

Johnny Pecora, Tarheel quarter, started the rout by running the opening kickoff back 97 yards for a touchdown. O'Hara took a pass from Pecora for another score after Suntheimer had recovered on the Richmond 23 a blocked kick from Fitzgerald's toe. Barksdale recovered a fumble on Richmond's 8 and Cox, who replaced Pecora, lugged it through the line in three tries for the third touchdown in the opening period.

The fourth Tarheel touchdown came in the second period in a drive from the North Carolina 19 with Corn, sub for Barksdale, breaking through the line for the final 12 yards.

Dunkle kicked three extra points out of four attempts from placement.

WASHINGTON STATE RUNS OVER IDAHO UNIVERSITY

PULLMAN, Wash., Nov. 8.—(AP)—In a wild third period featured by a touchdown donation on the opening kickoff, Washington State defeated the University of Idaho, 26 to 0, today.

Aside from that period, when the only scoring was made, Idaho played the touted State college Cougars into the ground and for most of the time was carrying the fight into W. S. C. territory.

VIRGINIA ROLLS OVER WASHINGTON AND LEE

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 8.—(AP)—A lamb-like Washington and Lee team played according to the form book and yielded 27 points to Virginia's favored Cavaliers in the first half today, but fought like lions in the last two periods to score seven points and threaten another touchdown while holding Virginia scoreless. Twelve thousand saw the 27-7 homecoming game between the traditional rivals.

Harvard Crimson Defeats Previously Unbeaten Army

Cadets Wear Themselves Out Against Stone Wall Defense, Lose 20-6

By Bill King

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Army's previously unbeaten Cadets pounded themselves into weariness charging against Harvard's famed stonewall defense and wound up as the victims of a shocking 20-6 setback today before 55,000 spectators.

Few in the largest crowd the stadium had housed since 1937 were surprised when the Cadets, with an impressive early burst of speed, started a 62-yard scoring drive the third time they gained possession of the ball in the first period.

After the fleet Hank Masur and Ralph Hill had raced to Harvard's 25-yard line on six plays, the former tossed a beautiful pass that End Jim Kelleher, the first of 15 Cadet subs to see action, carried over the Harvard goal line.

While ruining Army's clean slate, the burly Harvards also enabled their coach, Dick Harlow, to gain his first success against Earl Blaik, the Cadets' new head football tutor. The latter produced six consecutive winners over Harlow-trained teams before he left Dartmouth for West Point.

Mazur, Hill and Johnny Hatch, the Army's best ball carriers, made desperate efforts to get rolling but the batterings they took from the Crimson's powerful linemen had them down to a snail's pace midway through the second period.

As the Cadets faltered, Harvard opened, its long-delayed offense which, in 40 minutes provided them with 20 points, seven more than it was able to register in all its five previous games this season.

After the Cadets had lost a total of 14 yards trying to rush during the third period, they took to the air at every opportunity during the finale, even inside their own 15-yard line.

As the action moved along to its one-sided conclusion, the Harvard attack was unlimbered slowly. Everything clicked to perfection and scouts for Brown and Yale, the Crimson's remaining opponents, must have been convinced that the Crimson has reached the high peak it usually hits in November.

OREGON STATE COLLEGE DEFEATS U. C. L. A., 19-0

CORVALLIS, Ore, Ore., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Oregon State college, back in the form that stopped Stanford a month ago, defeated U. C. L. A., 10 to 0, today in a Pacific Coast conference football game.

Before 10,000 homecoming spectators, the Beaver eleven out-classed the Bruins all the way with a varied offense and a stiff defense which once, in the third period, held the visitors on the one-yard line for four downs. The game was played under brilliant sunshine on a dry field.

KANSAS STATE UPSETS SOUTH CAROLINA, 3 TO 0

MANHATTAN, Kans., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Sophomore Earl Williams' foot felt like a leaden weight—that's how numb it was from the cold—but he lifted it, as light as a ballet dancer would, to boot a 25-yard field goal.

That kick, executed from a sharp angle, just barely trickled over the cross-bar to give Kansas State, the upset king of the Big Six, a 3-0 triumph over South Carolina. More than 8,000 customers saw Williams boot the goal in the last five minutes.

BUCKEYES DOWN BADGERS, 46-34

Wildest Scoring Contest Ever Witnessed In Ohio State Stadium

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 8.—(AP)—In the wildest scoring contest ever witnessed in the big Buckeye stadium, Ohio State defeated Wisconsin 46 to 34 today before 58,519 shivering fans to take over third place in the Western conference championship scrap.

The rival coaches, "Four-Horseman" Harry Stuhldreher of the Badgers and Paul E. Brown of the Bucks, promised to shoot the works for the big crowd which included 10,000 from their home town of Massillon—and they did it with a vengeance.

They showed everything except a defense. A dozen touchdowns leaked through as the two clubs piled up 80 points—one of the greatest totals in big team history.

The Bucks scored seven touchdowns, and they made them on sustained marches or quick thrusts which covered 70, 74, 70, 64, 66, 44 and 67 yards while the Badgers marched 35, 45, 80, 61 and 65 yards for their quintet of markers.

CHRISTIANS BEAT CENTENARY, 35-7

Gentlemen From Shreveport Put Up Best Performance Of Season

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Centenary college put on its best grid performance of the season but it wasn't good enough to hold back the powerful Texas Christian university Horned Frogs who conquered them by 35 to 7.

The local Gentleman had to be satisfied with a remarkable play by their Indian star, Truman "Chief" Johnson who received the third-quarter kickoff to run 86 yards for a touchdown.

A touchdown by Texas Christian within the first three minutes of play failed to discourage a team that hasn't won a game this season. The Gents, playing defensively most of the time, held the Frogs to one touchdown for each of the first three periods.

The early touchdown occurred when Bob Raley, Centenary back, fumbled on his 33 and Palmer covered for T. C. U. After a short pass, Nix to Hill, had gained four yards, Nix hurled to Kring in the end zone.

The Frogs' second period score was made after Bagley flipped to Kring on the Gents 15 who scampered across, standing up. The half closed after Charles Birtman, Gent back, intercepted on the 40 a heave by Montgomery and carried the ball to T. C. U.'s one-yard line. The whistle sounded before another play could be started.

Every try for point after touchdown in the game was successful.

BAYLOR HOLDS TOP-RANKING TEXAS TO DRAW

LONGHORN SQUAD IS HURT BY LOSS OF PETE LAYDEN

Bears Throw Baffling Ground Play, Aerial Magic At Steer Eleven

By Ray Neumann

WACO, Tex., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Baylor hurled baffling ground play and aerial magic at the University of Texas Longhorns today to gain a 7-7 tie with the nation's top-ranked football team.

A hard-charging Baylor offense, led by Kitt Kittrell, an amazing 175-pound sub halfback who ran and passed the Longhorns dizzy, and Jack Wilson, key Bear back, largely outfought a Steer eleven which appeared disorganized throughout.

Fast-breaking backs gave Baylor 128 yards on the ground to the Steers' 116, while the Longhorns gained 43 yards overhead to the Bears' 41. Baylor completed 6 of 12 passes to 4 of 14 by the Steers.

The Longhorns obviously suffered from the loss of regular fullback Pete Layden, wingman Malcolm Kutner and tackle Julian Garrett, all benched because of injuries last week.

Twice Noble Doss, Steer halfback whose foot injury slowed him down, figured in plays that could have meant a Texas victory. Once he dropped a long pass on the Baylor 10 while headed for a possible touchdown, and Baylor's pass to score went over him in the Steer goal zone.

Texas' only marker—where the Steers previously had won six successive contests by margins of not less than 4 touchdowns came shortly before the whistle ended the first half.

Spec Senders, sub Longhorn back, booted out on the Baylor 17 and, after the Bears failed to gain, Bert Edmison, who had got off some beautiful boots before despite a strong breeze, kicked out poorly on the Baylor 10.

Sanders plunged through tackle for four and Roy McKay, sub fullback, hurled one to Sanders on the one. McKay, regularly a third-stringer, crashed over the middle of the staunch Baylor line for the score. Jack Crain booted the point from placement.

The Baylor tally came in the dying moments of the game and climaxed an 82-yard drive.

It was Kittrell who started the campaign with a pass to Wenzell Gandy who was nailed on the Bear 32. Then Kittrell sliced off tackle for nine and Milton Crain plowed his way to the Texas 41. From there on, the Longhorn defense seemed to collapse. It was Kittrell again for eight and again for four.

Kittrell carried for two more and Lewis Self, a guard, managed to fall on a fumble which gained to the Steer 19. A couple of plays later, Kittrell uncorked one to Bill Coleman, 155-pound sub back who had galloped into the end zone with Texas' Doss right behind him. The stands went wild when Coleman snared the aerial. Wilson went in and booted a perfect point from placement.

With only seconds left to go, the Longhorns used crippled Layden who shot a long aerial to Crain in midfield.

PURDUE, MICHIGAN STATE FIGHT TO SCORELESS TIE

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The Boilermakers of old Purdue came close to the promised land today, but couldn't quite make the grade, and had to settle for a scoreless tie with Michigan State on a snow-bogged gridiron before 17,000 shivering spectators.

Purdue had two grand scoring chances; Michigan State none.

LOUISIANA TECH ROUTS WILDCATS

Bulldogs From Ruston Trounce Louisiana College By 45-To-0 Score

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The Bulldogs of Louisiana Tech overpowered the Louisiana college Wildcats, 45 to 0 tonight at Louisiana college's homecoming. The Techmen thus registered the most one-sided victory in the two school's football relations.

Tech got off to a slow start, stopping the only Wildcat drive in the first period on their 15. The first quarter was scoreless and it was late in the second period before the visitors from Ruston broke the ice, Richard Rivers plunging over from the one-yard mark. The Wildcats took the ball from Tech on the 9 and 6 before the Bulldogs drove over, but the rest of the game became a rout.

Tech scored its second touchdown after blocking a Louisiana college punt and recovering on the 3. Gene Fleming went over. Thirty seconds before the end of the half, Clavier shot two passes, one for 21 yards and another for 17, to Newman for the third touchdown. All three attempts for extra points were wide.

James Tinsley, Tech backfield star, got loose several times in the third period, the last run being good for 15 yards and a tally. He kicked the point. Rivers circled end 21 yards for the next marker.

In the fourth period, Pearce passed to Laughlin 21 yards for a touchdown, and Clavier, on the final scoring jaunt, raced 21 yards through the line.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(The Morning World Special News Service)—Missouri footballers have been laughing up their sleeves all week. It seems they worked that "sneak" play against Nebraska and apparently nobody noticed it except a Minnesota scout who was in the stands. . . . They're on the wrong end of a laugh, too. They came to play N. Y. U. with the idea they could open up without being scouted, only to learn that most of the pro giants will be there, pencils in hand, ready to write notes to their old pal, Snorter Luster of Oklahoma. . . . After the boxing commission doctors pronounced Lew Jenkins okay, it was suggested that he should start training Monday . . . said Lew: "I ain't no cream puff. I'll start tomorrow." . . . Earl Mann, the Atlanta Crackers' president, became a pappy the other day and his pals claim that after the fourth bawl Earl exclaimed: "Oh, oh! a Southern league umpire."

Quote, Unquote

Forest Evashevski, former Michigan quarterback now coach at Hamilton college: "It's a lot more fun on this end of the whistle. Headaches? yes. Backaches? no. I'll take the headaches."

One-Minute Sports Page

Minneapolis papers say now is the time to order your Minnesota football tickets for 1942. . . . The Columbus Bulls figure that after tomorrow's game in Buffalo they'll have 50,000 yards from scrimmage and 5,000 miles by automobile to their credit for the America football league season. . . . Eveleth (Minn.) High school, which sent Mike Karakas, Frank Brimsek and Sam Lo Presti into big league hockey, has produced another crack goalie, Dempsey Klun, who had a tryout with the Blackhawks the other night. . . . Joe Vella, manager of Gus Lesnevich, has been discharged from the army and will be on hand to help cut up the chips after Gus fights Tami Mauriello. . . . Bobby Riggs, on leave of absence from his Presbyterian college publicity job all through the tennis season, will be banqueted when he goes back to work Tuesday. . . .

Today's Guest Star

Paul Pinckney, Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat and Chronicle: "that new football formation which Syracuse is employing may be a Y to you, but it's definitely a V to Ossie Solem. The affable boss of the Orangeman was ready to run, not walk, to the nearest exit when the celebrated Y answered his SOS. In other words, O. S. currently is O. K."

Cleaning The Cuff

When the baseball averages come out, you'll find Elmer Riddle leading the National league pitchers with the lowest earned-run average in years. . . . In case you haven't heard from Potsy Clark lately, he is coaching the Grand Rapids U. team, handling college publicity, heading student employment placement and scouting for the N. Y. pro Giants. . . . Wonder who's selling programs? . . . Eleanora Karlson of Memphis, who was National A. A. U. junior backstroke swim champion and then became a first-rate golfer, took up bowling a few weeks ago and posted games of 137-153-173 the other day. . . . If the National Hockey league really wants to help out the N. Y. Americans, why not give them first call on all United States born players that come up just as the Montreal Canadians get their pick of the French-Canadian boys?

QUEEN AND ATTENDANTS FOR TECH HOMECOMING

Pitt revealed that it had picked today to catch on fire early in the game by driving 70 yards to score after 12 minutes of the first period had elapsed. Sophomore Frank Saksa, 185-pound fullback from Braddock, Pa., bulleted through a wall of humanity from the Fordham one-yard line for the first Pitt touchdown and Guard Ralph Fife connected from placement for the extra point.

Then, after stopping Fordham's vaunted attack for almost three full periods, the Panthers capitalized on Ram desperation and scored the clincher late in the fourth quarter.

Edgar "Special Delivery" Jones, Pitt's great back from Scranton, Pa., accounted for this score, rambling 30 yards to the promised land after intercepting a Ram aerial.

IOWA HAWKEYES DEFEAT ILLINOIS ELEVEN, 21 TO 0

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Iowa's steadily improving Hawkeyes put another hole today in Illinois' waning hopes for a Big Ten victory this season by routing the Bob Zuppke's eleven 21 to 0 before 14,339 shivering fans in Memorial stadium.

Tommy Farmer and Bill Parker teamed up to account for all the Iowa points, with Farmer pitching both scoring aerials to Parker and Farmer scoring the last touchdown on a short dash after his 36 yard sprint had set the stage.

Byrd High-Ouachita Game May Decide League Race

However, It Could Further Scramble Standings In This Section

The Ouachita Parish High school Lions meet the Byrd High school Yellow Jackets in Shreveport next Friday night in a game which may clinch the north Louisiana Class AA championship for the Monroe eleven or, on the other hand, may further scramble the screwy race in this section.

If Ouachita wins, it will be their third victory over conference opponents and will give them a clear title to the north state championship. If Byrd wins, it will give the Shreveporters the lead in the Class AA race with two victories and no defeats. Thus the outcome of the north Louisiana battle would depend upon the result of the Byrd-Fair Park game in Shreveport in the last game of the season.

Ouachita has won two games and lost none in conference play; Byrd has won one game and lost none; Haynesville, which was upset by Byrd Friday night, has lost two games and won one, and Fair Park, which previously was upset by Haynesville, has lost two and won none. Ouachita gained surprise victories over Haynesville and Fair Park.

Ouachita had an open date last week, but they weren't idle by any means. Coaches Mack Avants and Mac Givens sent the Lions through a two-hour hard driving drill Friday, with little time for rest. Thursday also saw the local squad working hard, and although it rained Tuesday and Wednesday, the Lion mentors took their charges inside the Ouachita gym and gave them two strenuous workouts.

The Lions have never defeated Byrd, and Coach Avants attempted to spike any over-confidence of the Ouachita squad during the week, despite reports out of Shreveport that Byrd has a weak team. Then when the Jackets routed Haynesville Friday night, it wasn't necessary to cite the prowess of the Jackets. The Lions suddenly realized that Byrd wasn't any setup, after all.

So the Lions will be dead serious when they start preparations for the all-important game Monday. Coach Avants said he has planned a stiff program of workouts for Ouachita this week and there will be no letup until Thursday, when the squad will taper off for their championship battle.

WEST VA. 21; KANSAS 0

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The West Virginia university Mountaineers, starting slowly with a 15-yard field goal in the first period, banged for three touchdowns in succeeding quarters today to haul down the Kansas university Jayhawkers 21-0.

PENNSYLVANIA OUTPASSES COLUMBIA TEAM, 19 TO 16

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Pennsylvania beat Columbia at its own game today, completing 11 of 14 forward passes that scored one touchdown and paved the way for two others, to defeat the Lions, 19-16.

A crowd of 50,000 saw the Red and Blue score first in the opening minutes of play on a 27-yard aerial, Bert Stiff to Bernie Kuczynsku; shuddered as Tricky Paul Governali passed the Lions to a 7-6 half time lead; cheered as Penn shoved over two third period touchdowns, then held their breath as the Lions nearly turned defeat into victory in the last quarter.

Notre Dame Knocks Navy From Unbeaten Ranks, 20-13

IRISH OUTBATTLE MIDDIES TO WIN GREAT TRIUMPH

Sophomore Bertelli's Passing Is Marvel Of Accuracy In Tilt

By Bill Boni

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A workhorse Notre Dame backfield getting solid support from an underrated squad of ends, knocked a big but eventually bewildered Navy football team out of the nation's dwindling undefeated ranks today.

The Irish, in keeping themselves on the list of the unconquered with a 20-13 triumph, did so on the fine forward passing of Sophomore Angelo Bertelli; the sweeping, slanting, hard-to-stop drives of Steve Juzwik and Frederick Owen (Dippy) Evans, and the smashing defensive play and often miraculous pass-catching of their ends, principally Bob Dove, John Kovatch and Matt Bolger.

Notre Dame couldn't have won on any single one of these factors, and had a hard enough time winning with the combination of all three. But by the time a crowd of 64,795 in Municipal stadium saw a last-hope Navy passing flurry expire at midfield, Notre Dame had established itself decidedly as the superior football team.

This Notre Dame team, for one of the rare times in its big-time football history, supposedly was conceding advantages in manpower and running strength. Yet the Irish made up for that first deficiency by using their substitutes sparingly but well, and more than compensated for the second by shattering virtually every Navy attempt to break a runner loose around the flanks.

Bertelli, the blond Italian youngster from West Springfield, Mass., this afternoon was every bit the passer he had been cracked up to be. Unable to help the Irish at all a week ago when they played a scoreless tie with Army in mud and rain, this time he threw 15 passes and saw 11 of them completed for 216 yards, almost as much as Navy's total yardage through the air and on the ground.

He didn't throw a single pass in the dull first period, when both clubs sparred around like a couple of prize fighters looking for a weak spot. But the first one he did throw, early in the second quarter, went for 42 yards to set up the game's first touchdown; he passed to Juzwik for 18 yards and the second score, and two of his passes that were good for 41 yards brought Notre Dame a first down on the Middie eight-yard line, from where they went to their winning tally.

Bertelli's passing was a marvel of accuracy and of coolness under pressure, for several times he didn't fire until he was looking right into the whites of the giant Navy tackles' eyes. But passing alone wouldn't have brought this triumph—it took some great work on the receiving end by Bolger, Evans, Juzwik and Dove, to mention only a few.

Evans, who might be called a native Notre Damer since his home is in South Bend, Ind., was a brilliant and opportunist runner all day.

CORNELL'S BIG RED BEATS YALE, 21-7

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Having waited 52 long years to lure a Yale football team up here into the hills, Cornell's Big Red made the best of opportunity today and poured it on the browbeaten Elis 21 to 7 before a crowd of 18,000.

For three quarters it scarcely was a contest, rather, it was a parade of Cornell's forces. In each of the first three quarters Coach Carl Snavely's boys drove to a touchdown. Running the count up to 21 to 0, the audience rather expected a deluge as the final session opened.

But what happened, instead, was this: Yale trotted out a long-legged sophomore named Ed Taylor, possessed of a terrific passing arm. With this Taylor throwing them high, wide and handsome, the Yales moved 85 yards down the field for a touchdown, dominated the play and at least averted a complete rout. It was the high point of an otherwise listless game.

PENN STATE GRIDDERS BEAT SYRACUSE, 34-19

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Penn State's football team put the Syracuse Orange through the wringer today, squeezing out a juicy 34 to 19 upset victory before a crowd of 16,000 at New Beaver field.

The blue and white clad State eleven scored once in the first quarter added 20 points in the second period and seven in the fourth.

Syracuse broke into pay dirt in the third quarter on a sparkling 75 yard dash by 186-pound Gerald Courtney, and scored twice in the final period, once on a 28-yard pass and the other on a short buck.

N'WESTERN TOPS HOOSIERS, 20 TO 14

Wildcats Push Over Fourth Period Touchdown

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Northwestern, bounding back after its heartbreaking defeat by Minnesota, a week ago, plunged across a fourth period touchdown today to defeat Indiana 20 to 14, before 32,000 chilled spectators. Flurries of snow fell during most of the game.

The inspired performance of the Hoosiers was principally due to the 19-year-old sophomore left half, Billy Hillenbrand, Evansville, Ind., boy, who broke away to a 72-yard touchdown gallop after a pass interception early in the first period. Hillenbrand also sparked a 65-yard touchdown march in the third quarter, tossing a lateral to Charles Jacoby who raced around left end from the one for the second Hoosier score.

NFORD TEAM OWNS TROJANS

ctory Practically Puts Indian Aggregation In Rose Bowl New Year's Day

OS ANGELES, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Ex-ding twice in the first period with the sharp brilliance of the bright n above, Stanford university's unted touchdown machine swept er Southern California and on along road to the Rose Bowl today.

Remaining in absolute command the Pacific Coast conference ampionship battle, these rollicking, mbling gridironeers from Palo Alto rned back the Trojan threat 10 to 0 a game that was settled in the st 15 minutes of the play. The gest crowd of the season—87,000— t in on this 21st encounter between e Indians and Troy's outclassed rriors. All records for game day te sales for the vast coliseum were oken as 45,000 stormed the turnstiles to see this Clark Shaughnessy-coached band take on the Troys of S. C.

Stanford's first touchdown came on a brilliant 69-yard run by Eric Armstrong, 165-pound speedster from Portland, Ore., who plays right half for the Indians.

The second a few minutes later culminated a 38-yard running, passing smash across the Trojan goal after Trojan Quarterback Bobby Robertson had fumbled the ball into Stanford's possession. Willard Sheller, stand-in for Fullback Milt Vucinich, hit the line from the one yard mark for the score.

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI DEFEATS N. Y. U., 26 TO 0

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A dormant University of Missouri football team came to life just often enough today to defeat a surprisingly stubborn New York University eleven, 26 to 0, with the visitors' last two tallies coming on a fumble and an intercepted lateral.

Liveliest of the Tigers was Maurice (Red) Wade, the ambidextrous quarterback, who did everything asked of him but used only one hand in doing it.

WHAT AMERICANS WILL GO THROUGH FOR THIS GAME OF FOOTBALL

Football, which cynics are wont to call "22-man mass mayhem over a lot of air encased in a pig's hide," annually raises havoc when weather goes bad. Mud-caked Cornell and Columbia players claw their way through the slop of Baker field with a back-drop of umbrellas as Lions prove themselves better mudders, 7-0. At Yankee stadium, 76,000 health-conscious Americans shiver in a chill rain as Army and Notre Dame fight to a scoreless tie.

DARTMOUTH DEFEATS PRINCETON BENGALS

Indians Win, 20-13, In Circus-Like Contest

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Dartmouth defeated Princeton, 20 to 13, today in a football game which needed only a wild man from Borneo to pass a three-ring circus.

The 30,000 fans in the Palmer stadium were treated to everything a football game should have, and a great many things which it shouldn't including a baffling first-half exchange of fumbles, penalties and blocked kicks.

At least two more times the Indians seemed to be on their way to a touchdown under their own power, but both times penalties nullified spectacular runs.

Dartmouth came back with some fine football in the third period. A punt and a penalty had set the Indians back to their 7-yard line, George Troxell took the ball, eased through his left tackle and rambled 93 yards to score.

HEMP'S CAFETERIA

this country was "clearing the decks" against a possible conflict with the Japanese. The development was an announcement that Washington was considering withdrawing its marine garrisons from China.

These forces are isolated in comparatively small detachments at Peiping, Tientsin and Shanghai, in Japanese-controlled territory. In the event of trouble, the feeling was, they would be unable to offer any effective resistance.

These circumstances, the impending Anglo-American action, the Japanese demands, the Kurusu trip, and this week's announcement of a billion-dollar lend-lease loan to Russia, all point toward an imminent showdown.

The intransigent nature of the Japanese attitude is considered to be well illustrated by the seven demands published in the Japan Times and Advertiser. In summary they were:

No further military or economic aid to China.

China must be advised to make peace with Japan.

Military and economic encirclement of Japan must end.

Japan's "co-prosperity sphere" must be acknowledged, and the weaker states of the orient permitted to establish their own political and economic relationships with Japan.

Manchukuo must be recognized by Washington.

The United States must unfreeze Japanese credits here, which were tied up some time ago.

Trade treaties must be restored and all American-imposed restrictions on commerce and shipping must be ended.

there is a surplus of about 12,000,000 bales from previous crops from which the excess requirements may be obtained.

The yield per acre was indicated at 233.3 pounds compared with 252.5 pounds last year and with the ten-year average of 205.4 pounds.

The department said that in Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Texas, excessive rainfall during October caused a total prospective reduction of 184,000 bales in production. In North Carolina, Tennessee and Missouri, however, rainfall was light and temperatures were above normal. This facilitated harvesting and increased prospective production in these states by 135,000 bales. In other states, only minor changes in prospects were said to have occurred during October.

The department cautioned that there might be a further reduction in prospects during November. It said that in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico the proportion of the crop ginned to November 1 was much less than average, leaving more of the crop than usual subject to possible damage from freezes or other adverse weather conditions.

On the other hand, in all states east of Oklahoma and Texas, ginning was much further advanced than usual at this date. The census bureau reported that 9,764,325 bales had been ginned from this year's crop prior to November 1. This compared with 9,085,870 to the same date last year.

"It is our concern to design and build the ships that the navy wants, whatever they may be. That will always be so. Whether they be warships with wings, air cargo or passenger liners, we will go forward with the navy in further strengthening our national defense."

A crowd of several thousand, in which navy gold braid was set off against the dungarees of aircraft workers, witnessed the launching, which took place at the same spot where the pioneering China Clipper first took to the water in 1934.

No date for the first flight has been set. The ship first must undergo extensive water tests. She already has passed her static and structural tests.

MAKES PROPOSAL TO CURB STRIKES

ministrative officials of the army, navy and OPM before drafting it.

The defense strike question was said to have been canvassed last week by these same officials in conferences with President Roosevelt, but there was no indication that a decision had been reached on whether the administration would seek legislation at this time.

The president advised his legislative lieutenants last week against attaching any strike measures as riders to the bill revising the neutrality act. It was the general understanding then that some recommendation might be forthcoming later.

BENGALS PUT UP TERRIFIC BATTLE

in defensive play it was his unsuccessful placekicks following both L. S. U. touchdowns which meant victory for the Rebels.

Mississippi's veteran guard, Homer Hazel, recovered two L S. U. fumbles in the second period, hawking the ball for the Rebels in the clinch.

One of the Tiger 13 gave Mississippi a scoring chance, but like another goal line stand in the fourth period L. S. U. held fast.

McKinney's 66-yard quick kick in the third period over the head of Hovious put Mississippi in a hole that started L. S. U. on the way to its second touchdown. Kicks were an important factor with Bird of L. S. U. and Hapes and Jackie Flack of Mississippi doing their share of fine punt work. Hovious spent the evening taking care of the throwing end of the Rebel aerial attack, with Eubanks most often on the receiving end. One staged by the pair in the second period was good for 17 yards but Mississippi was penalized 15 yards for holding on the same play. Eubanks was dangerous, too, on end around plays, several of which went for long gains.

Mississippi threatened another touchdown in the fourth period, when Hovious found another pass target, flipping to Sam in a dazzling 32-yard aerial play to L. S. U's 20-yard line. Halfback Lee Castle carried the oval through the line two plays to L. S. U's eight for a first down but two line plays and two incompleted passes gave the Tigers the ball on downs.

Except of the mighty line thrusts staged by Hapes, L. S. U.'s fullback, Walter Gorinski, was the only other player able to gain consistently in the bruising clash of determined opposing lines.

FIVE PERSONS HURT IN HIGHWAY WRECK

Five persons were injured, one seriously, when two automobiles collided just beyond West Monroe city limits on U. S. Highway 80 late last night, state police reported.

The injured who were taken to St. Francis sanitarium were: Claude Cheshire, 29, Eros, believed to have been most seriously hurt, severe cuts and bruises on his head and body; Miss Opal Rhodes, 25, 112 North Eighth street, West Monroe, possible internal injuries and minor lacerations.

Harold Clowers, 19, of 506 Mills street, West Monroe, minor bruises; Miss Juanita Brady, 19, West Monroe, fractured jawbone, and B. C. Frenton, 19, of 614 North Fifth street, West Monroe, who received first aid, the attending physicians reported following preliminary examinations.

State police believed the accident occurred when Frenton, traveling toward West Monroe on the highway, crashed into the car driven by Miss Rhodes who drove from a side road into the path of Frenton. The other three injured were passengers in the car operated by Miss Rhodes and owned by Cheshire, state police reported.

TAR HEEL HEROES

Although North Carolina gave three presidents to the union—Andrew Jackson (who was born on the South Caroline-North Carolina border), James K. Polk and Andrew Johnson—only one "first lady" hailed from the Tar Heel state. She was Dolly Madison.

Eleven years ago Mel Anderson of Glendale, Calif., built tiny motors as a hobby. Now he turns out thousands for model planes and cars. He has built 30,000 single-cylinder engines which go 7,500 to 15,000 r.p.m.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced here today on trade buying and week-end covering. The official crop estimate of 11,020,000 bales had little effect on values.

Closing prices were steady, 7 to 8 points net higher.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15-16ths inch cotton at 10 designated southern spot markets today was 8 points higher at 16.44 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days was 16.36 cents. Middling 7-8 inch average was 16.23 cents a pound.

New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Trend doctors were unable to agree on a diagnosis in today's market and leading issues were subjected to intermittent spells of rising temperature and selling chills.

The list tossed about unevenly at the start and narrowly irregular price changes prevailed at the close. Dealings picked up occasionally and transfers for the two hours ran to around 300,000 shares.

Cottonseed Oil

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Cottonseed oil closed steady, bleachable prime summer yellow 12.90n, prime crude 11.50n; Dec. 12.32b; Jan. 12.34b; March 12.44b; May 12.48b.

HOSIERY TALK GIVEN WOMEN

Speaker Asserts Half Billion Dollars Is Annual Stocking Bill

The Sherrouse study group held the first meeting of a series which will be held twice weekly, the past week when "Consumer Education" was discussed.

A talk given by Mrs. T. C. Breeland disclosed many facts as to wise buying. She said that figures show that the United States' hosiery bill is one-half billion dollars annually. Transfiguring this national bill into personal expenditures, the American home economics association's conservative estimate is that women in low wage groups contribute $20 to $26 per year to the hosiery industry, while the woman who can afford to buy somewhat better quality stockings, can keep her annual hosiery expenditures below the $20 mark, she said.

These sheerest of the sheer hose advertised so alluringly in magazines comprise but a small part of the output of 100 million dozen pairs of hose. It is the everyday working stocking for which the largest bills are paid, and it is in selecting the kind of stocking that the wearer is most deceived, the speaker said.

Mrs. Breeland listed seven points in proper buying of hosiery: Get information about the fiber content; measure the length, get the proper foot size; see that there is a seven-inch stretch across the instep; turn the sock inside out; see that all seams have been well turned; pull the sock vigorously where rib and leg portion join to assure that all loops have been caught; insist on fast dyes; inquire about shrinkage.

This study group will meet at the Northeast Junior college faculty lounge, Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. Mrs. L. L. Price, home economics teacher, will bring an interesting discussion on "Table Service." All interested persons are asked to attend.

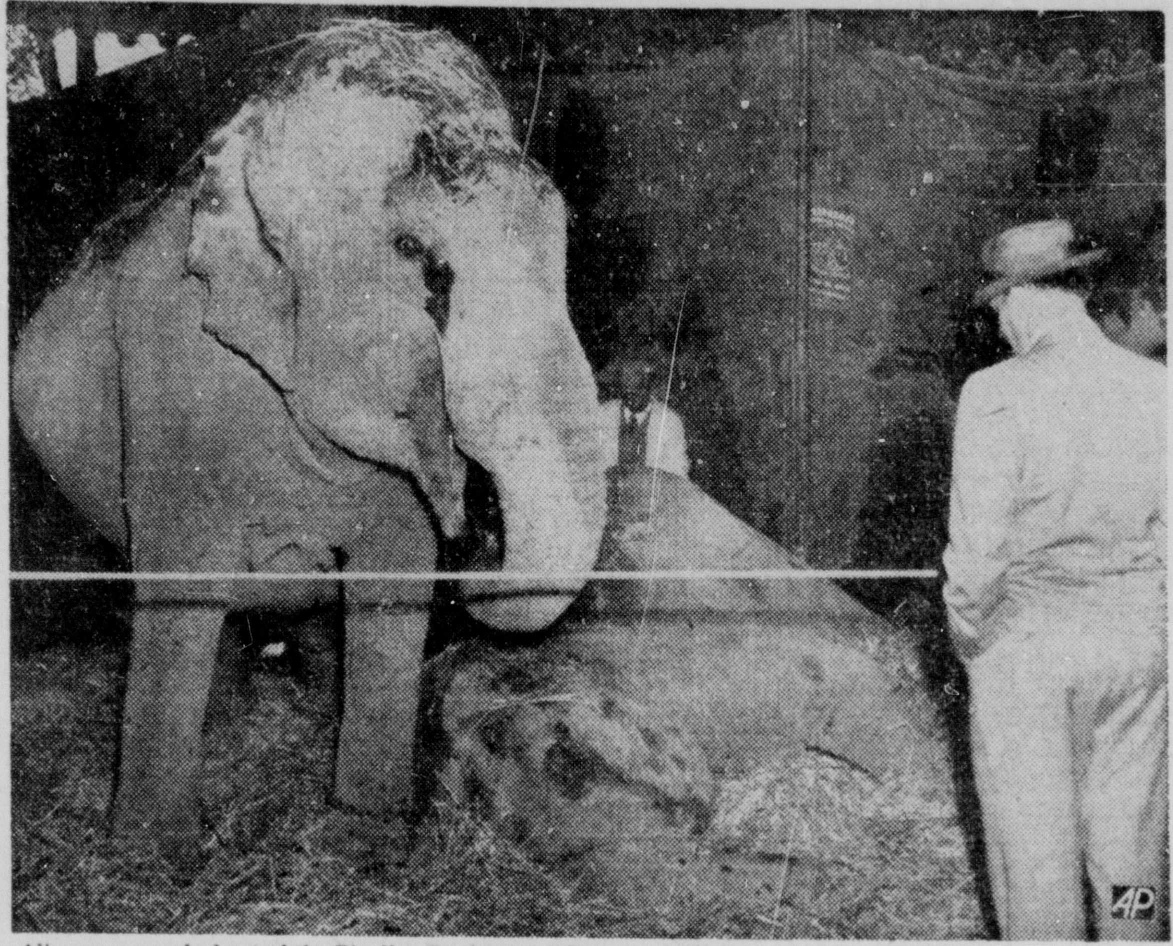
DEATH STRIKES ELEPHANTS UNDER THE BIG TOP



Alice, a young elephant of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus playing in Atlanta, Ga., lies dead where she fell in the tent as another member of the herd stands by. Seven of the show's valuable elephants died mysteriously in the space of a few hours and keepers were working to save the others seriously ill.

RAIL RETIREMENT TO BE DISCUSSED

Sam J. Williams, field representative of the railroad retirement board, will visit Monroe on Wednesday, November 19, to meet local railroad employes who are interested in discussing their rights under the railroad retirement and unemployment insurance acts, and explain the opportunities offered for placement of unemployed railroad men through the board's employment service.

It is felt that personal contact with annuity applicants and employes, explaining the services offered by the railroad retirement board, will be of mutual benefit.

Effective July 1, 1939, the railroad retirement board established a regional office in Dallas, Tex., embracing in this region the state of Louisiana, Texas and parts of Arkansas and New Mexico. Since this date unemployment insurance claims of railroad employes have been adjudicated and certified for payment by the regional office in Dallas. Subsequently, the board added to this responsibility the duty of assisting railroad employes to file and develop their claims for annuities in order to permit more prompt payment of retirement claims. An additional function of the board in this region is the operation of an employment service which assists unemployed railroad men in securing positions.

Mr. Williams will be located at the Missouri-Pacific Booster hall from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Appointments are not necessary, but he suggests that interested persons call early in order that his schedule can be arranged to permit a personal conference with each one.

TAKES OWN LIFE

CROWLEY, La., Nov. 8.—(AP)—A. R. Lessley, Dallas, Tex., shot himself to death in a parked car near Iota last night according to Dr. Z. J. Frances, Acadia parish coroner who impanelled a jury which returned a suicide verdict. Lessley, about 40 years old and employed by the Bering Oil company on a test in the northwestern part of the parish, used a shot gun to end his life, the coroner said.

Little Theater Play Is Possible Hit Of Season

'Ladies Of Jury' Will Be Initial Production Of Local Organization

With the production of Fred Ballard's modern three-act comedy, "Ladies of the Jury," at Northeast Junior college auditorium on Tuesday evening, the Little Theater of Monroe will open its tenth consecutive year of service in the Twin Cities. The first year of the movement found but 83 charter members but in the last decade the membership has swelled beyond 1,200, and the Little Theater of Monroe has become recognized as one of the strongest dramatic groups in Louisiana.

Lorenzo McIntosh Smith came to Monroe as professional director in September, 1940, and his contract has been renewed for the current season of six productions. He is aided by his wife, Elroy S. Smith, a graduate of speech at Northwestern university, and their activities center about the Little Theater workshop at 307 North Second street. The workshop contains a miniature stage and all lighting effects, ample rooms for stagecraft work, and its walls are decorated with action photographs from past productions.

As an indication of its forward movement, the Little Theater has announced that each of its six current productions will be staged at the Crosley school auditorium in West Monroe in addition to the presentation at Northeast Junior college auditorium. This will allow the West Monroe membership a more convenient location and will afford the general membership an opportunity to see any play with which personal engagements might have conflicted if only a single presentation had been made. The membership cards are honored at either auditorium and all persons are invited to choose the evening which best fits into their personal schedule.

Another innovation of the tenth anniversary season is the "Little Theater Magazine," which will be published at each production. The magazine is headed with a most attractive frontispiece by Roy Henderson, depicting the various activities of the group ranging from stagecraft, costume designing and construction work to make-up and footlight direction. Throughout the magazine is informa chatter about the play and the cast, a message from the president, news of the next play, and the date for try-outs. Attractive displays have been prepared for the lobbies of the auditoriums and there will also be a display of action camera shots of the cast made during various rehearsals.

More than two dozen amateur actors and actresses are struggling with last minute problems, listening more intently for their cues and placing their lines in letter-perfect shape as they prepare for the formal opening of the season Tuesday night. Some of the players are new to Monroe audiences, while others will be remembered for their splendid work in other years. The play opens with Mrs. Gordon on trial for her life, and the first act is concerned with the tenseness of a murder trial. The last two acts present the inside workings of a jury and contain lines and action which have gained nation-wide applause in both professional and amateur circles. There is concentrated action, drama and high comedy in the jury room until the amazing climax of the final ballot and the fate of Mrs. Gordon.

Membership in the Little Theater is open to all persons and membership cards may be obtained or reserved by calling the Little Theater workshop on North Second street. The season cost for six plays is two dollars and includes the privilege of participation in all the various activities of the group. Members are urged to become engaged in either the dramatic side or the stagecraft division. According to an announcement by Tom W. Davenport, president, no tickets will be sold after the opening night performance.

MRS. OUMANSKY HAS BIG PARTY

Three Thousand Guests Willing To Admit Gastronomic Success

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Madame Constantine Oumansky, pretty and youthful wife of the retiring Soviet ambassador, said she wanted her farewell entertainment in the United States to be "a nice party" and a big one.

The three thousand guests who swamped the U. S. S. R. embassy last night were willing to admit it was all of that—and a gastronomic success as well.

Four yard-long sturgeons were picked to the ultimate bone.

A four-tiered cake topped with a red star fell swiftly before a dining room flank attack.

Salads in the Russian style, shrimp and caviar canapes swiftly became as one with the assembled diplomats, government officials and socialites.

A waiter declined to guess how many cases of Scotch were brought in for the reception, but a staff of 60 was needed to serve the food and drink.

There was vodka in the absent ambassador's study, and bowls of champagne punch at other strategic locations.

The guest list was impressive at the function celebrating the 24th anniversary of the Soviet revolution. Mrs. Henry Wallace, wife of the vice-president, attended; so did Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the secretary of state. Tall Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, was present, accompanied by Mrs. Welles.

Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce and head of the RFC, was there. His approval of Russia as a good credit risk helped make possible the new $1,000,000,000 loan to the Soviet union.

High ranking diplomats came, including Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, the Japanese ambassador, and Sir Ronald Campbell, British charge d'affaires—but none was there from Germany, Russia's antagonist on the winter battlefields.

Ambassador Oumansky, now in Russia, has been ordered replaced by Maxim Litvinoff, but the latter has not yet arrived in Washington.

"I'll be glad to go home," said Madame Oumansky. Then she added quickly:

"I like it here, but I want to go back to my country. I have brothers and sisters there. And I hope,"—she lowered her voice gleefully—"I'll get to go back in a bomber. That would be fun."

The Oumanskys have one daughter, Nina, now 13 years old. Her mother hopes she'll get to fly in the bomber, too. The Oumanskys have been here five and a half years. "The first year was hard because I didn't know English," she said. She now speaks it—and American slang—with only a slight accent.

CHURCH WILL ELECT THREE MORE ELDERS

There will be an important meeting to elect new elders for the First Presbyterian church immediately after the 11 o'clock service today, the pastor, Rev. Ernest D. Holloway, said yesterday.

There are 12 elders of the church provided for and at this time there are three vacancies. It is to fill these vacancies that the special church meeting has been called.

The pastor urges that there be a large attendance present both at the morning service and at the meeting.

BUTTERFLIES TO RECEIVE STU

Scientists Want To Kno Whether They Go Back North Or Die

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Scientists today were seeking to unscramble the mystery of millions butterflies winging southward fro Canada in a migration like that geese because no one knew whethe they came down like tourists or we fated to fly out into the Gulf of Mexico to die.

Swarms of the golden-brown insec called monarch butterflies, were flu tering down on sub-tropical Louisiar after a 900-mile trip from north of th Great Lakes and would remain unt deepest winter. But after that?

Percy Viosca, Jr., biologist of th Louisiana conservation departmen said there are records to show the butterflies year after year winter southern California and in Floric south of the Apalachicola, but the is nothing to show what happens aft December to those that come in Louisiana.

"It is possible," he said, "that the fly down to the gulf fringes of Loui iana during January and February the months when they have not bee seen north of New Orleans—but th is sparsely settled land and we hav no reports on their wintering ther

"Or maybe they just keep on flyir south and out into the Gulf of Mexico to die."

In the spring months Viosca h found a comparative few of the bu terflies in Louisiana, heading nort but does not know whether they a remnants of the vast horde that pass southward through the state month earlier or are just stragglers from th swarms that winter in Florida an return to Canada for the summer.

He and his staff have gathere bagsful of the insects and will eith place tags on their fragile wings spray them with a dye. If such bu terflies are found north of New O leans thereafter he will then kno something of their journey.

Similar tags are placed on butte flies before they leave Canada by th Royal Ontario museum of Toronto. hole is made in the wing with a pun like those used by street car conduc ors to mark transfers and a tag is th inserted and pasted gently to the wi

SOCIETY
SECTION

Monroe Morning World

DEAR OLD GOLDEN RULE DAYS!

Carolyn Apperson, upper left, remembers that all teachers love apples.

Eve Bradford's CHAT COLUMN

SUNDAY has rightly been ordained a day of rest. Just ask any federated club woman who attended the three-day convention of the Louisiana Federation in Monroe last week if Sunday isn't a grand day to rest—to completely relax and let the rest of the world go by. Those women who concentrated all their energies and talents on the three-day program are more than deserving of today's rest. They did a grand job and when they sally forth they can wear a feather in their cap as a symbol of achievement.

There are always high moments at every convention. On this occasion it was the talk delivered by Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, national president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, that created electric currents. She talked straight from the shoulder and left little doubt in the minds of her enraptured audience as to the place federated club women occupy in today's changing world.

Mrs. Whitehurst, a handsome woman with superb carriage and commanding appearance, was beautifully gowned at Friday night's banquet. She is of the "grande dame" type, to use a phrase long since in the discard. Mrs. Whitehurst has no time for frivolities and is completely devoid of social aspirations. She cares nothing for dancing and very little for bridge. She loves serious drama—plays of some psychological or historical significance. She is an accomplished musician and plays the pipe organ beautifully. In her little office, away from a telephone, she works diligently, preparing her speeches, gathering facts, planning programs and doing research work.

By the way, Mrs. Whitehurst had nothing but words of praise for Monroe's sterner sex. She came to Monroe following a tour of 46 states and stated that it was the first time she was ever given a welcome by the chamber of commerce and other representative business men. Hats off to George Holland—it was his own brilliant idea.

If you are laboring under the belief that club women are the bespectacled type, stern and prim and of militant bearing, just perish the thought. They are the most sartorially perfect women in the world today. They have cast off the shackles. In other words, they are smartly attired, beautifully coiffed and mentally alert. Glancing over the vast assemblage of women in the convention hall and gathered around the banquet table, we were impressed not only with their smart attire but their vivacity, their youthfulness and their awareness of the government's needs at this particular time. They all seemed to be simply brimming with the zest for life.

One of the smartest looking women at the convention was Mrs. B. B. Fortinberry of Baton Rouge, who was dashing around in a distinctive model of military trend. It boasted a short, flaring cape. A jaunty feather was perched high on her little hat. Mrs. Fortinberry is state chairman of the fine arts department of L. F. W. C.

We have come to the conclusion that there are no more drones in the world. There is no longer a "social set." Even though women find time for bridge and all the other frivolities, their hands are never idle. Helen Sherrouse, for instance, had on display in the art section on the terrace of Hotel Frances during the convention one of the most beautiful hooked rugs we have ever seen. It has a beige background with scrolls of mauve colored flowers forming a border. Mrs. William Washburn had on display a gorgeous hand-crocheted bedspread. Betty Saenger exhibited the portrait, recently completed, of her beautiful little daughter. It is a lovely thing and places Mrs. Saenger in the front ranks of Louisiana portrait painters. Pearl Lowery's pastoral scene is another lovely thing that greeted the eye. Mrs. C. R. Tidwell's hooked rug with black border and flower scroll work was much admired. Another hooked rug of great beauty was exhibited by Mrs J. B. Collier. Mrs. F. C. Holden's hooked rugs, as we all know, are incomparable. They were prominently exhibited. The only piece of petit point exhibited was done by Mrs. Fred Fudickar. Needless to say, it claimed the admiration of every woman. Mrs. L. N. Larche exhibited a perfectly beautiful, rose colored satin bedspread. It was quilted in a design she herself worked out.

With the federated club women's convention still fresh in our minds, we would like to draw attention to a story written by Maude Gallman Brown of this city and appearing recently in the Louisiana Conservation Review. It is the story of the unrequited love of Ann Porter Harrison, who wrote the song, "In the Gloaming."

The beautiful love story of Evangeline is well known to millions throughout the nation. Not many people know that the background for an equally romantic love story was a place in north Louisiana. The house still stands in the little town of Marion, not so very far from Monroe. In the garden are the old trees beneath which Ann Porter walked with her lover in the gloaming. Mrs. Brown bemoans the fact that the highway is not marked properly so that tourists can be led to this historic spot. She also suggests that steps be taken by the state of Louisiana to preserve the old home for future generations.

It took William Grasse to remember Bert Cooley's birthday anniversary last week with a gala affair at Camp Sigbee. The celebrant was much occupied with blowing out the 16 mendacious candles on his birthday cake before an appreciative audience made up of old friends, true and tried. Mr. Grasse, famous as a host, is also famous at concocting culinary masterpieces. The food served on this occasion was proof of his skill.

Another friendly gesture was the card Mr. Cooley received from the patients at the G. B. Cooley sanatorium wishing him "happy birthday." It pleased him mightily as the sanatorium is now so much a part of him that one seldom associates one without the other. As we all know, he struggled against bitter and discouraging odds to complete this sanatorium, so sadly needed in Ouachita parish. The efforts and struggles bore good fruit—today the sanatorium is housing patients who otherwise would be without medical aid and hospitalization.

We, and all the others who were unaware that Bert Cooley celebrated another birthday anniversary, would like to doff our bonnets today to a courageous man, a splendid citizen and a delightful companion.

Old Man Trouble has been a most unwelcome guest at the Little Theater workshop ever since rehearsals started for the opening play of the season, "Ladies of the Jury." Trouble popped up at the most unexpected moments. Everything was going along splendidly and Director Smith was rubbing his hands with glee when "up popped the devil." Henry Florsheim, the male lead, received a summons from his Uncle Sam one day and the next day he was on his way to a training camp. Then one of the principals, Stanley Reid, was stricken with influenza and was rushed to the sanitarium. The feminine lead, Audrey Neal, succumbed to the "flu," but fortunately recovered soon enough to be back on the job. Old Man Trouble was finally routed once and for all and since everything has been running smoothly. The curtain will go up Tuesday night for the first performance of the season. Be sure to be in your seat so that there will be no regrets the day after.

Yells loud enough to be heard around the world came from the direction of Brown stadium Friday night. When the Northeast Junior college Indians plunged across the gridiron every football fan was thrilled. The popularity of Dean Colvert was quite evident on this occasion. Flaring torches on the darkened field spelled his name in letters of fire.

Atheneum Club Meets At Virginia Hotel Here

Mrs. Ernestine Ensminger graciously entertained members of the Atheneum club in the Cameo room of the Virginia Hotel last week.

The business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. W. C. Curry. The club collect was repeated in unison, led by Mrs. Fred Grant. After reading of minutes and treasurer's report, a short business meeting was held. Members voted to send Mrs. W. C. Curry and Mrs. C. C. Miller, program chairman, to the State Convention of the Louisiana Federation of Womens Clubs here in Monroe.

The resignation of Mrs. Scott Spencer was submitted and regretfully accepted.

Mrs. C. C. Miller presided as program chairman. The subject for the meeting was "Our Heritage from Spain." It is only recently that we have begun to recognize and appreciate some of the minor strains that have contributed to the richness of United States culture. Our earlier historians stressed the Anglo-Saxon strain, with an occasional nod toward the Scotch-Irish and German.

Too few good books have been written about our Spanish heritage, although Spain itself has interested some of the best of our writers, from Longfellow and Washington Irving on down to Ernest Heminway.

Mrs. Miller announced the first book—"To the Indies," by C. S. Forester, would be reviewed by Mrs. Agness Dickerson and "On the Long Tide," written by Laura Krey, Mrs. John Lewis.

Mrs. Dickerson very capably reviewed this interesting book of the fifteenth century during the voyages of Columbus, who is always mentioned as "the admiral" and not Christopher Columbus as we do familiarly know him. The leading characters in th book are the admiral and one Don Narciso Rich. In describing the two men, the admiral suffers by comparison. He stands mostly in the background. He was, however, outstanding as a navigator and met all emergencies.

The story of the voyage and discovery and naming of Trindad because the three peaks reminded them of the Holy Trinity—the many expeditions, make this book an interesting one for anyone liking historical stories.

The second part of the program was "Texas Remembers Spain." Mrs. John Lewis reviewed "On the Long Tide" by Laura Krey, another historical book during the time of Santa Anna and "Remember the Alamo." This novel is rich, solid, colorful and authentic. It is primarily a story of the creation of Texas, but with all the virtues of the story, it somehow fails to adequately sketch in the chaotic background of Spanish and Mexican politics. The characters are vague.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostess, Mrs. Ensminger, invited those present to the long table set for fifteen and decorated with bowls of chrysanthemums. The lovely salad course with dainty sandwiches, tea, and condiments were enjoyed by all. Mint ice cream and delicious cookies followed.

Those present were: Mrs. W. C. Feazel, Mrs. George Mercer, Mrs. C. C. Miller, Mrs. Mack Hammons, Mrs. S. D. Kennedy, Mr. T. Gallien, Mrs. H. B. McClendon, Mrs. A. L. Dickerson, Mrs. W. C. Curry, Mrs. D. L. Nicol, Mrs. Fred M. Grant, Mrs. J. C. Moore, Mrs Agnes Dickerson, and a guest, Mrs. John Lewis, and the hostess.

Yo-Wo-Ca Club Members Hold Gathering At 'Y'

The Yo-Wo-Ca Club met at the "Y" with Marie Winkler, president, presiding. The devotional and the program was presented by Opal Curry.

The program, "Personal Relationships—Family, Friends, Business Associates, Community Contacts," was in the form of a round-table discussion, led by Opal Curry. This discussion proved very practical and most interesting. Three new members, Pan Mallette, Dolores Brown and Claudine Johnson, were welcomed.

SIX LOVELY MAIDS . . .

Business, Professional Girls Attend Meeting

The Business and Professional Girls of the Y. W. C. A. held their regular supper meeting at the "Y" Wednesday, October 29, with approximately 35 members present. Special guests of the club on this occasion were Mrs. J. R. White, president of the Y. W. C. A. board, and Mrs. P. A. Poag, sponsor of the Yowoca club.

Of particular interest was the announcement of the buffet supper and dance, with the theme of a "Mexican Fiesta," to be held at the Crystal club on Thursday or Friday of next week, at 7:30 p. m. The exact date will be announced later. This party is being planned in honor of the new officers of the club, all of whom will be introduced with appropriate ceremony. Club members are urged to attend. Those who do not care to dance are especially invited to come for the supper and opening ceremonies.

The program for the evening was a panel discussion on "Pattern For Thinking—1941," under the leadership of Miss Edyth Farmer. The program was opened by Miss Farmer, who said, in part: "Our program today is devoted to a pattern for thinking in 1941. Here are four practical guides to help us in this time of distress. Here is a philosophy of courage and tolerance; here an appreciation of universal military training; here a labor policy foreshadowing Utopia; and here a concept of sacrifice, new in the history of nations. Let us examine these four guide posts, one by one."

The various speakers on the panel were introduced. Each discussed one topic generally, and then answered specific questions from the group. The first speaker was Mrs. Louise Phillips, who spoke on "A Philosophy For You In These Times," by Bertrand Russell, British philosopher and mathematician. She said: "Right thinking in these times springs from a determination by each one of us to bring about a better world for all of us. 'Everybody,' says Bertrand Russell, 'can do something toward creating kindly feelings rather than anger, reasonableness rather than hysteria, happiness rather than misery.' It is a simple philosophy, yet hopelessness and despair go down before it. It may be possessed by high and lowly, young and old. It is developed through practice within one's self; its power can be immeasurable."

The next speaker, Miss Dot Bennett, discussed "Fraternity in a Factory," which is the story of Smith Johnson's factory in Middlefield, Ohio. She said: "This rubber factory justifies a weary public's hope that strikes may some day end. All labor and all management may well learn from the example of this fine institution which performs two functions; first, the economic one of producing goods, and, second, the social one of creating contentment among human beings. Mr. Johnson's employes understand that increased orders and steady work depend upon their own good workmanship and reduced labor costs. Their welfare and advancement are his daily concern. Together they have set up a true industrial partnership."

The third speaker, Miss Sara Guy, discussed "A Lesson from the Swiss Army." She said: "The dignity and importance of military training in the life of every Swiss citizen may well give us cause for thought. His service is on a par with the devotion he gives to his family. To the Swiss, civil liberty and military preparedness are compatible and interdependent. In our own new experience with universal military training, we are learning many things about the personnel records of our new army. Fifty-three per cent of our draftees are, in perception, ingenuity, power of analysis and general knowledge, far above average. They are being given work, moreover, dictated by their previous training." She discussed the difference in the system of demobilization used in Switzerland and that used in other European countries after the World war, in that the Swiss were allowed to keep their arms, while former soldiers of other nations had to give theirs up, for fear of revolutions. Due to the fact that the Swiss are already armed, their army could be gathered at a moment's notice, while in other countries it would be necessary that the men be gotten together and then valuable time would be spent furnishing them with arms.

The last speaker, Miss Mamie McNeill, discussed "Why England Was Not Invaded," saying, in part: "Britain shows to the world an unprecedented example of ever-increasing national unity and undaunted morale. We have seen firm resolution, such unselfishness among the people of Britain, as the world has seldom witnessed. Only a year ago it seemed impossible for her to survive. After Dunkerque, Hitler expected Churchill to sue for peace. But blitzkrieg on land, in air, at sea could not turn Britain from her purpose of beating Nazism. Every able-bodied man works in some form of defense work. British women between the ages of 16 and 45 work in nine important units of war service with inexhaustible energy, upheld by a grim determination to redeem democracy." She explained the various phases of war-work carried on by the British women, and also gave some very interesting facts concerning the work done by the women in Canada, who have voluntarily organized themselves.

Jewell Medaries, who is associated with the Delta Air Lines in Atlanta, Ga., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Medaries last week. While in Monroe he celebrated his birthday anniversary and was privileged to invite a few guests to enjoy the occasion with him at the home of his parents. Those enjoying the courtesies were: Mr. and Mrs. Horace Allen, Miss Beverly Russell, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Gentry and Wayne Gentry.

Mrs. Lowery Entertains Readers' Clique Members

Mrs. Oliver Lowery entertained the members of the Readers' Clique Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Clay Albright. During the business meeting, Mrs. G. L. Morgan reported on the work the club has done at the Charity Hospital. This week the committee of which Mrs. Morgan is chairman will be busy buying bathrobes and slippers for the children's wards at the hospital.

Mrs. Clyde C. Blanchard and Mrs. Burl Hollis gave an interesting report on the meeting of the Ouachita Nutrition committee which they had been asked to attend as representatives of the club. Since the Nutrition committee is dealing with things of vital importance to home defense, the club voted to continue sending representatives to its meetings.

Mrs. Jack Masur reviewed an intriguing article entitled "Outwitting the Japanese Spies," and Mrs. G. L. Morgan chose for her current event an article on English women and the part they are taking in the war.

Mrs. Lowery served a delicious refreshment course to the following members: Mesdames Clay Albright, Clyde C. Blanchard, R. M. Cook, Jimmy Harbuck, Burl Hollis, Mike John, Jr., Jack Masur, Henry Loeb, G. L. Morgan, and Clay Olbon.

Interest is centered in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Burson of Delhi, La., of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Maurell, to James K. Thurman.

The wedding will take place November 13 at the First Baptist church, this city, at 5:45 p.m.

Review Club Finishes Study Of South Amer

"South America and World F was the subject of final progra South America at the regular m of the Review club with Mrs. Fudickar.

Interesting though the South Ame icas are in themselves, the stud cannot be wholly confined to that con tinent. South America, just as Nort America, is a part of the larger worl in which a fateful history is bein played out on an ever broadenin stage. What are some of these mo mentous forces, and how does Sout America fit into the scene?

One of the too few books that a tempts to treat this problem in i broader aspects is Carleton Beal "Pan America," reviewed by Me dames E. P. Cudd and Fred Fudicka The book is not a short one, or an eas one, for its subject is involved an difficult. Nor is it conclusive, fo quite often the author is expressin what amounts to no more than per sonal opinions—yet they are alway informed and challenging opinion "Pan America" serves admirably as closing book on the South America program.

Mrs. C. N. Prim, a new membe was welcomed by the club.

Members present were Mesdames C A. Nenney, W. R. Hatchell, D. M Moore, C. V. McGimsey, Ben Brear A. M. Freeman, Walter Rhodes, C. N Prim, A. T. Givens, E. P. Cudd, C. I Braun, B. W. Wright and the hostes

Dinner Party For Club Women On Virginia Roof Reflects Patriotic Theme

Event Is Highlight Of Convention Here

Mrs. John Whitehurst, Federated President, Is Guest of Honor At Brilliant Affair

Today, when patriotism flames high in the breast of every American patriot, programs that do not reflect in some way a patriotic theme seem sadly lacking in luster and meaning.

The beloved colors, red, white, and blue, were interwoven into every detail of the patriotic dinner party on the Virginia roof Friday night when one of the most enthusiastic group of women ever to assemble in Monroe paid tribute to a woman who heads the largest organization of women in the world—Mrs. John Whitehurst of Baltimore, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

The dinner, the highlight of the three-day convention of Louisiana Federated Women's clubs, was a brilliant affair attended with considerable pomp and ceremony. Every woman present was in formal attire, the great majority wearing flowers under their chins or in their hair.

Mrs. Whitehurst, a distinguished figure in black velvet with long skirt and tight fitting bodice, charming in its simplicity, was given the seat of honor at the speaker's table.

The table decor was rather dramatic in arrangement. A floral plaque fashioned of bright red carnations, blue corn flowers and white chrysanthemums ran the full length of the board. Towering in the center was a floral V (for victory) illuminated on either side with tall blue tapers. Blue tapers flamed high above the flowers from one end of the table to the other.

Smaller tables scattered over the roof, beautifully serviced and florally adorned, marked covers for the three hundred guests in attendance. At each cover was placed a bright red map of the United States in the form of a booklet with pencil attached. Guests were informed in this manner that members of the Welcome Branch Book club were responsible for the unique programs and the plans for the National Defense banquet. Members of the committee were: Mrs. J. T. Eubanks, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. J. A. Winkler, Jr., Mrs. J. Kersh, Mrs. H. Coon, Mrs. P. T. Wright, Mrs. A. E. Kilpatrick, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. Sam Campbell, Mrs. C. R. Pedigo, Mrs. A. D. Vandergriff, Mrs. Fred Tesche, Mrs. Albert Spear, Mrs. T. H. Scott, and Mrs. Adair Smith.

Mrs. W. C. Ekholm, president of the Welcome Branch Book club, presided as toastmistress with considerable graciousness and poise and dignity. Mrs. Leola Nixon of Ruston, president of the fifth district federated clubs, wearing a lovely evening model, gave the invocation.

Mrs. Fenn A. Leaming, state president of the L. F. W. C., beautifully gowned, was introduced and responded with greetings from the state.

Mrs. Whitehurst, the main speaker of the evening, endeavored to arouse her audience to the dangers of the foreign "isms" and ideologies that are now laying waste the once great countries of the world. Forceful, logical and convincing was Mrs. Whitehurst's talk. She held the undivided interest of her audience and in conclusion received an ovation. The appreciative women pressed forward to express their delight.

Recognition of her grasp of national affairs and her rare initiative, have brought Mrs. Whitehurst many invitations to serve on national boards of a wide variety of organizations. She has accepted the following: National Program Advisory Committee, The Town Hall, Inc.; National Advisory Board of the National Dental Hygiene Association; Board of Trustees of Allied Youth, Inc.; Sponsoring Committee, Relief Wings, Inc.; Advisory Committee Goucher College Council; Radio Committee for Nutritional Defense; National and International Music Week Committee; Honorary member, National Board of Camp Fire Girls; and National Board Christopher Columbus Memorial Committee.

Members Of Y. W. C. A. Board In Meeting At 'Y'

Members of the Y. W. C. A. board met at the "Y" on Thursday, with Mrs. J. R. White, president of the board, presiding. Mrs. DeWitt Milam gave a devotional on the importance of "being thankful" and expressing reports on the various activities and plans for future work.

Miss Bess Sharp, the general secretary, gave her report and announced the annual world fellowship for the Y. W. C. A., November 9-15. Mrs. H. F. Madison talked on the subject of "I Believe," which is the theme for World Fellowship week. Miss Eleanor Faulk presented information regarding the Red Cross drive. The meeting was adjourned after several items of business were discussed.

"The Y. W. C. A. is one of the few remaining channels for the promotion of understanding between people." The importance of fellowship throughout the world is stressed during the week of November 9-15, 1941, by the Y. W. C. A. This week is the annual World Fellowship Week which has its theme "I Believe."

'Women In Defense' Is Subject Of Talk By General Federation Presiden

'Sixth Column' Called Big Threat To America

Mrs. Whiehurst Says Apathy Toward Defense Program Endangers Survival of Democracy

If any woman on the roof of the Virginia hotel Friday night sat within the sound of Mrs. John Whitehurst's voice and did not feel that she was listening to a devout and great crusader, she most certainly had something lacking in her mental make-up. From the comments made, most of them had no such lack. Mrs. Whitehurst, national president of the largest organization for women in the world, the General Federation of Women's clubs, was the guest speaker at the banquet arranged as the high social moment of the three-day convention of the Louisiana Federated Women's clubs.

"Women In Defense," the subject of Mrs. Whitehurst's talk, provided a channel for the speaker to express herself on the subject that is on the lips of every thinking man and woman today. Mrs. Whitehurst has been termed a "crusading patriot." She not only believes in our representative form of government, she is throwing the might of her strength and influence, and that of the federation and its 2,000,000 members, behind the nation's "all out" defense efforts.

Coining a new phrase, "the sixth column," which she characterized as the greatest threat confronting America today, Mrs. Whitehurst lashed out with a stinging attack on the appalling apathy of the American people toward the dangers confronting democratic governments and institutions.

The highlights of Mrs. Whitehurst's talk follows:

"Apathy toward the defense program in this country is truly as dangerous as the fifth column. It acts as an opiate on our people. It prevents full cooperation with those trying to defend our country. It places us in the category of France and other countries before they were invaded.

"I believe that the greatest danger facing the American people today is the sixth column—the apathy surrounding many of our people so that the progress of our defense program is retarded.

"Who are the people who make up the sixth column and what are they doing

"Apathetic toward preparedness is prevalent among certain religious groups and such opposition is understandable, but there is also another type—those who psychologically are opposed to a defense program. Women, largely, make up this group.

"Women have worked for peace, they have prayed for peace for so many years, that they are reluctant to give up the idea of peace and to settle down and prepare for defense, which in their minds—means war.

"To many of us, an adequate national defense program means security, it means that Hitler will not dare attack us if we are adequately defended. Defense means insurance.

"The people of this country must change their attitude if we are to defend ourselves from Hitler.

"Then we have those who are apathetic due to the talk of isolationists. I believe that Mr. Wheeler, Mr. Lindbergh, and others who are vocal on the subject of isolation are honest in their conviction that their theories are the proper one for the American people.

"These men cannot be classed as fifth columnists, un-American and other unbecoming names because they speak their minds in a democracy. When free speech is no longer possible, then we will not have a democracy to fight for. Our idealogy of government will be other than democratic. However, I am sure that those two men and others believing as they do—have no idea of the confusion that they are creating in the minds of our people.

"At a time when unity should exist, when any controversy over adequate preparedness retards the plans for defense of our country, citizens who have its best interests at heart, should not, through their speeches, create chaotic thinking among our people as to the need for adequate national defense.

"I have heard many disloyal remarks made about our country and our leaders after radio speeches made by Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Lindbergh. I am sure that they had no intention of swaying our people away from their allegiance to our form of government, but judging from the people who talked to me, they did.

"Another group in the sixth column are the luxury loving people. Our people have been too dependent on the many luxuries which our democracy has provided—therefore they are unwilling to give them up in order to work for a defense program which they believe may not be needed.

"We have more of the so-called luxuries of life than any other country in the world—higher wages, better schools, more automobiles, telephones, radios, clothes and food—yet such luxuries have softened our people to such an extent that they do not want to shake off the lethargic state that such luxury develops and work for defense.

"Our country clubs, yes, women's clubs, and even various defense groups are filled with individuals who are bickering over petty issues, due to jealousy and for other significant reasons instead of working for big issues which must be solved if we are to adequately defend this country. There is too much talk and too little action.

"Our people are sitting around talking about their neighbors, the weaknesses of the leaders and of our government while Nazi propagandists are selling their own form of government to us.

"When will we awaken to the fact that in order to sell democracy we must praise it—not criticize it; appreciate it—not demounce it; and then bestir ourselves in order to fight for it, yes, die for it if necessary.

"There is still another group in the sixth column, those who lack patriotic fervor. Possibly the most devastating part of this sixth column are those individuals who lack the patriotic fervor which is so necessary in order to fight to preserve home, self and country. Why it is lacking is a mystery. Some say a bomb must fall on our soil before we will realize that it is necessary to prepare, but I believe that is a sort of egotism—that we have taken this country and its form of government so for granted that we do not believe that any one or anything can or would attempt to disturb it. This is a dangerous theory—we should't forget that France had implicit faith in the Maginot line.

"We need more patriotic participation. More flag demonstrations, more singing of our patriotic songs. We haven't taught our children to respect the flag, the leaders, and our government, and the results are obvious. Many children hear nothing but criticism of government and its leaders in the home. Recently in a motion picture theater the president of the United States was shown delivering one of his most vital speeches, a young girl about fifteen years old seated near me said, "Who is that old guy and what is he croaking about?" What is wrong with our educational systems when a girl fifteen years of age does not know the president of these United States, particularly at a time like this.

"Our people need to be stirred up so they may see that it is necessary to protect the country they have taken so for granted and which has given them so much.

"The symbol of this country, the flag, should be displayed each day during this emergency on all public buildings and in all rooms where public meetings are held.

"We face very grave times. We must realize this and prepare ourselves to meet the challenge with fortitude and with a spirit that our pioneers had during the early days of this country.

"I know that the American people will eventually develop that enthusiasm for love of country which is needed for the success of any defense program.

"Let us stop talking about the fifth column and rid ourselves of that larger and more threatening force—the sixth column of apathy."

William Wilson Novel Is Subject Of Review

"Yesterday's Son" by William E. Wilson, was chosen by Mrs. J. E. Bryant for her review before members of the Current Literature club when they met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. M. Menefee. Mrs. William Whitfield, president, presided.

Mrs. R. L. Seiler was elected delegate to the State Federated convention held in Monroe last week. A hostess committee to serve during the convention was appointed by Mrs. Whitfield. Mrs. Mike John, Jr., presented the afternoon's program. Mrs. Seiler conducted an institute on the Ouachita parish health unit.

In reviewing "Yesterday's Son," Mrs. Bryant said in part:

"Here, by the author of 'Wabash,' is a first novel of unusual brilliance and pace. 'Yesterday's Son' is a poignant story of a love that never reached its full flower. John Corey is a professor of English literature. As college opens one fall, Corye's peaceful life with his work and his friends and his wife is suddenly rent apart one day in his classroom by something which brought back to his mind a summer idyll of twenty years past.

"It was Jessica whose face so suddenly appeared in Corey's mind. He had almost been able to forget her in those intervening years. Jessica Pindar, the then young bride of Nathaniel Pindar, the reserved and haughty scion of an old Massachusetts family, and an up-and-coming Boston banker. It seemed that those summer evenings, when the heavens were crowded with stars and the fields heavy with smells and sounds of night, conspired that these two should fall in love. But it was only for a few breathless weeks and then Jessica left with her husband, and John Corey went back to Conrad to teach English. Everything was over-until twenty years later, that day in Corey's classroom when it all came back with a flood of remembrance.

"From here William Wilson tells an unusual and haunting story of a handful of people enmeshed in patterns which came up and out of the past to threaten all of their happiness. With the skill of a master, William Wilson keeps his interest until the last sentance, and one closes the book with profound satisfaction and enjoyment that a piece of splendid writing always gives."

During the social hour the hostess served delightful refreshments to the following members and guests:

Mrs. Jordan Barton, Mrs. J. E. Bryant, Mrs. R. L. Conway, Jr., Mrs. J. Leon Dennis, Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich, Mrs. Mike John, Jr., Mrs. John Naylor, Mrs. Louis Peters, Mrs. R. F. Seiler, Mrs. Earl Stovall, Mrs. A. L. Vandergriff, Mrs. William Whitfield, Mrs. Odgon Kemp, Mrs. I. H. Meyer, Mrs. Cecil Hill, Mrs. Marvin Brown, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Jr., and the hostess.

Interior Decoration Lecture To Be Given

Members of the Monroe Art association have extended an invitation to the public to attend an illustrated lecture on "Interior Decoration," to be given by Bob Underwood at the home of Mrs. J. A. Winkler, Jr., Thursday at 4:30 p.m.

The primary purpose of inviting Mr. Underwood to address the homemakers of Ouachita parish is to further the movement for making homes more beautiful and more comfortable by helping to spread the knowledge of the principles of interior decoration.

The decoration of a home or of a room is not the result of hit-or-miss effort, but rather the result of careful and systematic planning. Any such plan is based upon some knowledge of the principles of design and color.

Mr. Underwood graduated from Neville high school and studied at Louisiana Tech for a number of years before entering Feather and Feather School of Fine and Applied Art, in Houston, Tex. At the completion of his training in this school he spent three months working in the studio of Feather and Feather in Houston and helped in planning many of the beautiful interiors of homes of that city. He returned to this city in August.

In order to obtain the best results, he will have on exhibition large charts illustrating the principles of design and color. Large samples of the very latest styles of fabrics suitable for upholstery, draperies and rugs will be shown as well as a large collection of wallpapers in the newest designs and colors. He will show the effect of light on the different textures of the same colors, illustrate spectrum colors, tints and shades, intense and grayed colors, and exhibit many decorative schemes, using attractive mounted pictures.

Bobashelas Book Club Meets At Eby Residence

Giant yellow and white chrysanthemums were placed advantageously throughout the living room at the home of Mrs. Charles Eby Wednesday afternoon when she and Mrs. J. Y. Pipes entertained the Bobashelas Book club.

The president, Mrs. George Austin, introduced Miss Eleanor Faulk, who spoke in behalf of the Red Cross drive. Several members volunteered their services in this drive.

The convention of the State Federated clubs held in Monroe was discussed and plans were made to attend. Mrs. George Austin, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, and Mrs. D. C. Harper were named delegates.

The program centered around three important subjects of Louisiana—agriculture, transportation and industry. Mrs. W. D. Clark spoke on agriculture, its development and future in Louisiana; Mrs. J. V. Russell spoke on transportation; Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre spoke on the industries of Louisiana.

The hostesses served delectable refreshments to the following members: Mrs. Roy Lee, Mrs. George Austin, Mrs. Herbert Rinehart, Mrs. J. O. Miller, Mrs. J. V. Russell, Mrs. D. C. Harper, Mrs. R. G. Taylor, Mrs. W. D. Clark, Mrs. K. D. Hayes, and Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre.

Street Hopes To Return To Southland For Winter

Friends here are in receipt of information from James Street, well-known author and short story writer, that he is recovering from recent illness and an operation in New York City and hopes to return south in the near future. Mr. Street, with his family, spent last winter in Natchez.

Mr. Street, whose books "Oh, Promised Land," "Look Away," "A Note Book on Dixie," and "In My Father's House" were best sellers, has started work on a sequel to "Oh, Promised Land."

His story "The Biscuit Eater," which was made into a motion picture, has been published as a book, he said. He has also written three stories for Collier's Weekly and for The Saturday Evening Post. The story for the Post is about Basinjis, African barkless dogs, and is titled "Weep No More, My Lady." The stories for Collier's are "A Professional Lady," with the scene in Natchez, and another story, also laid in Natchez "A Bunch of Lavendar."

Mr. Street, a native of Laurel, Miss., worked for some time in Hattiesburg, Miss., on the American Legion before going with the Associated Press. He held several responsible positions with the Associated Press and later worked in New York on the World-Telegram, being one of the city editors.

For several years he has been writing as a free lance, working in New York, and at his home in Old Lynne, Conn. Last winter he finished his historical novel "Oh, Promised Land" and his latest novel "In My Father's House" and a number of short stories and articles in Natchez.

He was scheduled to go to Hollywood to work on a river story, but his illness and operation forced him to stay in New York.

Literary Guild Members Meet In Holloway Home

Members of the Literary Guild were graciously entertained by Mrs. E. D. Holloway in her home at 208 Arkansas avenue.

Delegates to the state convention were appointed for the meeting of the Federated Women's clubs here. Mrs. C. K. Crandall and Mrs. P. L. Perot were appointed delegates. Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, a charter member of the Literary Guild, was a prominent figure as state vice-president.

Mrs. C. U. Johnson gave an interesting talk on "Consumers' Problems." A paper was given by Mrs. Thomas Sandridge, who reviewed the life of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

Mrs. Wilson has told the story of her life in the White House in a very interesting and inspiring manner. She says: "I claim no reader's attention with the idea I will reveal official secrets; for nothing is further from my thoughts. But I have revealed the truth concerning personal matters which has been often distorted by the misinformed.

"If I take the public into my confidence about these matters it is because the high office which my husband held robs them of a private character and makes me feel that they belong to history."

Mrs. Wilson's book is full of historical background. She dedicated it to President Wilson with these words: "To my husband, Woodrow Wilson, who helped me build from the broken timbers of my life a temple wherein are enshrined memories of his great spirit which was dedicated to the service of God and humanity."

Members present were Mesdames Herbert Breard, Joe Brown, Wharton Brown, C. K. Crandall, Herbert Dickard, J. S. Durrett, W. M. Harper, Clifford Johnson, B. M. McKoin, P. L. Perot, T. J. Sandridge, A. D. Tisdale, W. E. Wilson and the hostess.

Rayville

Second Lieutenant Kirk R. Morley, who has been stationed at Camp Claiborne, La., visited his mother, Mrs. J. W. Summerlin, on last Friday. Lieutenant Morley was en route to Lexington, Mo., where he has been stationed by the army as assistant to the professor of Military Science and Tactics at Wentworth Military academy.

Mrs. C. H. Stephens, of Nashville, Tenn., has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Richard Hatch, of Buckner, the past two weeks.

Mrs. C. M. Purvis of Tchula, Miss., is a guest of Dr. and Mrs. George C. Purvis.

Mrs. W. S. Sayre, Sr., of Mangham, visited her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. T. M. Sayre, and other members of the family.

Mrs. Irma Buie has returned home after a visit of several weeks to her daughters, Mrs. J. W. Canby, of Little Rock, Ark., and Mrs. R. E. King, of Houston, Tex. She was accompanied home by Mrs. Canby, who was the guest of her mother and her aunt, Mrs. E. M. Trzevant, for a few days.

Dr. R. J. Murphy, senior staff dentist of the Louisiana State department of health, attended the meeting of the American Dental association in Houston, Tex., last week.

Judge and Mrs. Carey J. Ellis attended the Tulane-Alabama football game in New Orleans Saturday afternoon, and motored to Baton Rouge to attend the L. S. U.-Ole Miss game Saturday night.

Mrs. M. D. Stodgill was hostess to the Rayville Literary club on Tuesday afternoon, November 4 at 4:15 p.m.

Continuing the years study on "Our America," Mrs. F. B. Hatch, Jr., program leader for the afternoon, introduced Mrs. T. M. Sayre who gave an interesting paper on "Independence Hall," America's most famous landmark.

Mrs. Hatch then made short informative talks on "Plymouth Rock" and "Statute of Liberty," two more famous landmarks of America.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments to the following: Mrs. C. S. Aycock, Mrs. H. C. Chambers, Jr., Mrs. A. C. Clark, Jr., Miss Ruth Clark, Mrs. G. R. Downes, Mrs. C. J. Ellis, Mrs. Sam Fragala, Mrs. C. E. Gay, Jr., Mrs. F. B. Hatch, Jr., Miss Fay Henderson, Miss Carrie Hatch, Mrs. R. V. Jones, Mrs. H. S. Mangham, Mrs. E. H. Myrick, Miss Rebecca Parks, Mrs. L. N. Pipes, Miss Lorraine Ponder, Mrs. George Purvis, Mrs. T. M. Sayre, Mrs. E. K. Spiers, Mrs. M. D. Stodghill, and Mrs. J. B. Thompson, Jr.

The Junior Federated club of Rayville met with Miss Myrtle Iva Green in the home of Mrs. L. N. Dunaway, Thursday afternoon.

After the usual order of business, Mrs. John Raines Myrick presented the program of the afternoon, on Current Events.

Mrs. Myrick gave a most interesting and enjoyable talk on current events and propaganda. British and German propaganda were contrasted. Goering presents an exaggerated type of news that appeals to the masses. The British propganda carries a rational aspect. The sport life and influence of daily news, and the way a matter of typical consequence could be made a big issue was mentioned.

At the conclusion of the program delicious refreshments were served by the hostess to the following members: Mesdames John Owens, Ralph Johnson, Lasley Richardson, Oliver Lowery, E. A. Cox, John R. Report On Course At Baton Rouge Is Made

Welcome Garden Club Members Tell Of Instruction In Flower Arrangement And Judging

Members attending the November meeting of the Welcome Garden club, held at the Frances hotel, heard reports by those attending the third course in flower arrangement and flower show judging which was held at Louisiana State university, Baton Rouge, October 24 and 25.

This course was conducted by Miss Anne B. Wertsner, horticulturist and field secretary of the Pennsylvania Horticultural society.

Members attending and taking the course were Mrs. H. V. Collins, president; Mrs. Carey Holmes and Mrs. Jack Bagwell.

Mrs. Bagwell gave a comprehensive report on "Horticulture." She discussed roses and iris and the things to strive for when growing these for exhibition purposes, as well as how they were judged and the points given them. Different kinds of blossoms were also classified and these are judged according to standards applicable to each species. She said: "A rose is considered perfect when three-quarters open. When making a flower arrangement all foliage must be washed clean. Keep the best flowers for specimens. Regarding the soil, nitrogen helps to make leaf growth, potash (wood ashes) for quality and phosphorus for good flowers and seeds."

Mrs. Carey Holmes gave a splendid report on "Flower Arrangements." She said: "The background must be considered, as to color and size, when a flower arrangement is being made. The arrangement must be well balanced and the colors must harmonize. It is best to place the heavier flowers at the bottom and the darker ones to the center, with the light ones at the top. The flowers should be one and one-half times higher than the container. Needle point holders are best to use. One can use 'twist-ems' when wishing to make a strong stem out of a weak one. These can also be used to obtain a curved effect with flowers like 'glads.' The stem is cut and put back together with 'twist-em.'"

Mrs. H. V. Collins gave some interesting facts regarding the convention. She spoke of gaining knowledge from Miss Wertsner, who spoke of the "Essentials of a Flower Show," and of the publicity and committees needed. The Louisiana Garden Club Federation 1941-42 year books were shown and later presented to the officers of the club. Mrs. Collins advised of the resignation of Mrs. N. William Reed, state garden club president for two and a half years.

The regular program was presented by Mrs. Jack Bagwell, program chairman.

Mrs. A. S. Tidwell gave an unusually fine talk on "Plants, Shrubs and Trees."

She said in part: "We cultivate flowers in gardens and get pleasure, lovely blossoms and odors. Flowers are a luxury and are extensively grown for all kinds of gardens. The gardener should have a knowledge of the best selection of flowers for certain sections and purposes and how to grow and cultivate them.

Mrs. M. C. McDonald gave a splendid paper on "Annuals." Some facts obtained from her paper include the necessity of obtaining the best seed from a well known, well established firm. To prolong the blooming period, the flowers must be picked before they fade, so that no seed may form.

Annuals are divided into three classes. The hardy, which can withstand a light frost and the seed can be planted in the open in a well prepared soil, fertilized the previous fall with well rotted manure. No commercial fertilizer, except bonemeal, should be used. Hardy annuals to plant in the early fall are alyssum, bachelor button, California poppy, petunia, portulaca, snapdragon and sweet peas.

Mrs. Sam Humphries concluded the program by passing out slips giving detailed instructions on "How to Have a Rich, Green Lawn This Fall, Winter and Next Spring." The facts are given briefly:

Mow lawn closely now; rake, removing all dead grass and leaves. Apply four pounds of Vigoro per 100 square feet and rake into the soil. (This helps to make a quick growth). Scatter evenly by hand, 10 pounds of good winter grass seed per 1,000 square feet and rake in thoroughly. Sprinkle lawn and continue to sprinkle till the seed germinates and makes good growth.

Those present were Mrs. O. M. Arnette, Mrs. Jack Bagwell, Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. O. R. Brauer, Mrs. C. A. Caldwell, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. W. C. Faulk, Mrs. J. R. Fuller, Mrs. Ralph H. B. Gibson, Mrs A. S. Gunter, Mrs. Fred Hanna, Mrs. Sam Humphries, Mrs. C. A. Hatchell, Mrs. John Harper, Mrs. Carey Holmes. Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Mrs. M. C. McDonald, Mrs. R. O. Randle, Mrs. J. P. Royce, Mrs. A. C Ransom, Mrs. Vance J. Rhodes, Mrs. A. J. Speer, Mrs. W. A. Smith, Mrs. J. C. Steel, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. Ralph Thompson, Mrs. H. G. Thompson and Mrs. C. E. Wadley. Two visitors were present.

AUXILIARY MEMBERS ENTERTAIN VISITORS . . .

Belle Starr' Opens Engagement At Paramount Today

She captured an arsenal, seized government reins, routed United States troops—and still had time for love! This is "Belle Starr," the famous bandit queen of the Ozarks, whose adventures are brought to the screen in Technicolor. Gene Tierney is "Belle Starr," while Randolph Scott is seen opposite her as Sam Starr, the daring guerilla leader who loved her. Opening today on the Paramount screen for three days.

Billy Conn, the pride of the sports world after his thrilling exhibition against Joe Louis, is shown here in a scene from his first motion picture, "The Pittsburgh Kid." Billy's opponent in the film is heavyweight star, Jack Roper, who seems to be experiencing the same difficulty against Conn that was so evident in the short-lived Louis-Roper match. Playing Saturday at the Paramount.

MUSIC SPECIALIST WILL VISIT MONROE

Siebolt Frieswyck, music specialist associated with the National Recreation association, will come to Monroe in the interest of community singing which it is desired to feature on the local recreation department program. This noted musician will meet with various groups during the week, stated Miss Lucyle Godwin, municipal recreation director.

Approximately 125,000,000 separate shipments are handled annually by the railroads.

Melvyn Douglas is seen in this scene spanking Ruth Hussey, or is it Ellen Drew? in the fascinating and sophisticated "Our Wife," which plays at the Capitol Wednesday. Charles Coburn, who can be depended upon for a swell performance, has the part of Ruth Hussey's father, the Professor (gambler extraordinary), and with John Hubbard make "Our Wife" top-notch entertainment.

Belle Starr Used Wiles

Bandit Queen's Wiles Win Out In Latest Film

BELLE STARR, the bandit queen of the Ozarks, never fired a shot when a smile or a flash of a shapely ankle would do the trick.

She went to masseuses to keep her figure curvaceous and to the best dressmakers in Chicago and New York to enhance her allure.

That is the gist of some little-known facts which research experts for 20th Century-Fox brought back with them from Missouri and Arkansas to aid in the production of that company's "Belle Starr," the technicolor picture now at the Paramount Theater with Randolph Scott and Gene Tierney in the leading roles.

While most folks have thought for years that Belle was merely a rough, two-gun frontier woman, it didn't take Hollywood long to discover that she possessed sex appeal, spelled in capital letters.

"The usual conception of Belle is all wrong," said Irving Cummings, who directed the film. "She was a beautiful Southern girl whose recklessness ran away with her.

"She did more damage to men's hearts than she ever did with a gun.

"I don't know whether Belle Starr ever harmed anyone herself. She is today mostly legend. There aren't nearly the facts about her that there are about Jesse or Frank James or Quantrell, all of whose names were in her address book.

"Our hardest work in writing the story of 'Belle Starr' has been to cut out the fables from the actual facts.

"We do know that she was born Myra Belle Shirley in Carthage, Missouri, February 3, 1846, and started her adventures during the Civil War when her brother, Ed, who was a captain of guerillas under Quantrell, was killed during an engagement with a United States cavalry detachment. She never forgave the Yankees."

Gene Tierney, a relative newcomer to Hollywood, was selected for the role of Belle Starr after 47 actresses, including some of Hollywood's most famous names, had been tested.

Randolph Scott plays her sweetheart, later her husband, Sam Starr, the daring guerilla leader whose band this reckless Southern girl joined.

Feautred are Dana Andrews, John Shepperd, Elizabeth Patterson, Chill Wills and Louise Beavers. The screen play was prepared by Lamar Trotti from a story by Niven Busch and Cameron Rogers. Kenneth Macgowan was associate producer.

'You'll Never Get Rich' Is Capitol Show

Director Makes Dancers Feel At Home In Filming Show

MOVIE STARS who come from the stage, and that includes both Fred Astaire and beautiful Rita Hayworth, felt right at home the way Sidney Lanfield, director, shot "You'll Never Get Rich," new Columbia musical which co-stars Fred and Rita, both famous stage dancers, for the first time. A romantic comedy that ranges from Broadway to army camp life, the extravaganza coming to the Capitol theater boasts of a complete musical score by Cole Porter and a dance ensemble of 98.

Lanfield put his stage-trained players at ease the first day by reviving one of the theater's oldest customs, long rehearsal periods to precede actual shooting.

Ordinarily, when a picture starts shooting in Hollywood it is supposed to keep shooting; the big idea is to complete it. Of course, there are rehearsals before every scene, but the main business of everybody there is to film the scene itself. The day's measure of progress is what's "in the can," not the amount of time consumed in preliminaries.

In contrast, Lanfield put "You'll Never Get Rich" in production, then announced there would be no shooting until whole sequences and long dance routines had been worked out. On such days, players wear anything they want. There is no makeup. The shooting crew is on hand, but cameramen, electricians, sound engineers and the others are there because they have a rehearsal too. It's their job to line up the shots. It took the technicians two full days to figure out how they could follow photographically the nimble Astaire, the no less nimble Miss Hayworth, 98 dancers and a host of surging extras over an acre of floor space representing New York's Grand Central station.

Meanwhile, the musical technically was "in production."

If, offhand, the Lanfield procedure seems costlier, "You'll Never Get Rich" indicates otherwise. When director, stars, players and crew were ready, they were really ready. One "take" was sufficient for many scenes and dance numbers, even big ones.

Robert Benchley and John Hubbard are featured members of the cast which includes Osa Massen, Frieda Inescort, Guinn Williams and Donald MacBride.

"Aloma of the South Seas," the Technicolorful Dorothy Lamour-Jon Hall thriller, opens today on the Capitol screen for a two-day engagement, featuring Lynne Overman as the "Royal Bathtub Kibitzer." In the above scene, tribal handmaidens give their native prince, Jon Hall, a tropic bath in preparation for the sacred and colorful coronation festival which is about to begin.

Paul Kelly and Lola Lane (shown in inset) play the featured roles in "Mystery Ship," an exciting melodrama which deals with sabotage aboard a United States vessel on the high seas. A spectacular scene from the film is shown above. A Capitol thriller for Tuesday.

"You'll Never Get Rich" is the Capitol headliner for Thursday and Friday, starring the one and only Fred Astaire with beauteous Rita Hayworth. In this delightful film, Robert Benchley and John Hubbard have prominent parts while Osa Massen, Frieda Inescort, Guinn Williams and Donald MacBride have a lot of fun, and you will, too. There is beauty, rhythm, Cole Porter songs and comedy in this great big army musical.

ADCOCK IS BACK FROM BIG MEET

W. S. Adcock, delegate from local B-446 of Monroe, attended the golden jubilee convention of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers at Hotel Jefferson, St. Louis, Mo., starting October 27.

There were present 1,250 delegates, including those from Canada, Alaska, Cuba, Hawaii and elsewhere. With the wives of the delegates the attendance was fully 3,000, Mr. Adcock said.

Dances and banquets were interspersed with the mechanical features and scientific addresses by men who are prominent in the electrical world.

A reception dance on the night of November 1 was one of the social highlights of the convention.

THEATER STARS TO STAGE PLAY

Alfred Lunt, Lynne Fontanne To Appear In Shreveport Performance

An event of major importance to theater goers is the announcement that Alfred Lunt and Lynne Fontanne, two of the most distinguished stars of the theater, are coming to the municipal auditorium, Shreveport, for one performance, matinee only, on Tuesday afternoon, November 25, to present Robert E. Sherwood's 1941 Pulitzer prize stage play "There Shall Be No Night." The noted artists will be supported by the New York cast and the tour is sponsored jointly by the Playwrights Company and the Theater Guild, the two foremost producing organizations in the country.

In "There Shall Be No Night," Robert E. Sherwood, three times Pulitzer prize winner, has written what has been termed the most important stage play of this generation. He has taken a home-loving family, the father a distinguished neurologist and the American-born mother a woman of devotion and understanding, and he has shown what it means to face war and invasion of one's country by brute force. Although the setting of the play is Helsinki, "There Shall Be No Night" is a drama of universal appeal and it is being taken on tour by Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne in order that theatergoers in other cities may see it.

No two stage partners have held more firmly the affections of the public than Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne whose list of stage successes includes such plays as "The Guardsman," which later was made into a picture, "Arms and the Man," "The Brothers Karamazov," "The Second Man," "Caprice," "Elizabeth the Queen," "Taming of the Shrew," "Amyphytrion 38," "The Sea Gull," and two other of Robert Sherwood's plays, "Reunion in Vienna" and "Idiot's Delight." In "There Shall Be No Night" they have the finest roles of their careers, Mr. Lunt as the scientist and Miss Fontanne as his wife.

The notable supporting company includes Sydney Greenstreet, Maurice Colbourne, Thomas Gomez, Elizabeth Fraser, Montgomery Clift, Edward Raquello, Donald Fox, Charles Ansley, John O'Connor, Robert Emhardt, William Le Messena, Claude Horton, Charva Chester, Lynda Nelson and Roy Johnson. The settings are by Richard Whorf and the play was directed by Mr. Lunt.

EDUCATION WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

National P.-T. A. Congress Outlines Program Which Will Be Followed

Parent-Teacher associations in Louisiana are observing American Education week, this week, by following the program outlined by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

A proclamation has been issued by Governor Sam Jones, declaring the week of November 9-15, American Education week. The daily topics will be: Sunday, November 9, "Seeking World Order"; Monday, "Building Physical Fitness"; Tuesday, "Strengthening National Morale"; Wednesday, "Improving Economic Well-being"; Thursday, "Safeguarding School Support"; Friday, "Learning the Ways of Democracy"; Saturday, "Enriching Family Life."

Charl O. Williams, of Washington, D. C., National Congress of Parents and Teachers, urges all parents to personally visit the schools during the week. She says: "A visit to the school is, of course, the best way to find out exactly what the schools are doing. This week has been set aside especially for this most important method of bridging the gap between the home and the school."

In connection with American Education week, Mrs. Fagan Cox, state president of the Louisiana P.-T. A., says: "There is no better time to place special emphasis on safety and to ways of reducing accidents in the home and on the highway."

TEACHER GROUP HOLDS MEETING

First Session Of New School Year Conducted On Friday

The first meeting of the school year for the City Teachers' Association was held in Central Grammar school auditorium, on Friday afternoon, with the president, Miss Louise Moore, presiding. After the opening numbers had been given, Miss Moore surrendered her post to Miss Clara Hall, program chairman.

One of the most important features of the meeting was the election of delegates to the Louisiana State Teachers' convention in New Orleans later this month. Mrs. Orrie Rust and Mrs. W. R. Hammond will be delegates and alternates will be Miss Julia Wossman and Miss May Coker.

Following the opening exercises of roll call, devotionals and the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," the list of chairmen for the year was given.

Superintendent E. L. Neville addressed the assemblage and welcomed them. He said that virtually the same teachers were back again this year. One teacher, Mrs. Hulda Mansberg, had returned after being out for several terms and there was a new face, that of Miss Annie McClendon, speech teacher at Neville High school. He said that the outlook was good for a year of constructive work and that he would institute a new plan for the meetings—that they would now be held at various schools instead of all being held at Central Grammar.

At the close of his talk, Principal Paul Neal invited the teachers to meet at Neville High next month, which invitation was accepted.

Miss McClendon announced that there will be an Armistice day program at Neville High, Tuesday, at 8:45 a.m. She urged P.-T. A. members and others to attend.

Miss Hall discussed the educational survey that is being made in the state, being aided by three groups—the citizens group, the superintendents' group, and the teachers' group. She said that the theme of the survey is: "What would you like teaching to embrace, and what obstacles are there to be overcome in giving instruction?"

Miss Rodgers, chairman of the principal and superintendents' group, said that the idea of the survey originated with Mrs. Paul Blanchard, former president of the state P.-T. A. who believed that the training of the child should be suited to his surroundings. Miss Rodgers said that she, herself, felt that a child from a home in a rural section should learn more about farming as a possible vocation and one in an industrial setting should be prepared in studies for a life that would fit in with that outlook.

She said that the purpose of the survey in 20 parishes of Louisiana was to try to get at the bottom of educational problems and to cause the people to think about them and to be ready to cooperate to overcome them. She cited Dr. Washburne, survey director, as having said that there are 16,200 aliens in Louisiana who should be converted into loyal American citizens.

Miss Julia Wossman, chairman of the citizens' committee, said that citizens who are wide-awake are planning for years to come. Louisiana has been at the bottom of the column in regard to illiteracy and now is up one peg, next to the bottom.

She said that there are a number of agricultural high schools, but that they are not practical. It is the work of the citizens' committee, she said, to see that the instruction fits into the lives of the pupils who will be the next voters of the country.

She closed with a plea for more and better vocational training in schools of the state.

REV. C. E. AUTREY ACCEPTS CALL

Rev. C. E. Autrey has accepted a call to become pastor of the First Baptist church in West Monroe and will arrive here to assume his new duties on or about November 17. He will come from Union City, Tenn., where he has served as pastor for several years.

The new pastor will succeed Dr. A. E. Prince, who resigned to become president of Hannibal-LaGrange college, Hannibal, Mo. A special committee from the West Monroe church visited Union City and heard Rev. Autrey preach. They reported favorably and as a result the call was extended by the Baptist congregation.

Rev. Autrey is a native of Louisiana and was formerly pastor of a Baptist church in Ruston.

HAROLD ASWELL ENDS ARMY'S RADIO COURSE

Harold L. Aswell, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Aswell, R. F. D. 1, Downsville, who enlisted through the Monroe army recruiting office in January of this year, recently successfully completed a radio course in the air corps, graduating from the radio school at Scott Field, Ill., October 24. Young Aswell enlisted for air corps, MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla., and has been stationed there during his entire service in the air corps. He is well pleased with the service, and is proud of the fact that he is making rapid progress in his chosen branch of the service. He was rated private first class in April, and then promoted to his first non-commissioned officer's rating of corporal on August first of this year.

Young Aswell told Sergeant H. B. McNemar that many of the local youths from this section of Louisiana were now at MacDill Field and that all of them were well pleased with their life in the military service, that many of them were now deeply engrossed in their various duties and studies in the various trades and schools and courses which are being offered to them in the air corps.

LOUISIANA TECH CALENDAR GIVEN

Ruston College Will Observe November 27 As Thanksgiving Day

RUSTON, La., Nov. 8.—(Special)—Dr. Claybrook Cottingham, president of Louisiana Tech, has announced a calendar for the college here during the school year, which was late in starting owing to army maneuvers in this area. The schedule, prepared by college representatives serving on a committee on curriculum and academic requirements, is as follows:

November 27: Thanksgiving day, holiday.

December 20, noon, to January 5, 8 a.m.: Christmas holidays.

January 31: Last day of fall semester.

February 2: Registration for second semester.

April 2, 4 p.m., to April 7, 8 a.m.: Easter holidays.

May 30: Last day of spring semester.

June 1: Commencement.

June 8: Summer school begins.

Notable features of the Tech calendar are:

Only one day for Thanksgiving, that being November 27, when Tech will play football here with Centenary College.

Christmas holidays scheduled the same as they were before the school opening was delayed.

The end of the first semester and the beginning of the second semester to occur one week later in order the more nearly to equalize the semesters.

Easter holidays to remain as previously scheduled.

The first semester to contain 15 weeks, less the holiday for Thanksgiving, and the second semester to contain 16 weeks, less the time spent in registration.

GYM CLASSES FOR WOMEN TO START

The Monroe Recreation department, 804 South Grand street, will initiate its class for women Monday at 8:30 a.m. There will be exercises and games and this class is specially for housekeepers, stated Miss Lucyle Godwin, recreation director.

A second class, particularly suited for working women and girls, will be held Tuesday at 5:30 p.m.

Miss Godwin urges all interested to be present at the time named so as to start off the classes without further delay.

HE'S NO DUMMY, SEILER ASSURES

However He Is Expert In His Part; See Him At Massey's Service

His family tradition was in the theater, but for the life of him little Bernie Seiler, still attending grammar school, hadn't discovered the particular niche into which he could fit to continue the tradition.

While working after school one evening winding and testing mechanical dolls in a toy factory, Bernie had an inspiration. "Why couldn't somebody," he reasoned, "mimic the mechanical movements of these little figures and then build a little act around it?"

From that moment, Bernard Seiler began preparations for one of the strangest careers the theater had ever seen—and it had seen some unique ones. Bernie Seiler became "Silo, the Robot Man," and set out to earn his living being a dummy.

Now being a convincing dummy wasn't as easy as it sounded. First, he had to master complete control of every muscle in his body—practiced by maintaining complete rigidity for many minutes on end. That wasn't bad—but his eyes! He had to keep them wide open, fixed in one direction and never bat an eyelash regardless of what went on about him, lest it destroy the illusion.

An ordinary person's optical muscles are controlled by automatic reflexes, operating independent of their owner's will—little autonomous units provided by nature to protect the delicate and sensitive optical nerves. Silo gained mastery of these muscles by having 500 watt lights passed immediately before his eyes and by having his friends strike matches unexpectedly before them. Only after three years of intensive training did he feel that mastery over these optical reflexes had been gained to a point where nothing could break the stony impassiveness of his robot stare.

Silo in person will be in Monroe Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 10, 11 and 12, at Massey Service, 520 Jackson street, making a personal appearance in connection with the showing of new 1942 model Zenith radios. The public is invited to see this interesting show. There will be no charge for admission.

Prince Valiant
Registered U. S. Patent Office
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAROLD R FOSTER
ALETA
QUEEN OF THE MISTY ISLES
Synopsis: PRINCE VALIANT GOES QUESTING FAR AND WIDE AMONG THE AEGEAN ISLANDS, SEARCHING FOR ALETA AND THE MISTY ISLES. A CORSAIR ATTACKS THEM, BUT, UNDER VAL'S LEADERSHIP, THEY SURPRISE THE PIRATES AND CAPTURE A RICH CARGO.
AFTER MURDERING THEIR COWARDLY CAPTAIN, THE GREEDY CREW PLANS TO OFFER THE COMMAND TO VAL AND BECOME PIRATES, THEMSELVES, HOPING THE YOUNG KNIGHT WILL DO MOST OF THE FIGHTING.
THEIR SPOKESMAN EXPLAINS THAT THE CAPTAIN FELL OVERBOARD AND VAL ACCEPTS THEIR REQUEST TO TAKE OVER.
THE CREW IS GREATLY DISAPPOINTED WHEN THEIR YOUNG LEADER REFUSES TO ROB PASSING MERCHANT SHIPS.....THEY NEVER EXPECTED SUCH HONESTY!
"YOU MEN WANTED A FIGHT, NOW YOU'LL HAVE IT! A STRANGE SHIP IS PURSUING US, SO FOLLOW MY ORDERS CLOSELY AND WE'LL RID THE SEAS OF ANOTHER PIRATE!"
BUNDLES OF CLOTH ARE BOUND TO THE OARS AND SOAKED WITH OIL. AS THE CORSAIR RASPS ALONG-SIDE, THESE ARE IGNITED AND THRUST AMONG THE PIRATES.
FOLLOWING THIS WALL OF FLAME, COME VAL AND HIS ARMED FOLLOWERS. ALTHOUGH GREATLY OUTNUMBERED, A VICTORY IS WON......
..... BUT NOT WITHOUT COST. ALTHOUGH MORE RICH PLUNDER IS STORED AWAY, THE CREW IS FRIGHTENED.... THEY WISH ONLY TO POUNCE ON UNARMED MERCHANTMEN, NOT TACKLE FIERCE PIRATES!
THEIR NEW LEADER IS A HORNET FAR TOO DANGEROUS FOR THEIR LIKING. SO, WHEN NEXT HE LANDS IN HIS SEARCH FOR THE MISTY ISLES, THEY SAIL AWAY WITHOUT HIM.
HAL FOSTER
RETURNING TO THE BEACH, VAL FINDS A STORM RAGING, BUT NO SIGN OF THE SHIP.
NEXT WEEK—The Misty Isles.

DICK TRACY
JERKING HIS BODY IN VIOLENT THRUSTS, TRACY MANAGES TO WORK HIMSELF NEAR ENOUGH TO THE KITCHEN WINDOW TO GRASP THE WINDOW CURTAIN IN HIS TEETH. DISLODGING ONE BRACKET OF THE CURTAIN ROD, HE STARTS SWINGING IT AGAINST THE GLASS.
CHESTER GOULD
FINALLY, THE ROD CRASHES THROUGH THE GLASS AS THE DETECTIVE RELAXES, SEMI-CONSCIOUS, IN THE SULPHUR FUME FILLED ROOM.
CRASH!
LOOK! ON THAT SECOND FLOOR! MUST BE A FIRE!
LET'S CALL THE FIRE DEPARTMENT!
MEANWHILE, A SHORT DISTANCE AWAY---
I CAN'T CONTROL THE CAR, WE'RE SKIDDING ON SOMETHING!
THAT WAS A VEGETABLE TRUCK. THEM WAS MELONS, TOMATOES AND STUFF. HEY, SUGAR, ARE YOU---ARE YOU HURT?
HEY, DRIVER, YOU AVOIDED A HEAD-ON COLLISION WITH THAT CAR - BUT WE WRECKED ANYWAY. HEY, DRIVER!
YE GODS! HE'S-HE'S OUT! I'LL SEE IF THE PEOPLE IN THE CAR ARE HURT - AND TRY TO GET SOME HELP
WE TRIED TO AVOID YOU, BUT YOU WERE COMING TOO FAST. ARE YOU HURT?
I DUNNO, THE LADY'S PASSED OUT!
172
WE'D BETTER LIFT HER OUT OF THERE AND CALL AN AMBULANCE!
YEAH, WE'D BETTER!
YOU'RE JUST IN TIME, BRIGHT EYES, WHOEVER YOU ARE! HERE-HOLD SOME OF THAT ARMORED CAR DOUGH ON YOUR LAP.
AND BACK UP THE STREET—
WE STOPPED TO AVOID HITTING THIS BOY— AND THE PEOPLE IN THE CAR HE FELL OUT OF STUCK US UP!
HEY, LISTEN TO THAT RADIO!
SQUAD FOUR-- GO TO SECOND STREET AND MAPLE. TRAFFIC ACCIDENT.
AHA! LOOK AT THIS! —MONEY AND EVERYTHING!
THAT'S THE STICK UP CAR, ALL RIGHT.
THERE'S NO FIRE HERE! JUST-(SNIFF) (SNIFF) -WHAT IS THIS?
WHAT IN TH-? LOOK OVER THERE!

I'VE HEARD IT BEFORE. IT'S A OUTRAGE--HIM LYIN' ABOUT KNOBBY LIKE THAT!
BUT I WONDER HOW IT IS HE KNOWS ALL THE PEOPLE KNOBBY KNOWS AN' GOES T'THEM.
ALL I KNOW IS IT'S A SHAME THAT WALSH WOULDN'T EVEN GIVE A BUCK TO KEEP HIS MOTHER'S YOUNGER BROTHER FROM STARVATION.
AND WHEN HE TOLD ME HOW HE USED TO BUY EVERYTHING FOR KNOBBY WHEN WALSH WAS A KID AND NOW THE CHEAP UNGRATEFUL--- THAT AINT FAIR OR TRUE. HE'S ONLY FIVE YEARS OLDER THAN KNOBBY AN' HE'S PHONEY!! KNOBBY'S A SET-FER HELPIN' PEOPLE.
HMM! HOW HANDY THAT KNOBBY DROPPED HIS ADDRESS BOOK. LET'S SEE---MIKE JACOBS--OH THAT SHOULD BE A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY.
UH--WHY JOSEPH--MY DEAR BOY---I'M SO HAPPY TO SEE YOU--WHY YOU'RE A VERITABLE SIGHT FOR SORE EYES--- HOW MUCH WILL YOU TAKE?
OH HOW THOUGHTFUL AND BOUNTIFUL--UH I HATE TO-UH-BORROW FROM YOU--BUT FRANCIS IS SO STINGY-MY OWN NEPHEW---
I SAID HOW MUCH--T'GIT OUTA TOWN AN' FAST OR I'LL STUFF YA RIGHT IN THE GARBAGE WHERE YOU B'LONG!
REFUS
WHY JOSEPH--SUCH ANGER--UH--YOU SAY ONLY TWENTY-FIVE--
YOU HEARD ME! AN' IT'S ALL I GOT BUT IT'S WORTH IT--NOW GIT GOIN' AN' IF I HEAR ONCE MORE THAT---

THAT'S FUNNY! THEY'RE TRAPPED IN THAT BLIND CANYON - WALLS HUNDREDS OF FEET HIGH - AT FIRST THEY WERE ANXIOUS TO BE RESCUED -- BUT NOW THEY SIGNAL -- "NEVER MIND" -
IT WAS AFTER WE DROPPED THE MESSAGE TELLING THAT THE MINE IS FLOODED --
THEY WERE IN THAT MINE -- IN SOME WAY THEY ESCAPED THE POISON GAS AND THE FLOOD -- BUT WHY DO THEY REFUSE TO BE RESCUED NOW?
I DO NOT KNOW -- BUT ASSUREDLY SAHIB WARBUCKS HAS A REASON --- THAT IS SUFFICIENT EXPLANATION FOR ME -
GEE! I STILL THINK WE'RE TAKIN' AN AWFUL CHANCE - ONE SLIP AND WE'LL ALL DROWN IN HERE LIKE RATS IN A TRAP -
ONE CAN ILL AFFORD TO MAKE SLIPS WHEN ONE'S LIFE IS AT STAKE -
BUT LOOK! TH' WATER IN THAT MINE MUST BE A MILE DEEP! THINK O' TH' PRESSURE! NOW "DADDY'S" GONE BACK IN THERE TO WHERE YOU BLASTED THAT TUNNEL SHUT -
YES -- WITH THAT BARRIER REMOVED THE MINE WILL BE DRAINED AS ONE DRAINS A BATH TUB - ONE WELL-SET BLAST ---
YEAH! BUT IT'S ALL DOWN HILL FROM THERE TO HERE - THAT WATER WILL RUSH INTO TH' CAVE AN' RIGHT ON DOWN ONTO US!
EXACTLY! AND IT WILL FILL THIS CANYON TO THE BRIM --- BUT IN HERE IT WILL RISE SLOWLY ---
BUT IT WILL RISE! WHY, TH' WATER IN HERE WILL GET FIVE HUNDRED FEET DEEP! IF ANYTHING SHOULD GO WRONG ---
NOAH, FROM ALL REPORTS, RODE A GREATER FLOOD WITH SAFETY --- AS THE MINE EMPTIES WE SHALL RISE ON OUR SMALL ARK TO DELIVERANCE -
HM-M -- MAYBE --- GEE! "DADDY'S" BEEN GONE IN THERE A LONG TIME -- COURSE IT'S A LONG WAY BACK THROUGH TH' CAVE AND ALL, TO THAT BLOCKED TUNNEL ---
YES -- AND ALSO A LONG WAY BACK OUT --- BUT HE WILL SET A LONG FUSE --
MOISTURE! FORCED THROUGH! PLENTY PRESSURE FROM BEYOND - WHOLE RIVER BACK OF THAT! WELL! THAT OUGHT TO DO THE TRICK! NOW TO GET OUT OF HERE -----
NOV 9
LONGEST FUSE I COULD LAY --- BUT I'LL HAVE TO HUSTLE! GAD! IT'S SURE STARTING FAST --- RUN FOR IT --- IT'S GOING TO BE NIP AND TUCK THROUGH THAT CAVE ---

THE BEDOUINS REFUSED TO LEND TARZAN A CAMEL TO CROSS THE DESERT IN QUEST OF ALLIES AGAINST DAGGA RAMBA. "SOME DAY DAGGA RAMBA WILL TURN ON YOU," HE ARGUED. THE SHORT-SIGHTED BEDOUINS WERE NOT PERSUADED.
"THEN AGAINST YOUR WISH, I'LL BORROW A CAMEL," THE APE MAN SAID. THEY LAUGHED AT HIS AUDACITY.
"IF YOU CAN MAKE AWAY WITH A CAMEL—AND YOUR LIFE, TOO--YOU'RE WELCOME TO BOTH," THE SHIEK CHUCKLED.
"I THANK YOU IN ADVANCE," TARZAN SMILED, "FOR I'LL SOON BE VERY BUSY ACCEPTING YOUR GIFT."
WITH LIGHTNING SPEED HE DARTED BEHIND A TENT. THE STARTLED BEDOUINS FOLLOWED AS HE DODGED IN AND OUT.
THEY DARED NOT FIRE AT THE FUGITIVE FOR FEAR OF ENDANGERING THEIR WOMEN AND CHILDREN.
AMONG THE TENTS TARZAN FOUND A CAMEL HE HAD SEEN WANDERING FROM THE HERD.
THE OLD SHEIK FORESAW TARZAN'S PLAN. "WE'LL WAIT," HE WHISPERED, "AND WHEN HE RIDES OUT, WE'LL SHOOT."
TARZAN YELLED TO THE BEAST. "HI-YAH!" IT STARTED TO RUN. THE APE-MAN LEAPED ABOARD.
A MOMENT LATER THE HEAD OF THE RUNNING CAMEL EMERGED FROM BEHIND A TENT.

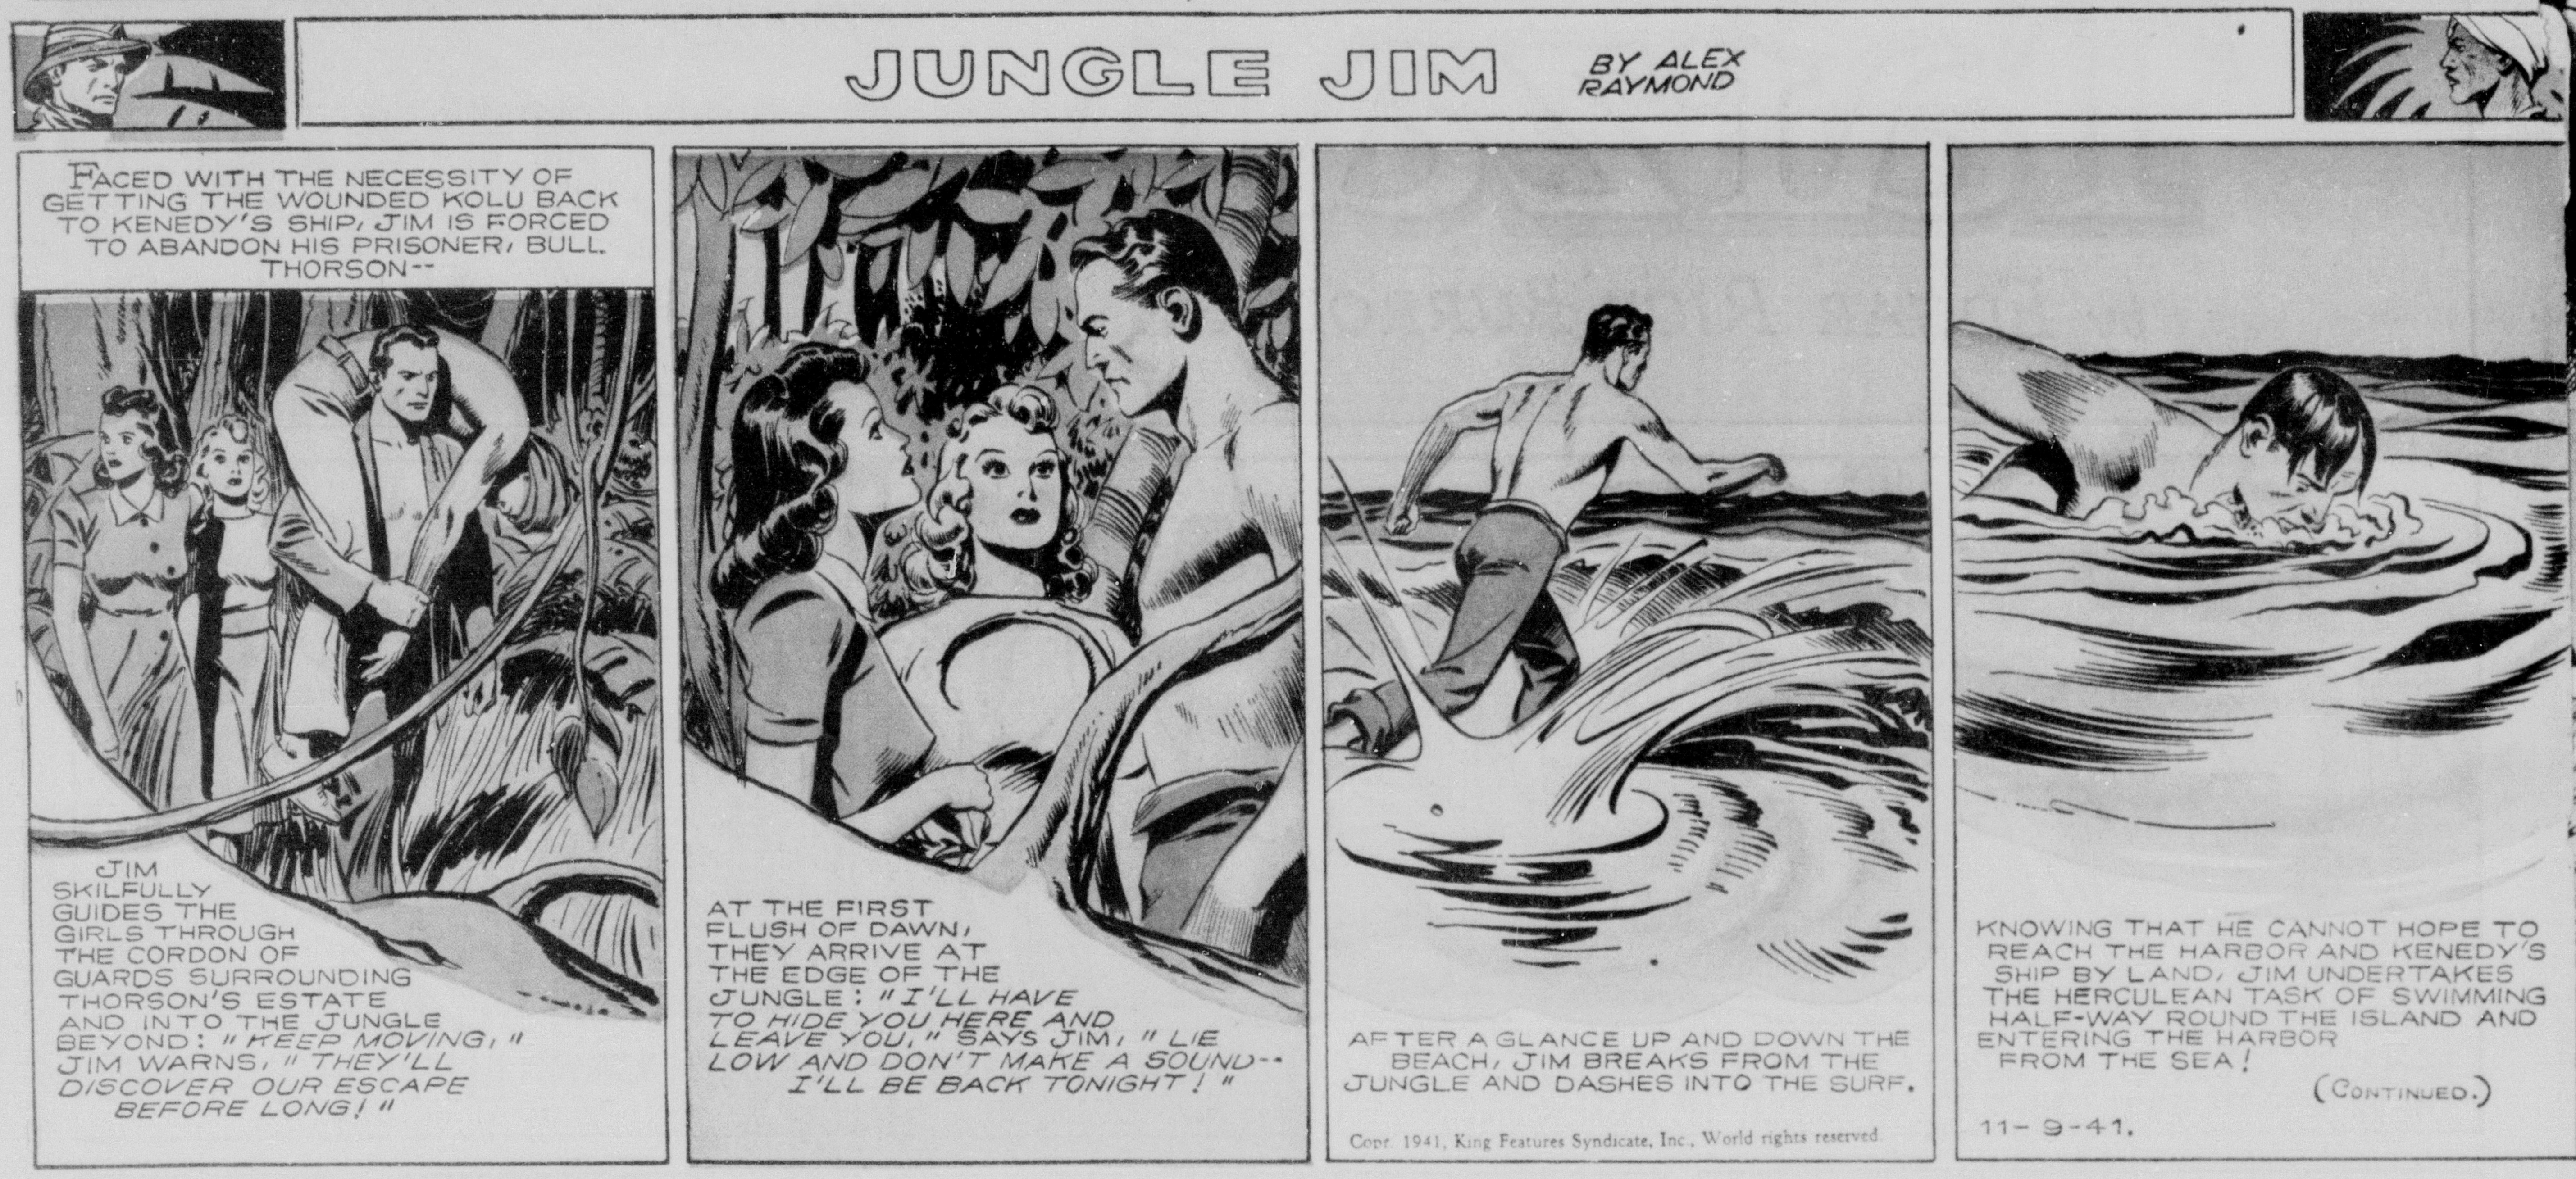
JUNGLE JIM

BY ALEX RAYMOND



FACED WITH THE NECESSITY OF GETTING THE WOUNDED KOLU BACK TO KENEDY'S SHIP, JIM IS FORCED TO ABANDON HIS PRISONER, BULL THORSON--
JIM SKILFULLY GUIDES THE GIRLS THROUGH THE CORDON OF GUARDS SURROUNDING THORSON'S ESTATE AND INTO THE JUNGLE BEYOND: "KEEP MOVING," JIM WARNS, "THEY'LL DISCOVER OUR ESCAPE BEFORE LONG!"
AT THE FIRST FLUSH OF DAWN, THEY ARRIVE AT THE EDGE OF THE JUNGLE: "I'LL HAVE TO HIDE YOU HERE AND LEAVE YOU," SAYS JIM, "LIE LOW AND DON'T MAKE A SOUND-- I'LL BE BACK TONIGHT!"
AFTER A GLANCE UP AND DOWN THE BEACH, JIM BREAKS FROM THE JUNGLE AND DASHES INTO THE SURF.
KNOWING THAT HE CANNOT HOPE TO REACH THE HARBOR AND KENEDY'S SHIP BY LAND, JIM UNDERTAKES THE HERCULEAN TASK OF SWIMMING HALF-WAY ROUND THE ISLAND AND ENTERING THE HARBOR FROM THE SEA!

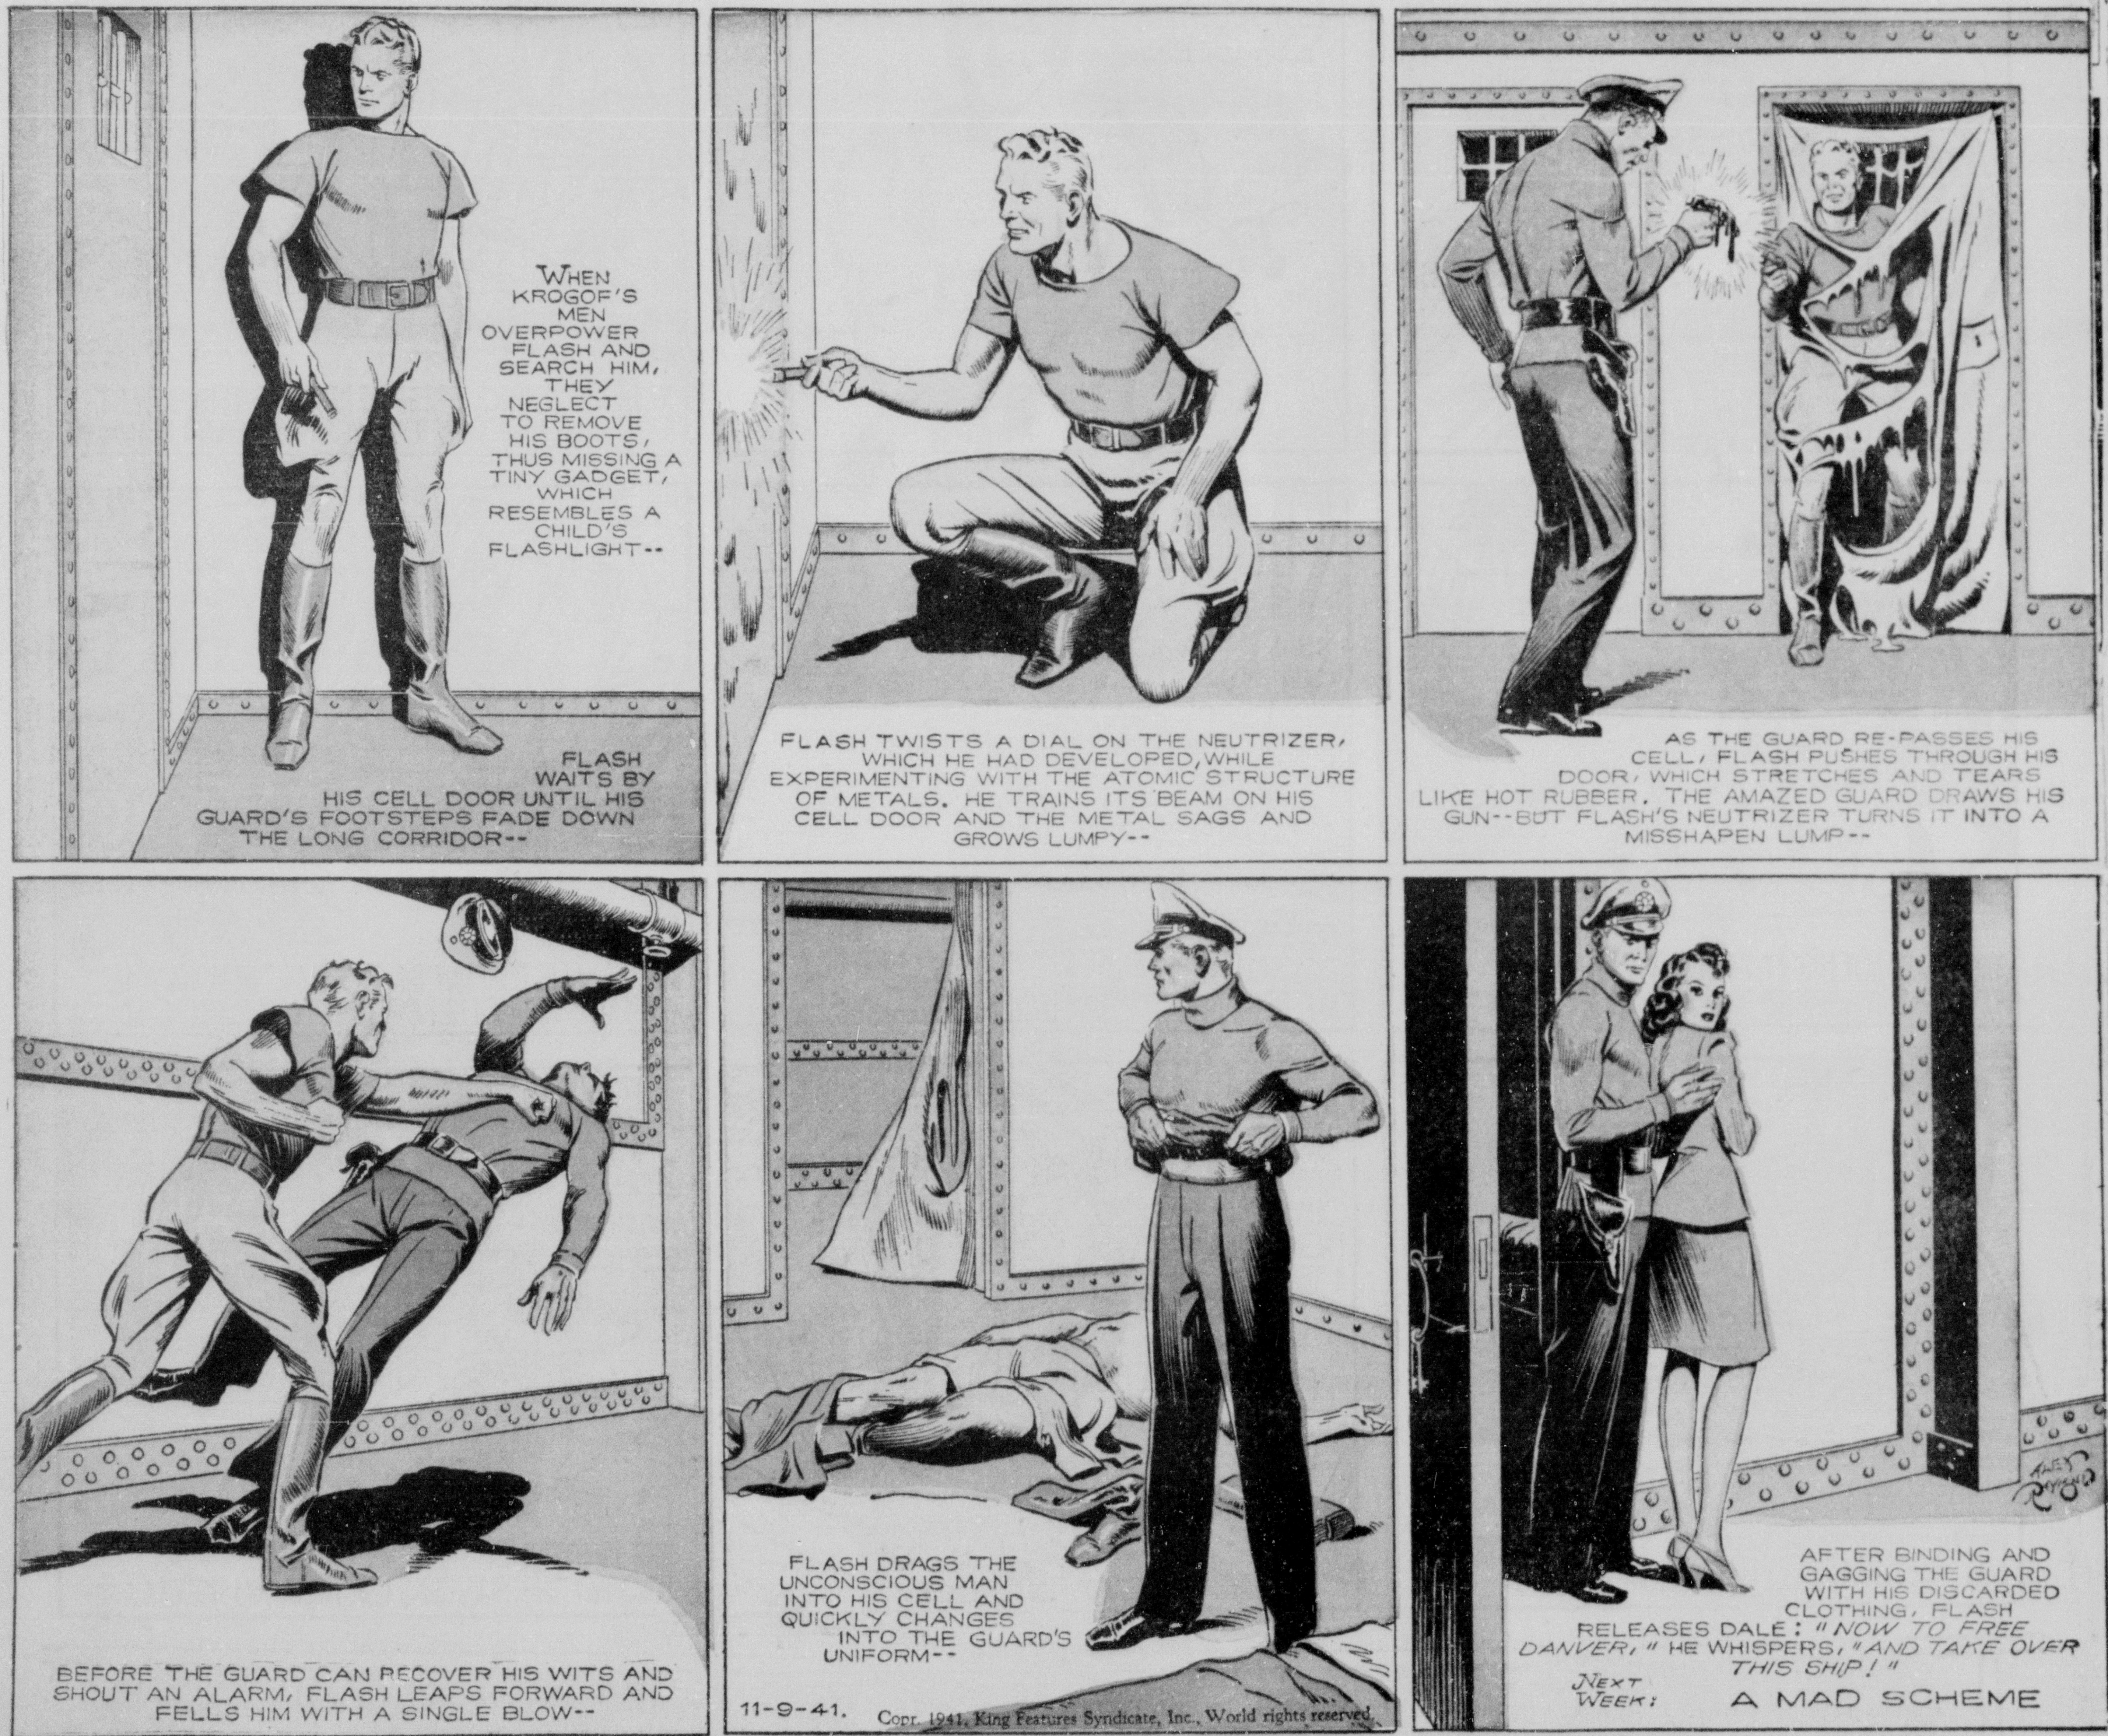
Flash Gordon

Registered U. S. Patent Office



WHEN KROGOF'S MEN OVERPOWER FLASH AND SEARCH HIM, THEY NEGLECT TO REMOVE HIS BOOTS, THUS MISSING A TINY GADGET, WHICH RESEMBLES A CHILD'S FLASHLIGHT--
FLASH WAITS BY HIS CELL DOOR UNTIL HIS GUARD'S FOOTSTEPS FADE DOWN THE LONG CORRIDOR--
FLASH TWISTS A DIAL ON THE NEUTRIZER, WHICH HE HAD DEVELOPED, WHILE EXPERIMENTING WITH THE ATOMIC STRUCTURE OF METALS. HE TRAINS ITS BEAM ON HIS CELL DOOR AND THE METAL SAGS AND GROWS LUMPY--
AS THE GUARD RE-PASSES HIS CELL, FLASH PUSHES THROUGH HIS DOOR, WHICH STRETCHES AND TEARS LIKE HOT RUBBER. THE AMAZED GUARD DRAWS HIS GUN--BUT FLASH'S NEUTRIZER TURNS IT INTO A MISSHAPEN LUMP--
BEFORE THE GUARD CAN RECOVER HIS WITS AND SHOUT AN ALARM, FLASH LEAPS FORWARD AND FELLS HIM WITH A SINGLE BLOW--
